COAL OWNERS, UNION SETTLE BASIS OF CODE

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Agreement on the principal points of dispute in the bituminous coal industry, signifying an end of years of violent warfare, was announced tonight by Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator.

The agreement came at the eleventh hour when it seemed that the recovery administration would write an arbitrary code for that industry.

"Committees of the United Mine Workers and of the operators," Johnson's statement said, "in the Appalachian bituminous field have reached the basis of an agreement covering the principal points at issue and which this administration is willing to recommend to the President. This clears the way to the preparation of an acceptable code. No announcement of provisions can be made until there is agreement on the actual wording of the agreement and the code."

Early Action Expected.

The coal code is expected to be in shape for President Roosevelt's signature within 48 hours. Then all of the key industries of the nation will have been brought under the blue eagle.

Growing more hopeful daily over the prospects of putting over the aims and hopes of the NRA, Gen. Johnson has let it be known that when the coal code is out of the way he will bend his efforts then toward more rigid enforcement of all the codes thus far adopted. He will turn to perfecting and approving hundreds of other codes sidetracked while the codes for the "big five," coal, steel, oil, automobiles, and textiles, were being put through the mill.

The general has stated publicly that from 70 to 80 per cent of American industry already is under codes, and the coal code will bring the percentage close to 90 per cent, if the Johnson estimate is at all accurate.

Points to Concessions.

The statement reveals that the nonunion operators, whose resistance to the demands of the United Mine Workers, both on the question of union recognition and on a wage scale, had held up the writing of the coal code, have fallen in line and have made concessions acceptable to the union and to the recovery administration.

The operators of unionized coal mines, representing substantially a fourth of soft coal production, have been marking time for a week for the nonunion operators to agree or be forced into agreement.

It was reported tonight the nonunion operators would officially recognize the United Mine Workers. While data as to the details of the agreement on wages were withheld, it was learned that a compromise had been reached.

Wage Minimum $4.60?

The union had demanded $5 a day, and the northern and southern nonunion operators first proposed $3.84. The compromise, it was reported, is at $4.60 a day for inside workers in Pennsylvania and Ohio, and $4.20 a day in the southern fields, making a differential of 40 cents a day, or five cents an hour.

The union and the union operators had insisted there was no justification for any differential between north and south, but the union finally agreed, it was reported, to accept the five cent differential, stipulating, however, that it was not to be permanent, nor even to be used as a precedent.

Earlier in the conferences nonunion operators refused to sit with the union representatives at all until pressure was exerted directly by President Roosevelt. The announcement tonight is truly historic, as for many years the Appalachian and southern operators had been in a sporadic state of armed warfare against the unions.

Hold Separate Sessions.

Even this morning, when the nonunion operators went into another session with Kenneth M. Simpson, deputy administrator, they seemed no nearer an agreement with the union representatives. The union leaders

INSULL DEFIES U. S.; SAYS HE'S READY TO FIGHT

Extradition Battle Opens in Athens.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 28.—Samuel Insull, fugitive Chicago utilities magnate, will appear before the court of appeal here tomorrow morning for the second time and plead for Greek protection against extradition to the United States to stand trial—this time for violation of the federal bankruptcy laws.

Tomorrow's procedure is, of course, a mere formality to give legal justification to Insull's arrest last Saturday and it will be a repetition of what happened to Insull here last Nov. 3. The hearing will take place in the same courtroom where last Dec. 27 Insull, backed with affidavits from Floyd Thompson, former Illinois Supreme court justice, won a howling victory over Assistant State's Attorneys Charles A. Bellows and Andrew J. Vlachos.

Faces Stiffer Fight.

At that time the Greek court of appeal ruled that Insull was not guilty of larceny and embezzlement but had merely indulged in a somewhat complicated business practice. The court turned him loose to the plaudits of a Greek crowd.

Insull's fight which begins tomorrow will, however, be against a more formidable opponent. The last time he was battling with Cook county. This time he is sought by the federal government itself, and the Greek courts which a few months ago attempted to interpret Illinois law will in this instance be dealing with federal justice.

Forest Harness, special assistant of United States Attorney General Homer Cummings, is here to represent the interests of American justice and to see whether the extradition treaty signed a year ago is worth much.

Insull Says He's Ready.

Insull said today that he has been expecting this second battle to get him back to America and that he is prepared for it. He said he has just begun to fight.

"You can send for more clothes and prepare to stay here some time," he told THE TRIBUNE correspondent today at Areteion clinic, where he is again confined under guard.

The 73 year old magnate showed more than another year of age since his last trial, but he seemed still full of fight.

In addition to Cristos Ladas, former deputy and former minister of communications, and George Lazarimos, Standard Oil and American Express attorney, Insull will be sitting behind Pericles Rhaili, another high powered attorney, who is also the cousin of two ministers in the present government, when he goes to court tomorrow.

Insull's Fixer Absent.

Peter Vanech, Insull's surly interpreter and fixer, will be absent from tomorrow's court proceedings. Vanech is in town yet, but he has severed his business connections with Insull. His place has been taken by Mrs. Helene Kouryoumdjoglou, who is pretty, 35, and a friend of both Insull and his wife. The latter left here two weeks before Insull's arrest, ostensibly because of the heat.

From what appears here, as tomorrow's court hearings begin the second struggle to extradite Insull, American justice wants to get the former Chicagoan back to the United States to examine him on alleged irregularities in utility companies he organized; but chiefly the American government wants to have a test case on whether the extradition treaty duly ratified by both countries is of any effective use or whether its purposes can be defeated by clever lawyers and legal technicalities.

Read Indictment Today.

The extradition proceedings may be long drawn out. Insull can only be extradited if the charge against him is an offense against Greek as well as American law. Lawyers here say that violation of the bankruptcy law is a much milder offense under Greek law than embezzlement and larceny, with which Insull was charged in the earlier proceedings.

In court tomorrow Insull will be identified and then the Greek prosecuting attorney will read the indictment against him and show that the offense with which Insull is charged is covered by the extradition treaty and that, therefore, his provisional arrest last Saturday shou' be maintained so that Insull can be prevented from escaping until he has stood a regular trial. Insull's lawyers will argue that he ought not to have been arrested and should be released.

'Tiger Girl' Faces Jury in Holdup Killing

Four alleged murderers, one of them a woman, were placed on trial yesterday before two Criminal court judges. This is the final week of the crime war under the leadership of Chief Justice John Prystalski and it is to be devoted to an effort to mete out quick justice to defendants accused of murders during the past month.

John Scheck, 20 years old, murderer of Policeman John Sevick, saw a jury pledged to inflict the death penalty in a proper case sworn in before Judge Harry B. Miller in three hours. It was the Sevick murder in Judge Charles P. Molthrop's court which started the crime war which so far has resulted in 213 defendants being sentenced to the penitentiary and one to the electric chair. Four defendants were convicted and sentenced yesterday.

Jarman Woman on Trial.

In Judge Philip Finnegan's court the selection of a jury to try Mrs. Eleanor Jarman, 30 years old, a divorcee characterized by police as a "blonde tigress," and two co-defendants, George Dale, alias Kennedy, 28, and Leo Minneci, 27, also was selected in the first day of the trial.

The jury in the Jarman case also is pledged to inflict the death penalty if the facts of the killing of Gustave Hoeh, 71 year old haberdasher who was shot to death three weeks ago in his store at 5948 West Division street, justify the infliction of the extreme penalty.

Efforts to delay the murder trials by defense attorneys were to no avail. The Jarman case originally was scheduled to go to trial before Judge Marcus Kavanagh, veteran of the judiciary. When the case was called for trial a change of venue petition was presented to Judge Kavanagh and the case was sent to Chief Justice Prystalski. The latter questioned the defendants individually and asked if they thought any other judges besides Kavanagh were prejudiced against them. They picked out Judges Miller and Kickham Scanlan.

Reject Excuses for Delays.

Judge Finnegan, who started his first day on volunteer Criminal court service, was asked if he could start immediate trial of the case. When he replied that he could, the case was assigned to him. The defense attorneys then had several more excuses for a continuance, but Judge Finnegan ordered a jury in the box and the trial was started.

The defense attorneys then exhibited a desire to spend several days picking the jury. The judge served notice that court would remain in session until the jury was sworn in. The lawyers protested several times that they had pangs of hunger, but the judge kept on until nearly 5 o'clock when the

A ROCKEFELLER RUNS OUT OF OIL AND GETS A PUSH

Boston, Mass., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Gasoline, on which his father and grandfather had made millions, became a crying need to Winthrop Rockefeller today.

Rockefeller took time off from his first day's work in the Boston office of his family's concern to drive to Hull for a swim and dinner. As he was motoring with a Yale classmate, Bowen Carleton Tufts, through Hingham, their big car began to sputter, backfired and finally died.

A motorist came by with his girl and Tufts stopped him.

"Please, sir, this is Mr. Rockefeller. Will you give us a push to a gasoline station?"

The motorist did, the tank was filled and Rockefeller drove on.

Vote on Repeal Set for Today in Washington

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Repeal organizations predicted tonight that Washington voters would cast a majority of two to one against prohibition at the state election tomorrow on repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Dry headquarters issued a statement saying the vote may prove a surprise to those forecasting big wet majorities.

Washington is the 24th state to vote on repeal, 23 other states having voted against national prohibition.

Just a Cup of Tea; Norman Has No Confab

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Montagu Norman, governor of the bank of England, came and saw today, but he did not conquer. He came to the summer White House. He saw the President, just as he had asked to do, but he didn't get a chance to talk stabilization.

A cup of tea defeated the Briton noted for the finesse and williness with which he has been able to make American bankers see the English point of view.

Mr. Norman, who loves to travel mysteriously under the alias of Professor Clarence Skinner, came here in the company of George L. Harrison, governor of the New York Federal Reserve bank. Talk of stabilizing the dollar and the pound filled the air.

The Press—Horrors!

On the way to the President's home, the two bankers stopped off at the Poughkeepsie hotel where the correspondents are quartered. The British banker with his famous pointed beard raised horrified hands when asked what he intended to discuss with the President and why he had requested the audience.

The list of appointments had Mr. Norman and Mr. Harrison listed as coming for tea. But that was considered just a way of putting it. The two have long been seeking presidential approval for some way of steadying international exchange. To date, that approval has been strictly withheld.

They arrived at the summer White House. It was the President's cue to sit them in the privacy of his study and talk about their favorite topic.

Tea—and Guests.

It wasn't the study but the drawing room into which they were ushered. And there was actually tea. Not only tea, but guests. Mrs. Roosevelt was a charming hostess. Mrs. James Roosevelt, the President's mother, was delighted to receive the distinguished visitors. George Foster Peabody, friend of the President, was honored to meet Mr. Norman. Prince Louis Ferdinand, second son of former Crown Prince Wilhelm of Germany, offered Mr. Norman another sandwich.

Friends and neighbors dropped in for a cup and a chat. And the President was most affable and ready to talk about anything—except stabilization.

Minneapolis Teachers' Pay Is Reduced 30 Per Cent

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 28.—(AP)—The city board of education today voted to cut the salaries of teachers and other school employés 30 per cent for the remainder of the year. Already under a 15 per cent cut in salary they also will have to take vacations of two weeks without pay. The deficit was estimated at $681,000.

2 Young Men Reach Shore; Third Missing

Three youths battled death for hours last night in Lake Michigan off Gary, Ind., after their sailboat had been capsized. Two of them swam three miles to shore, landing at the Ogden dunes. The third youth is missing.

The youths are Lawrence Carlson, 21 years old, of Muskegon, owner of the boat; Glen Smith, also of Muskegon, and Frank York, 21 years old, 6648 North Maplewood avenue, Chicago.

On Way Home from Fair.

The voyagers left Chicago shortly before noon, the Muskegon youths on their way home after a week's visit to the Fair, and York, a third member of the crew, picked up after Ray Anderson of Muskegon had returned home. Their boat, Sonia, was an 18 foot converted rowboat which carried four sails.

They hoped to make Michigan City before nightfall, but a storm which came up greatly retarded their progress and finally capsized their craft about 4 p. m., when they were three miles off the Ogden dunes and about eight miles east of Gary.

The young men were thrown into the stormy water. There they remained valiantly fighting to keep their hold on the side of the boat as the waves dashed over them. They succeeded in righting the boat once only to have a wave overturn it again.

Decide to Save Selves.

Finally they decided, at about 7:30 o'clock, that one must try to swim ashore. Smith, being the best swimmer, struck out. The other two were to remain and lash themselves to the boat to keep from drowning in the event they became unconscious. But about an hour after Smith left they decided help would never come and that they might as well try to follow Smith, so they began the three mile swim.

Smith landed about 10 o'clock, near the eastern edge of the Ogden dunes summer colony. He struggled toward the nearest light which was in the cottage of Philip R. Anderson, and sent word to the Michigan City coast guard that his two companions were still on the boat out in the lake.

Land Six Miles Apart.

Meanwhile York and Carlson were still battling their way toward shore. York landed about six miles west of where Smith put in at about 11:30. He crawled toward a parked automobile and its occupants took him to the Mercy hospital in Gary.

Carlson, who was not as good a swimmer as the other two, dropped behind York and at an early hour this morning was still missing. Hope was held for him, however, from the fact that he wore a life preserver. This would prevent him from sinking, but not save him from exposure and exhaustion, coast guards said.

THREE GUNMEN SLAY 2 MEN IN CROWDED CAFE

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Three swarthy gunmen strode into the crowded and brilliantly lighted Bella Napoli café at 721 North Vermont avenue at the dinner hour tonight, trapped a pair of victims, and sprayed them with a fusillade from three automatic pistols. Both men fell dead.

The victims were identified as Harry Mackley, owner of a hat store in New York City, and F. Keller of St. Louis, Mo. Each was about 30 years of age and well dressed.

The men were being served the first course of their meal when the three executioners with hats pulled down over their eyes walked swiftly into the dining room and to the booth where their victims sat, and without comment each gunman fired. With guns still held menacingly as they backed out of the café, the trio entered an automobile and escaped.

Wounded by Gang, Huey Asserts.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Huey P. [Call Me Kingfish] Long, United States senator from Louisiana, remained in seclusion in his room on the nineteenth floor of the Hotel Schroeder here tonight. He was nursing a wound on his forehead, the senator said, while other reports described the injury as an imposing black eye.

According to reports from New York, the senator from Louisiana received the injury from a well directed punch, aimed by a highly indignant gentleman whose name is not publicly known. According to a formal statement given out by the senator tonight, the senator suffered the wound from the knife of one of three or four ruffians who ganged him.

Where Accounts Agree.

Both accounts agree that the incident took place in the fashionable Sands Point club, Long Island, early Sunday morning. Both agree also that the fight was one-sided. Witnesses state that the highly indignant gentleman shellacked the Louisiana senator's countenance in a vigorous manner, and that the senator had no chance. The senator's story also pointed out that he had no chance.

The senator, who came here from New York to address the Veterans of Foreign Wars, of which he is an honorary member, guarded himself from interviewers and cameramen today and tonight. His contact men were Congressman Ray Cannon and Peter Zisch. Zisch is president of the Milwaukeean Coroner's association. His job was to cheer Long up. Both contact men met newspaper reporters. The senator was indisposed, especially to cameramen, they said. It was quietly admitted the senator did not want his picture taken because the forehead wound would show.

Senator Issues Statement.

After a while Senator Long emerged from his seclusion long enough to hand out a written statement on the Long Island fight. The statement mentioned that the senator avoided discussing the incident until the matter appeared in the papers. Then he told of the fight.

"On Saturday night, persons connected with the music composers and publishers asked me to attend a charity benefit to be given on Long Island," read the statement. "I consented. I had been there [the Sands Point club] some 20 minutes or more when I walked into the wash room. Just as I faced the basin and the wall, some one struck me from behind, and upon my turning, three or four men covered me. I saw one strike at my head with a knife or something sharp, and I ducked, so that it grazed my forehead.

"Couldn't Find Assailant."

"One man was blocking the door, but I stumbled low, threw him, and managed to wriggle clear. I felt blood coming down my face from where I was cut. Someone connected with the business met me. Also called some of my friends. We rushed back to the washroom, but all the persons had escaped, and no one had seen them to identify one of them. We have tried to find the persons who did the damage. Except for a scar over the left eye, nothing remains to show for the Saturday ganging."

Senator Long added a postscript to the effect that he had been repeatedly threatened, and that warnings had been given him, even by column writers, that such a happening would take place. He added further he was lucky to have escaped with such a "trivial injury."

The statement handed out, the Louisiana kingfish talked about national recovery, politics, and so forth, and then shooed the interviewers out. He promised to appear before the veterans in the morning, wound or no wound, and give 'em a good talk.

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana, who regards himself as a fighter, met a fistic Waterloo at the Sands Point club on Long Island early Sunday morning. The story of the battle came to light this morning as the kingfish was en route to Milwaukee.

The senator, it appears, offended a mild mannered man at the club whereupon the mild mannered man, without regard for the senator's high political position, smacked him down with a straight right which witnesses described as reminiscent of Dempsey's best days.

The identity of the man who trounced the senator is not generally known. He himself, has kept it secret.

According to the stories going the rounds, Senator Long was one of 600 guests at the club, attending a charity affair given by music composers and publishers. Everything went well until some 20 or 30 minutes after the Louisiana senator's arrival.

Then things happened. The mild mannered gentleman was standing alone, minding his own business. Senator Long walked up to him and made a move. Witnesses did not describe it in detail, but said any man would have resented it. The mild mannered man did.

He swung his right fist and it landed squarely above the senator's left eye. The senator went down. He got up and fought back, but his foe piled into him with overwhelming rushes. Witnesses said that Senator Long would have fared worse but for the intervention of a club attendant who stopped the fight.

Long Puts Up Poor Battle.

Senator Long, according to one account, did not put up as good a battle as might have been expected from a self proclaimed scrapper.

After being saved from further pummeling, Senator Long was put into an automobile by friends, and taken to a doctor where his injuries were dressed. They were not serious.

Friends of the senator were reticent on the matter today. It was said that the senator was a guest at the party with Jack Curley, the fight promoter. Curley told friends, according to reports, that an "unidentified assailant" struck Long.

Efforts from here to get a statement by phone from Long in Milwaukee were rebuffed. The senator answered questions with questions, and then closed his conversation with a burst of highly seasoned epithets, applied to the caller.

DEMANDS TEST FOR LAWYERS AFTER 5 YEARS

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 28.—(AP)—A Texas lawyer took his profession to task today. He is Davis A. Simmons of Houston, Tex., vice president of the American Bar association, starting a one day conference, a prelude to the American Bar association convention on Wednesday.

Mr. Simmons suggested a probationary period of three to five years after graduation from law school Then the probationer would have to account to some governing board, proving he not only was an able counsel but had resisted successfully the temptations to resort to the unscrupulous in practice and in private life.

As an added safeguard Mr. Simmons suggested that a limitation by state quotas be placed on the number of persons who could be licensed to practice law.

QUIZ WIDOW OF MURDERED SEATTLE DOCTOR

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 29 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Mrs. Lily Banka Gaines, widow of Dr. James I. Gaines, who was mysteriously shot to death in a driveway of his home two weeks ago, was detained in the city hall last night. The prosecutor said she was "held only for questioning."

Admits Poison Death; Plot to Kill His Father

Pittsfield, Ill., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Sheriff Ivis Johnson of Pike county announced tonight that Charles Hall, son of a wealthy farmer, signed a confession admitting he placed rat poison in coffee drunk by Mrs. Lucy Tucker, who died today. Johnson announced Hall had said he tried to kill his father, Thomas, who is recovering from the effects of poison. Hall admitted, according to the sheriff, that he and his father had quarreled. Mrs. Tucker, who was 76 years old, was employed as a nurse by the elder Hall.

Motorcycle Escorts Hit by Evanston Alderman

Ald. Herbert S. Simpson of Evanston began an economy movement before the Evanston city council last night. He introduced a resolution providing that hereafter no police motorcycle escorts are to be accorded celebrities visiting Evanston except by special order of the mayor. This courtesy costs Evanston $600 a year, said Ald. Simpson, and should be eliminated in the interests of economy.

FOUR ACCUSED OF MURDER, ONE A WOMAN, ON TRIAL

panel was sworn in. The defense lawyers took only married men on the jury. Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert Crowley, however, pledged them not to be swayed by the fact that a woman is a defendant.

Scheck Trial Moves Fast.

The Scheck trial moved with unusual speed. Before the day was over Assistant State's Attorneys Mal Coghlan and A. L. Hornick had called eleven witnesses to testify regarding the attempted escape of Scheck and the murder of Policeman Sevick. The first witness was Policeman Joseph Sevick, 4359 George street, a brother of the dead policeman. He proved the corpus delicti, or the death of his brother.

John S. Kavanagh, 218 South Seeley avenue, who was a bailiff at the time and who lost his job over the Scheck affair, was the second witness. His story was much the same as all the other witnesses, who were jurors in the courtroom at the time, bailiffs and court attaches. Judge Molthrop is expected to be a witness today.

Q.—Did anything unusual happen on July 24? A.—Yes, a prisoner tried to escape from Judge Mothrop's courtroom.

Q.—Tell just what happened as you remember it. A.—The detention room door was opened to take some prisoners back to jail from the courtroom. Scheck was one of them. When his name was called he started toward the courtroom instead of the prison elevator. I raised my hand to start him in the right direction. He made a quick jump behind me. He said, 'I've got a gun; get down on your knees.' I got down on my knees and he shouted, 'Get down further, you so and so.' He gave me a kick in the ribs. I started to crawl toward the bullpen door.

Sees Policeman Fall.

Q.—What happened after that? A.—I turned my head about that time and saw two forms disappearing through the door. I jumped up and ran to the courtroom. I did not see the men, but I yelled a warning into the courtroom that two men were loose with a gun. I started back to the anterooms to look for them and about that time I heard some shots in the courtroom. I ran back to the courtroom just in time to see the policeman fall.

Q.—Did you do anything after you ran into the courtroom? A.—I ran up to the fallen officer and took his revolver. He was reluctant to give it to me at first. After I got the revolver I ran into the hall and saw the men going to the stairs. Sheck turned and fired a couple of shots at me. I emptied the policeman's gun at him. I ran down the stairs after the men, but when I saw the policemen with guns out I thought they would shoot me and I dropped the gun I had.

Among other witnesses were Herman Klugman and J. M. Zimmerman, who were jurors in a case going on at the time; Edward J. Ryan and William P. Farrell, former bailiffs; Public Defender John M. Brannion and Policemen Willis H. Brennan and Patrick McNamara, who captured Scheck.

Companion Accuses Scheck.

The star witness for the state today is to be Carl Grundhoefer, who was Scheck's companion in the attempted escape. He will claim that Scheck forced him to make the attempted escape and gave him a black eye when he did not move quickly enough. Grundhoefer is indicted jointly with Scheck for the murder of Charles Mueller, a Niles Center bank cashier.

A third murder case will go to trial this morning before Judge Kavanagh. The defendants are Chester Gallas and James Kuratko, who are charged with murdering Jacob C. Pederson, a Cicero avenue street car conductor, during a robbery three weeks ago. Defense Attorney Julius Skrydlewski filed a petition for a change of venue from Cook county, charging that the public was so inflamed by newspaper articles that a fair trial could not be had. The attorney said "THE TRIBUNE is the worst offender."

Awaken Public Conscience.

"I think the newspapers have merely awakened the conscience of the people of this county," replied the judge.

The judge then called attention to the different attitude toward criminals in foreign countries, where punishment is sure and swift. He also cited the efforts to prevent capital punishment.

"There isn't any instrument in the world that is such a deterrent to murder as capital punishment," said the judge.

After the change of venue petition was denied the attorney sought a fifteen day continuance. This also was denied and the trial will start this morning.

Day's Prison Sentences.

HAROLD HILSON and JOHN FLAHERTY sentenced to 1 to 10 years each by Judge Kavanagh for automobile larceny. They were convicted of stealing the automobile of Martha Munson from in front of 2433 Fulton street on March 16.

EDWARD L. JOHNSON, 35, sentenced to 1 year to life by Judge Donald McKinlay, for burglary of a rooming house at 1311 East Sixty-seventh street, on June 23.

PETER SPILA, 33, sentenced to 1 year to life by Judge Kickham Scanlan, for robbery of a grocery at 1332 Cleaver street, on Aug. 5.

Eleven judges, including Judge Denis E. Sullivan, who has not served in the Criminal court in about 20 years, were on the job yesterday.

Two short continuances were granted in two other murder cases which were on the calendars yesterday. James Ryan, alleged Touhy gangster, who is charged with slaying John Rinelli, a roadhousekeeper, was granted a continuance because of a missing witness. Peter [Picolo Pete] Pace, alleged slayer of Policeman Patrick J. Ryan, was granted a continuance of one week by Judge Molthrop. Attorney Samuel Hoffman asked for thirty days.

3 Young Hoodlums Sentenced to Cell Under New 'Vag' Law

Three young hoodlums, described by Supervising Capt. John Stege as of the "mad dog" type of rising gunmen who are more dangerous to common citizens than established gangsters, were convicted yesterday under the new "criminal reputation" vagrancy act. They were the first to be convicted under this law.

Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green immediately sentenced the three to the maximum sentences permitted by the law, six months in the bridewell. The prisoners are Vito Lanasa, 19 years old, 2163 Meade avenue; George Myers, 20 years old, 1231 South Spaulding avenue; and Edward Parker, 20 years old, 6937 West 29th street, Berwyn.

The drive against the "mad dog" gunmen, in which Capt. Stege said he expects to obtain 75 more warrants soon, is a corollary to the police campaign to put the "big shots" of gangland behind the bars by use of the same vagrancy statute.

McGurn Due in Court Today.

Mahine Gun Jack McGurn, first gangster to be arrested on 25 warrants for "public enemies" issued last week by Judge Green, is expected to appear in court today. He was turned over to federal officials yesterday for questioning regarding kidnapings, and by them returned to police later in the day. Chief of Detectives Shoemaker ordered him booked under the vagrancy act last evening. He was released at midnight on a $10,000 cash bond furnished by Robert Marcus.

James Belcastro, public enemy, who is known as the "king of the bombers," was arrested at 77th street and Marshfield avenue last night by Sergt. Charles McMullen and a police squad. Belcastro was on his way to his home at 7726 South Marshfield avenue when McMullen stopped him and served him with one of the warrants issued by Judge Green against many hoodlums. Belcastro surrendered meekly, got into the police car and was driven to the detective bureau.

Another hoodlum on the public enemy list arrested yesterday on a new vagrancy warrant was James Adducci, 39 years old, 1447 Spruce street. He was the "Jimmy Ducci" mentioned in the letter written by "Mike de Pike" Heitler, naming men who might kill him. The note was found by the police after Heitler's body, badly burned and containing several bullets, was discovered in a burned icehouse near Barrington three years ago.

All Have Police Records.

All three of the young gunmen sentenced by Judge Green had previous criminal records. Capt. Stege said on the witness stand that he was certain that they were responsible for the recent murder of two policemen in the Warren avenue police district, but that he had been unable so far to get evidence of that crime against them.

Lanasa was put on probation for a year, when he was found guilty of robbery with a gun in April, 1932. He had boasted to the police of taking part in fifty robberies and burglaries, witnesses said, but he refused to tell details of his crimes and no witnesses were found who would identify him.

Meyer, whose nickname is "Petrack," was committed to St. Charles School for Boys in 1929 after he had been taken into the Juvenile court on a charge of robbery. Later that year he was shot, and Lieut. Walter Storms testified that he admitted taking part in numerous robberies, but like Lanasa, he refused to give details on which he might have been convicted.

Two Years in Leavenworth.

Parker served two years in Leavenworth federal penitentiary for violation of the Dyer anti-automobile theft act and last year, in spite of his previous record, was granted probation when he was found guilty of robbery in Oak Park.

The defense attorney demanded a jury trial when the three youths were arraigned before Judge Green. Having no jurors in his own court, Judge Green went to Chief Justice Prystalski of the Criminal court, got a venire of Criminal court jurors and started the trial.

Assistant State's Attorneys John S. Boyle and Frank Righeimer Jr. prosecuted the case. The jury returned a verdict of guilty after 20 minutes.

TRIES TO SAVE HIS KIN IN CELL; HELD AS SLAYER

Peter Manzoni, 20 years old, was held by New Orleans police last night as the confessed murderer of a Chicago youth, Ralph Pisano, 17 years old, who was shot and killed last Christmas night in front of 417 South Western avenue.

Solution of the crime came about unwittingly and unexpectedly. Several days ago the New Orleans authorities arrested Peter's brother, Americo Manzoni, on a charge of killing Maurice Marcusson, a Chicago policeman. Marcusson was shot when he foiled a plan to rob a loop finance office.

Yesterday Peter Manzoni walked into the New Orleans police headquarters. "My brother isn't guilty of that murder," he announced. "I did it." Police figured Peter's act was perhaps inspired by brotherly devotion, so they questioned him about the Marcusson killing. But Peter described a different one—that of young Pisano. He was promptly locked up. He had unwittingly given himself up for the wrong crime.

LOAN TO SETTLE GERMAN JEWS IN PALESTINE URGED

U. S. Zionist Leader Asks League's Assistance.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 28.—[Jewish Telegraphic Agency.]—Morris Rothenberg of New York, president of the Zionist Organization of America, urged at the World Zionist congress today that the league of nations assist in putting through an international loan to finance the settlement of German Jews in Palestine.

"World Jewry, even American Jewry, can not now contribute much for the repatriation of German Jews," Mr. Rothenberg said. "However, an international loan could be secured if the sympathetic interest of the league of nations and the mandatory power [Great Britain] could be enlisted.

Demands Solution of Problem.

"We are aware that the present economic condition of the European countries is not too favorable for such an appeal. We refuse, however, to believe that when a large part of the Jewish people is deliberately crushed, mankind will decline to come to its aid.

"The world that created the Jewish problem must help to solve it. American Zionists are also encouraged to believe that the United States government, which has shown great interest in the Jewish national home with its indorsing of the Balfour declaration, will find a way, as it did in the case of the Greek repatriation, to coöperate in any practical scheme that may be undertaken for the solution of the tragic problem of Jewish homelessness."

Meanwhile, the reported insistence of Dr. Chaim Weizmann, former president of the Zionist organization, that he be empowered to name the executive body of the organization and that the present structure of the Jewish agency for Palestine be maintained confronted the congress.

Delegation's Plea Fails.

Dr. Weizmann is not attending the congress, but is at a resort in Czechoslovakia. A delegation representing the Laborite party, the largest faction in the congress, returned tonight after unsuccessful negotiations aimed at Dr. Weizmann's acceptance of the presidency.

The Zionist leader expressed determination, it was learned, not to accept the presidency unless he is given authority to nominate the executive body and unless the congress agrees to maintain the present arrangement of the Jewish agency. The agency is composed half of Zionists and half of non-Zionists.

Every faction represented at the congress demanded that the non-Zionist representation on the body, which represents Jewry in connection with Palestine in all dealings with Great Britain and with the league, should be reduced. Among the American non-Zionist members of the agency are Felix M. Warburg, Dr. Cyrus Adler, and Rabbi Samuel Schulman.

General Session Today.

The tension of the congress following upon testimony in Palestine that members of the Revisionist party [extreme right wing Zionists] had allegedly conspired to use terror and violence continued unabated. The general session of the congress, which was to have been held tonight, was postponed until tomorrow.

IDENTIFIES SON'S BODY.

J. Balchun, 1627 South Ruble street, yesterday identified the body of a boy who died on Friday at the county hospital after falling from a building at West 18th and South Halsted streets as that of his son, Vincent, 13 years old.

NAZIS SEEK TO STOP WOMAN FROM WEARING PAJAMAS IN PUBLIC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 28.—"Women who feel compelled to imitate men by wearing pajamas and shorts may do so in the privacy of their homes or when engaged in sports, but in public the female sex must choose clothing within the boundaries of decency and morals."

This resolution was passed by the Nazi party at Zehlendorf today. It also requested the police and the minister of interior to act "to damn this Jewish fashion plague." In Berlin Friedrich Eberstrasse, a thoroughfare running from the reichstag to Potsdamerplatz and named for the first president of the German republic, was renamed Hermann Goeringstrasse in honor of the premier of Prussia.

OFFICIALS LEAVE TODAY TO ASK U.S. CASH FOR RELIEF

A deficit of $1,854,212 is faced by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission in funds needed for relief in September, it was announced yesterday by Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary. Mr. Reynolds, Joseph J. Rice, state director of finance, and De Witt Billman, secretary of the legislative reference bureau, will leave today for Washington to confer with Harry L. Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator, on methods of obtaining the needed funds.

The commission estimated the deficit on the basis of $26,000,000 being made available for relief for the last six months of the year from sales tax collections and matched grants from the federal government. Commitments against this total for July and August will reach $11,794,000, leaving only $14,206,000 available for the remaining four months, or $3,551,500 for each month. The commission estimates it will need a total of $5,405,712 for relief next month, which gives the deficit of $1,854,212.

U. S. 'INFLUENCE' CITED IN JAPAN'S ASSASSIN TRIAL

Defense Points to Naval Treaty "Betrayal."

TOKIO, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The alleged influence of the United States on Japanese civilian officials was cited in the defense of 11 naval officers charged with complicity in the assassination last year of Premier Isuyoshi Inukai, as their court martial neared an end today.

The young officers were justified, their attorneys held, in considering acceptance by Japan of the London naval treaty a "national betrayal" to the United States. Evidence offered included stenographic minutes of the American senate foreign relations committee debate concerning the treaty in 1930.

Point to Castle's Activities.

The surrender of Japanese civilian authorities to "American diplomatic blandishments" was held to be the result of such activities as a so-called social campaign by former Acting United States Ambassador William R. Castle Jr., and his wife when they were in Japan three years ago.

Several hours of such arguments were supported by evidence presented in the form of newspaper articles and other attacks on the London treaty. Attorneys held that the young cadets, accused also of participating in the attacks on Japanese banking houses and official buildings at the time of the Inukai assassination, had committed "patriotic crimes."

The trial went into its 19th day with the state beginning the summing up of its case against the officers.

Argues Case of Naval Leaders.

Direct testimony ended with Lieut. Hiroshi Yamagashi, one of the defendants, on the stand, dramatically arguing that Japanese naval leaders had the right to obtain all the strength they deemed necessary for the safety of the empire. He held civilian authorities should have no part in making such decisions.

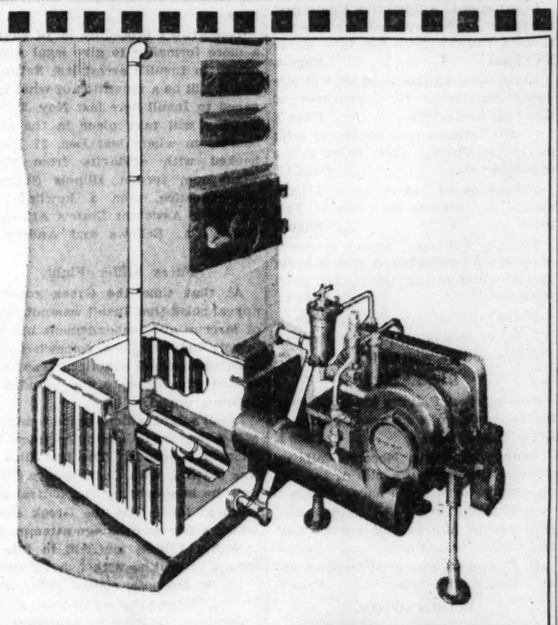
"If the constitution of the empire opposes this stand," he said, "then the constitution must be altered. Other powers will suffer more than Japan if naval limitation ceases and a competition in building is resumed."

AUSTRIA TO CREATE NEW SHORT TERM ENLISTMENT ARMY

VIENNA, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Austrian Nazis flocking across the border to join the Hitler legions in Germany will find a vastly increased Austrian army ready to deal with them if they should return, Karl Vaugoin, minister of war, told an audience at Kilb today.

A new short term enlistment force will shortly be decreed, he said, training 16,000 to 20,000 men annually and creating a second army alongside the existing force.

"Thus the first step will be taken toward universal military service," the minister added.



Quiet MAY

is getting a grand reception in Chicago

I told you so! I knew that Chicago and the Central West would go wild about Quiet MAY!

I spent six months investigating the Oil Burner field. Quiet MAY stood out head-and-shoulders above them all. Her record in New York, London, Paris and Rome had gained her the highest laurels among thirty-five thousand users. Included among them are outstanding industrialists, engineers, architects, airplane builders—men who have every opportunity to choose the best in mechanical devices.

And so I brought Quiet MAY to Chicago. Instantly, dealers everywhere sat up and took notice—they wanted Quiet MAY'S brilliant perfection—just as I wanted it. And now you can see Quiet MAY at the dealers listed below.

Don't buy any other oil heating system or burner until you see the Quiet MAY. Quiet MAY converts any boiler or furnace into a modern oil heating system. See its four great exclusive features . . . the gerotor pump, the Waterbacked Combustion Chamber . . . the sapphire jeweled atomizer and the Traffic Cop valve.

KELLY LAUNCHES CITY FINANCIAL RECOVERY DRIVE

Asks Great Organizations and Leaders to Help.

An organization, to be known as the Chicago Recovery administration, is being created by Mayor Edward J. Kelly for the purpose of effecting further economies in governmental operations, to give the people a dollar's worth of service for every dollar in taxes spent, and to insure paydays for all public employés.

Plans for the forming of the recovery administration, which will follow in degree the pattern of the national recovery administration, were announced yesterday by the mayor.

"The immediate purpose of this organization," said Mayor Kelly, "will be to centralize and coördinate the activities of those truly interested in the solution of the pressing problems of local government; the marshaling of resources on the one hand against the requirements for public functions on the other; to coöperate and assist in arriving at a common understanding and solution of the difficulties which confront us, and to adopt for Chicago the principles of the national recovery administration through public drafting of the best available intelligence and harnessing it in the task of general welfare and public interest."

Asks Help of Civic Leaders.

The Chicago Recovery administration, said Mayor Kelly, should be composed of the chief executive officers of the various municipalities within the metropolitan area, supplemented by representatives of civic, business, fraternal and other like organizations.

"It would be ideal if a citizen chairman, with true love for Chicago, could be drafted for this service," added the mayor.

Twenty or more names of civic and other leaders have already been advanced.

Among them are J. L. Jacobs, county assessor; George F. Nixon, and Fred Brummel, members of the board of appeals; Scott Lucas, of the Illinois tax commission; Thomas J. Courtney, state's attorney; Joseph B. McDonough, county treasurer; Robert M. Sweitzer, county clerk; Otto Kerner, attorney general of Illinois; Jacob M. Arvey, president pro tem of the city council; John S. Clark, chairman of the council finance committee; Joseph H. Gill, clerk of the Municipal court; Al J. Horan, bailiff of the Municipal court; John J. Sonsteby, chief justice of the Municipal court; Henry Horner, governor of Illinois; Emmet Whealan, president of the county board; Thomas J. Bowler, president of the drainage board; A. J. Plamondon, president Lincoln park commissioners; Harry E. Joseph, president of the Lincoln park board; James B. McCahey, school board president, and William H. McDonald, vice president of the south park board.

Favor Drafting Organizations.

Mayor Kelly, in his statement, suggested among organizations which should be drafted for the local recovery work:

The Chicago Association of Commerce, the Chicago Real Estate board, Northwestern university, the University of Chicago, Loyola university, the Chicago Federation of Labor, the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency, the Committee on Public Expenditures, the Parent-Teacher groups and other accredited educational organizations.

Mayor Kelly, in describing the necessity for the creation of a Chicago Recovery administration, pointed out that when he became mayor he faced many serious problems, the principal one being the fiscal condition of the city. This condition had its inception in the expenditures made by a former Republican administration, it was pointed out. As a result, he said, policemen, firemen, teachers and other city and school employés have gone unpaid for long periods.

Reviews His Past Efforts.

"I determined then that certain important things had to be accomplished at once," stated Mayor Kelly.

These were, he said, the creation of a budget which would not authorize the incurring of obligations beyond income and eliminate nonessential branches of government; the giving of a dollar's worth of municipal service for every dollar of public money spent; the effort to compel delinquent taxpayers to pay their taxes according to their ability, and to insist that assessing and reviewing bodies act in full coöperation in making equitable reductions in the value sof property, particularly real estate.

"To these purposes I have assiduously directed myself since I became mayor," declared Mayor Kelly. "A survey convinced me that every branch of government from the state to the lowest political subdivision now entrusted to Democratic control has the same determination to effect economy and retrenchment for the benefit of the citizen. I am convinced that the time has come to take immediate steps for complete coördination of governmental activities."

Seeks to Lighten Burden on Realty.

Here the mayor disclosed his plan to organize the Chicago Recovery administration. The C. R. A., he stated, could summon to its aid the research staffs of universities and the manpower of the organizations of the community.

He then went on to discuss taxation. The burden on real estate, the mayor said, is crushing. The reasons for that condition, he added, are well known and the remedies therefor can and will be found by intelligent work. The lightening of the tax burden on real estate, continued Mayor Kelly, should result in immediate stimulation of the great building industry, which means employment.

To the lightening of taxes, economy, retrenchment and a new deal in the operation of the municipal government the Chicago Recovery administration should be dedicated, concluded the mayor, and its various remedies should be submitted to the state legislature as soon as possible.

BOGAN HOPEFUL OF U. S. MILLIONS TO AID SCHOOLS

Washington Favorable to Building Plan, He Says.

Supt. William J. Bogan returned yesterday from a trip to Washington with high hopes for the expansion of the Chicago public school system physically and educationally by means of loans from the federal government. The money would be used, according to plans, for a $10,000,000 school building program and the education of illiterate adults by unemployed teachers.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes, his legal, financial and technical advisers and others interviewed were warmly sympathetic toward the plans, Mr. Bogan reported.

"The feature that pleased them most about the building program," asserted Mr. Bogan, "was that men could be put to work immediately. I explained to them that the contracts had been let and the construction was halted two years ago because the Chicago school board was without funds. The Washington officials are certainly keen to provide employment."

Awarded by Former Boards.

Ninety per cent of the contracts were awarded by former school boards, it was pointed out by Don C. Rogers, director of research and building survey for the school system, who accompanied Mr. Bogan.

Mr. Bogan's proposal, which was approved by the school board, was that application should be made to the federal government, under terms of the national recovery act, for a loan to finance the building of 14 schools. Some of the structures are partly completed.

The application would be for an outright gift of 30 per cent of the amount needed and the remaining 70 per cent would be a loan under liberal terms, such as a 30 year period of repayment and an interest charge of 4 per cent.

The next step will be to lay the plan before the state advisory board on public works, Mr. Bogan said. Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue, is chairman of the board. Other members are James H. Houghteling of Chicago and James H. Andrews of Kewanee. Joshua D'Esposito is the advisory engineer.

Oppose Loan Project.

While Supt. Bogan was outlining his plan forces were at work in opposition. A group from the "Save Our Schools" committee, which is fighting the school board's economy program, called upon Collector Harrison to protest against the loan. Mr. Harrison promised that a full hearing would be given.

James E. White, chairman of the delegation which interviewed the collector, then sent a telegram to Secretary Ickes. It read as follows:

"Citizens of Chicago protest against any federal funds being turned over to the president of the school board, which has proved itself incompetent and untrustworthy by its actions in the school crisis. It has violated the confidence of the people by stupid action threatening to wreck the whole educational and building program of Chicago schools."

In connection with the employment of teachers through a federal loan, Mr. Bogan said that he had started negotiations with C. M. Brookman, assistant relief administrator. Brookman declared that only teachers who were on the relief rolls on Aug. 19 of this year could be employed out of the federal unemployment relief funds, but Mr. Bogan said he hoped the provision would be liberalized.

Hopes to Start by Sept. 18.

"We want to get this plan working by the time school starts on Sept. 18," said Mr. Bogan. "Classes for adults and illiterates [there are more than 100,000 persons in Cook county who can neither read nor write] will be held in schools, factories, churches, and settlement houses. The people in Washington were anxious to have Chicago be the first city to start this educational project."

Mr. Bogan called attention to the New York state plan for the education of the idle as a possible model for Chicago to follow. The federal government provides 30 per cent of the funds and the state of New York contributes 70 per cent under this plan.

Both the building program and the teaching of adult classes were discussed with George F. Zook, United States commissioner of education. The school board's economy program was not touched upon, Mr. Bogan said.

Drops $100,000 Suit

Miss Mary Wirt, 23 years old, a nurse living in Huntington, Ind., yesterday dropped her $100,000 suit, charging breach of promise, against Percival Hunter Jr., 510 Ash street, Winnetka.

Her attorney presented a stipulation dismissing the suit before Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan. It was stated on behalf of Hunter's attorneys, Scott, MacLeish and Falk, that there "may have been" a small settlement paid to Miss Wirt.

Hunter, a graduate of the United States Naval academy and a chemical engineer, is a son of a railroad official. His engagement to marry Miss Jane Henning, 909 Sheridan road, Winnetka, was announced a short time before Miss Wirt filed her suit.

Miss Wirt was a nurse in a government hospital in Denver in 1931 when Hunter, then an Annapolis midshipman, was sent there for treatment.

SHOT BY MACHINE GUNNERS IN AUTO AT BUSY CORNER

Crowd in Panic as Reputed Bootlegger Is Wounded

John Scalzitti, 37 years old, 3256 West Monroe street, reputed bootlegger, was shot eight times yesterday by three gunmen who fired on him with two machine guns as they sped past him in an automobile as he was walking in front of 1538 West 63d street.

Scores of pedestrians walking near the busy intersection of Ashland avenue and 63d street were thrown into a panic and scampered for shelter from the bullets. A 15 year old girl was grazed by one of the gunmen's bullets, the missile passing through her skirt near her thigh.

Shot Down in Street.

Scalzitti was crossing the street accompanied by another man as the gangsters' large car came upon them. The muzzles of two machine guns, one in the front and one in the rear of the car, were thrust out and the gunners opened fire. Scalzitti dropped with seven bullets in his right leg and one in the groin. His companion dropped to his knees and crawled away, apparently unhit. His identity was not learned by police.

As the gangsters' car passed Ashland avenue, speeding west on 63d street, the gunmen leveled their weapons at Traffic Policeman Otto Herman, who had drawn his revolver, and ordered him to get back and not fire. In the face of the machine guns the policeman obeyed and the gangsters escaped unscathed.

Victim Refuses to Talk.

At the South Town hospital, where he was taken, Scalzitti refused to talk to police and steadfastly declined to give any information as to whether he knew his assailants or why they should "put him on the spot." He had told Charles H. Anderson, 6133 South Loomis boulevard, who was the first to reach his side after the shooting: "Get me away from here quick before the police arrive."

However, police of the Englewood station expressed the theory that Scalzitti had stepped outside his west side alcohol distributing territory and had been shot for invading the district of the south side gangs. A search was begun for Edward [Spike] O'Donnell, Martin Quirk, and George [Yama] Downs, south side gangsters.

Danger Warning Saves Fifty Others.

One man was fatally burned yesterday and eighte others were injured in an explosion of gasoline vapor at the Whiting plant of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

The man who lost his life was Mike Balog, 60 years old, 1528 121st street, Whiting, a maintenance man. He died several hours after the explosion in St. Catherine's hospital in East Chicago.

Three other victims of the blast were in a critical condition at the hospital. They are A. R. Weiss of Huntington Park, Cal., an engineer for the Pacific Pump company; Walbert Walzak, 8317 Burnham avenue, and Andrew Gerber of Gary. Gerber and Walzak were maintenance men.

Still Closed for Repairs.

Weiss' wife and family and his brother, who is president of the pump company, were notified of his injuries and immediately took a plane from California for Chicago.

The explosion, it was said, was due to leakage of gasoline vapors from the coil box of a cracking still. The still was shut down a week ago for repairs, but apparently had not been drained.

The casualty list would have been much higher, according to officials of the oil company, but for a warning shouted to workmen by I. C. Wheeler, an assistant mechanical superintendent in the plant. The explosion occurred in the morning just as two shifts of workmen were changing and while 50 or more workmen were standing near the still.

Burned by Single Flash.

Wheeler smelled the escaping vapors and warned the workmen. As they ran to safety the fumes were ignited, sending forth a single flash which extended a hundred feet from the still. The injured men were burned by this flash. There was no fire following the first flash and little property damage.

Ten of the injured men were taken to St. Catherine's hospital. The others received first aid in the company hospital.

Building Engineer Is Electrocuted at Work

William F. Schryer, 38 years old, 4312 Kenmore avenue, engineer in the Graemere hotel, 113 North Homan avenue, was electrocuted while at work yesterday. Carrying an electric light on an extension cord, Schryer had crawled into the firebox of a boiler to repair it. His clothing was wet and it is believed he came in contact with an exposed wire in the cord.

INSULL JR. AND FIVE OTHERS GIVE BOND ON FRAUD INDICTMENT

Samuel Insull Jr. and five other officers and directors of the Corporation Securities company, defunct Insull investment trust, surrendered yesterday in federal court and posted bonds in the latest Insull indictment charging them with bankruptcy frauds. Bonds already posted in the previous case in which they were charged with mail frauds were permitted to stand for the new charge.

The others who surrendered were Stanley Field, former chairman of the board of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, Harold L. Stuart, president of Halsey, Stuart & Co., John H. Gulick, P. J. McEnroe, and John F. O'Keefe. William R. Erwin, auditor of the company, and Charles W. Daniels, who were not named in the mail fraud indictment, posted $10,000 bonds during the day.

The other defendants in the case are Samuel Insull Sr. and his brother, Martin Insull, whom the government is seeking to extradite from Greece and Canada, respectively, and Edward J. Doyle, president of the Commonwealth Edison company. Doyle is out of the city and will post bond on his return, his attorneys said.

U. S. SOLDIER ON TRIAL AS A SPY; RUSSIA IS NAMED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FORT SHERMAN, Canal Zone, Aug. 28.—Corporal Ralph Osman of Brooklyn, N. Y., faced a court martial today. He is charged under the 1917 espionage act "with having in his possession documents of military information without authority."

It is claimed that Osman, who is Jewish, is a communist and that he mailed documents under the name of J. McCarthy of Cristobal to Herman Meyers, 1859 East 9th street, Brooklyn, which were intended for Russian authorities. They never reached Meyers and were returned to the dead letter office here. The dead letter office opened the letters and, noting the contents, turned them over to army authorities.

Postal officials said on the witness stand that the letters were turned over to the army because "the contents were secret documents of value to the United States government and if they got out of official hands would be prejudicial to the United States."

CHASES THIEVES IN TAXICAB AND RECOVERS AUTO

Dallas A. Burlingame, 1311 West 71st place, parked his daughter's new car at 62d and Halsted streets yesterday afternoon and it was promptly stolen.

Mr. Burlingame, who is an engineer for the Illinois Central railroad, made the usual report to Englewood police and was crossing Normal boulevard at 63d street, when he was almost run down by four youths in a shiny new car of popular make.

Mr. Burlingame couldn't make out the license number but he had his suspicions, so he commandeered a passing cab and ordered the driver to give chase. Two blocks north the taxi forced the other car to the curb and its occupants fled. Burlingame checked the license with the number his daughter, Isabel, had given him. It was the same, so he paid off the cab driver, with thanks, and resumed his journey.

FAVORS TURNING RAIL BRANCHES INTO AUTO ROADS

Army Officer Tells Plan at Engineers' Session.

BY HAL FOUST.

Lieut. Col. Brainerd Taylor, quartermaster corps, U. S. A., at the opening of a week's International Automotive Engineering congress in the Palmer house yesterday, suggested the transformation of America's net work of branch line railroads into motor highways for commercial and military efficiency of the nation's transportation system.

"These branch lines," he said, "were developed with animal transport as an auxiliary. The practical operating radius for the horse was sixteen miles a day for a round trip. This tallies closely with the average distance between branch line railways. With modern motor trucks, the operating radius of the feeders of railroad trunk line traffic is more than 100 miles.

"Modern highways should replace or supplement branch line railways where operation of such lines is obsolescent practice. In many cases the transformation of such lines, which no longer earn their operating and maintenance expenses, into new highways for fast freight and passenger service, truck and bus, is suggested.

Beds Ready for Surfacing.

"The old railroad beds are wonderfully ballasted, ready for smooth road surfacing. They connect all the important towns and villages with more important terminals and trunk line railroads. However, motor transport highways should never be constructed and used to replace or injure our trunk line railways."

The army officer also urged greater standardization of the rolling stock of motor transportation to increase the efficiency of commercial operation and to make it possible for the government to obtain from 100,000 to 200,000 vehicles promptly in the event of a major war. He pointed out the advantages obtained in rail transportation through track and equipment standardization following the civil war.

"There might follow some very large purchase orders in new motor transport equipment," he continued. "if not from the railroads, a bit slow in recognizing advantages in motor transport, from the larger private and contract fleet operators whose maintenance and economic problems are similar to the army's."

Proposes Executing the Aged.

In an evening session of the congress, Georges Broulhiet, delegate from the Societe des Ingenieurs de l'Automobile de France, speaking perhaps whimsically of the progress in developing specialization and efficiency, mentioned the possibility that humanity might some day eliminate its aged or ineffective as do the ants.

"In the ant world," he said, "the individual, once his social function is performed, dies. The soldier, having left with the army of defense against the enemy ant, does not return. Each time, absolute death overtakes the combatting army. Also, the queen whose egg laying activity wanes is immediately devoured.

"We are as cruel toward our lower brothers, the animals, as the ants are toward their brothers. Ninety-five per cent of all the edible domestic animals die murdered, and I believe the proportion is even greater here in Chicago.

"Humanity might some day be confronted with the same problem for its own individuals: elimination of the worn elements of the population to make way for the young. This statement today is shockingly immoral and whoever supports this proposition raises a general hue and cry. But let us not forget that in a century of progress the population of the world has doubled."

Today the session of the congress will be devoted to automobile brakes and to machine refinements. Tonight the subject is legislation and regulation. Approximately 1,500 engineers are attending.

GIRLS RETRACT RAPE CHARGES; 3 YOUTHS FREED

Three Chicago youths arrested on rape charges on the complaint of two Chicago girls, were freed yesterday by Du Page county authorities at Wheaton, when the girls changed their stories. The girls were Elizabeth Thompson, 24 years old, 225 South Leavitt street, and Mrs. Beatrice Antonette, 22, 420 North Spaulding avenue.

Early Sunday a Chicago police squad saw the girls being ejected from an automobile at Kedzie avenue and Van Buren street, and arrested Vincent Cardamone, 22 years old, 2140 De Kalb street; Michael Ambroso, 22, of 2222 Polk street, and Felix Dquila, 30, of 752 South Leavitt street. Miss Thompson and Mrs. Antonette charged that they had been raped by the men at Downers Grove.

Yesterday the three were removed to the Du Page county jail. Twenty-five minutes later Miss Thompson and Mrs. Antonette appeared at the jail and pleaded for the men's release. They did not wish to sign complaints, they said, and added they had not been raped. The authorities freed the men, who drove back to Chicago, accompanied by the girls.

ORDERS HEARING ON CHECKER CAB STORAGE DISPUTE

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday ordered Special Master Edgar Eldredge to hear immediate evidence concerning the alleged failure of Checker taxicab drivers to pay storage charges to the company and to submit a report to the court tomorrow at 5 p. m.

The order was made after arguments of counsel for the taxicab company, headed by Attorney Samuel A. Ettelson, who sought an immediate order permitting the seizure of some 600 cabs whose drivers are allegedly in default on storage charges. The master had refused to enter such an order pending a full hearing of the evidence.

Attorney Ettelson argued that failure of the drivers to pay up their dues is costing the company $35,000 a month and that continued delay will result in bankruptcy.

The Checker cab controversy started when the drivers reduced their rates and the company sought to seize the cabs under contracts by which they retain nominal ownership. Federal Judge Woodward entered an order maintaining the status quo pending the master's report and counsel for the drivers, headed by David D. Stansbury, contend that this means $60 a month for double shift cabs and $40 for single shift cabs. The company is asking the contract rate of $75-$55, which was reduced last January by oral agreement.

Boy, Hero of Fire, Gains; Carried Mother from Blaze

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Phillip Marquard, 15, will not die for his heroism, surgeons at Hollywood police hospital said today. He has been near death from burns suffered in carrying his mother, Mrs. Carol Clay, 39, out of her burning home. Mrs. Clay died of burns suffered when a gasoline stove exploded.

ORDERS DETROIT TRUST PAPERS UNDER SCRUTINY

Conservators to Report to Judge Keidan.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Demand was made today for the records of two Detroit trust companies, for the purposes of a "thorough examination." The call came from Judge Harry B. Keidan, one man Detroit bank jury, the first move to follow charges by Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], that trust company officials had "acted iniquitously" preceding Michigan's famous banking holiday.

That call interrupted testimony of Arthur J. Lacy, Senator Couzens' personal attorney, who scored New York bankers before the jury as "cold-blooded."

To Bring the Records.

Conservators of the two companies, the Union Guardian Trust company, and the Detroit Trust company must appear in court, Judge Keidan said, with all the records of the two institutions. Examination will be conducted by the conservators, with the coöperation of the state attorney general and the prosecutor's office. Harry J. Fox, conservator for the Detroit Trust company, was called to court today and given the order. George H. Kirchner, for the Union Guardian, will be called as soon as he returns from a business trip.

Senator Couzens appearing before the jury last week, had declared the Detroit Trust company and the First National Bank-Detroit "switched funds" between themselves to increase their respective cash positions, and charged the Union Guardian Trust company with "jockeying" the $10,000,000 Children's Fund of Michigan, founded by Couzens, out of $200,000 deposited there. He demanded that the jury study the books of the two companies.

Doubts Criminal Act.

Lacy, from the witness stand today, testified he did not believe there had been any criminal action in the conduct of the Detroit Trust company of which he also is attorney. He discussed the charge of Senator Couzens against the Union Guardian Trust company, and reported he believed there was nothing "criminal or illegal" in the children's fund transaction, in which Senator Couzens says $200,000 was lost.

Lacy is well known in Michigan through his efforts to rehabilitate banks previous to the state holiday Feb. 14. He digressed during his presentation of detailed testimony today to attack what he termed "cold blooded banking."

"The New York banks," he declared, "were cold blooded before the national bank holiday. When loans matured they sold them out. If all the country had done the same thing, it would have brought on a national banking collapse one year earlier, I believe. There are ten times as many deposits as there is currency, and all banks cannot be 80 or 90 per cent liquid."

DENIES RAPE CHARGE AS TROOPS GUARD COURT IN ALABAMA

Decatur, Ala., Aug. 28.—(AP)—With the courthouse surrounded by National Guardsmen, Tom Brown, Negro, on whose life mobs have made two attempts, late today entered a plea of not guilty to raping a white woman. His trial was set for Sept. 4.

The Negro was brought here from Hunstville within two hours after the true bill charging him with attacking Mrs. George Dugger, mother of seven small children, had been returned.

After arraignment and a conference with counsel appointed by the court, the Negro under military escort was returned to Huntsville to await trial.

A detachment of fifty guardsmen from Huntsville escorted Sheriff Ben Giles of Madison county and Deputy Herman Shields, who had custody of the prisoner, to a point just outside Athens where 30 troopers joined the escort.

SCREAMS SAVE GIRL, 8, KIDNAPED BY YOUNG MORON

An 8 year old Chicago girl was kidnaped by a moron in Lombard last evening, but released half an hour later, evidently when he became frightened by her cries. She was not harmed.

The girl was Virginia Hunt, 1722 North Menard avenue, daughter of James P. Hunt, an insurance man. Yesterday afternoon she and her brother, Gordon, 9 years old, ran away from home, with the intention of paying a surprise visit to their uncle, Frank Hunt, 730 South Main street, Lombard.

They hitch-hiked their way. A few miles outside of Lombard they were given a lift by a young motorist who was well dressed and had a mustache. He drove them to Main and Ash streets in Lombard and then, handing Gordon a nickel, asked him to get out and buy a package of gum. As the boy alighted the man drove south in Main street with Virginia.

Gordon raised an alarm and an immediate search was started. Half an hour later the man put Virginia out of the car at Finley and Roosevelt roads, where a farmer found her. Virginia screamed all the while she was a prisoner.

Says Mate Threatened to Toss Her Out of Window

Mrs. Mildred Schwartz, 3309 North Karlov avenue, testified yesterday in her divorce suit against Edwin H. Schwartz, owner of a dress manufacturing company at 327 West Adams street, that he sometimes awakened her in the night and threatened to throw her out of the window. Superior Judge Joseph Sabath instructed her attorney, Norman Becker, to draw up a divorce decree. Mrs. Schwartz waived alimony and was awarded $10 a week for the support of her daughter, Sydell, 7 years old.

Son of Oscar Carlstrom Hurt in Auto Accident

Rock Island, Ill., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Charles H. Carlstrom, 25, son of former attorney general Oscar E. Carlstrom of Aledo, was seriously cut and bruised yesterday when his car plunged through a guard rail on state Rout 83 near Viola, Ill., and rolled over several times, stopping at the foot of an 18 foot embankment.

CHICAGO EX-CONVICT GIVEN 25 YEARS FOR MAIL TRUCK ROBBERY

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Deputy federal marshals today herded Joseph F. Burke and Harry E. Dean, Illinois ex-convicts, before Federal District Judge W. P. James, where Burke pleaded guilty and was sentenced to twenty-five years imprisonment while Dean was snubbed in an attempt to dicker over the length of sentence.

Burke was convicted of armed robbery of a mail truck here Jan. 3. When he pleaded guilty Judge James warned him he was pleading to the most serious charge in the federal penal code outside of murder.

"That's ok with me; I want to plead guilty now and have this over with," Burke explained.

Postoffice Inspector E. H. Kline said Burke and Dean, in addition to confessing the Jan. 3 robbery in Los Angeles which netted them $17,000 in bonds, $16,000 in other negotiable papers, cash, jewelry and revenue stamps, admitted attempting on Feb. 11 last to hold up a truck transporting air mail.

The sheriff's squad arrested Burke and Dean last month on suspicion of bank robbery. Their possession of a service revolver stolen in the January truck robbery resulted in their identification. Dean was shot in the arm in the airmail attempt. Dean and Burke fled to Chicago and returned here in July to try a bank robbery, according to Inspector Kline.

Girl Slain by Stray Shot in Bandit Battle Buried

Funeral services were held yesterday for Miss Florence Quinn, 25 years old, 5828 Ridge avenue, who was slain in a pistol fight last Saturday between bandits and Albert Pappas, in Pappas' restaurant at 658 Orleans street. Friends and relatives attended the simple services in the Edgewater Presbyterian church and burial was in Rosehill cemetery. Police are seeking three suspects as the slayers. They are David London, 31 years old, 1444 South Turner avenue and two of his friends, Sam Kaplan, 710 West 14th street, and Isadore [Two Gun] Cohen. London's car was found near the scene of the slaying Saturday.

ROOSEVELT ACTS AT CONFERENCES TO PROVIDE JOBS

He Discusses Plans with Ickes and Jones.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—In conferences today with two of the key men in his recovery program President Roosevelt took steps to speed the business of putting the jobless back to work.

Jesse H. Jones, head of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and Secretary of the Interior Ickes, administrator of public works, were the two visitors to the summer White House.

In consultation with the former, President Roosevelt revealed plans to put the country's credit facilities to work behind the NRA campaign. It is the President's intention to make the bankers do their part by furnishing to NRA members the credit necessary to tide them through the critical period of increased overhead and until the hoped for increase in national purchasing power makes itself felt.

May Ask More Bank Aid.

It is to be inferred that President Roosevelt feels not all of the banks are doing their part. Employers, particularly the smaller ones, require further credit in order to meet the strain of higher wages and more help imposed on them by their NRA membership.

Under the President's direction treasury officials are already examining how the banks of the nation may be induced to loosen up. The talk with the Reconstruction Finance corporation chairman suggested one means by which pressure might be applied. Through its many bank loans the R. F. C. holds many millions of dollars' worth of collateral deposited by the banks as security. With the leverage of its loans and its possession of the collateral put up by the banks it is conceivable that the R. F. C. might be able to do some strong persuading, insisting that the funds loaned the banks be re-loaned to business with greater generosity than at present.

Would Speed Works Program.

Coupled with these plans is the intention to push forward in another direction by speeding the public works program to the limit. Together the President and Secretary Ickes went over a long list of projects to be built with public works funds. The primary consideration in deciding on the projects, Mr. Ickes explained later, is that they be ones that can be undertaken immediately. Announcement of the new list is expected tomorrow upon the secretary's return to Washington.

The great difficulty, Secretary Ickes said, is not in passing upon the projects and allocating the money to them, but in getting work started at once. He predicted that unless such delays could be avoided future allocations would contain a clause by which the allotment would be forfeited if work were not begun on schedule.

Million and Half in Action.

Washington, D. C, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—One and a half million volunteer canvassers went into action all over the country today, as the blue eagle drive got under way, their goal, 20,000,000 consumers, pledged to buy only where the blue eagle flaps his wings, before the week is out.

Committees have been organized in every community with a population of over 1,000, and these committees plan an immediate house to house canvass. Such a mobilization of forces has not been seen since the liberty bond drives in the world war, after which the present campaign is modeled.

Other activities will include parades, "national recovery days," public meetings and radio talks. Well known speakers throughout the nation and in each locality will take part in the drive, which is the country wide launching of efforts already seen in individual communities and instances. Present and former congressmen, senators, and cabinet officers are included in the list.

Gov. Seligman has set aside Labor day as NRA day in New Mexico, describing the blue eagle as the "living emblem of labor."

Airplanes will be used to transfer flying squadrons of speakers from place to place.

NRA officials described themselves as extremely pleased with reports of the drive, and the preparations for it.

Millinery Workers Vote to Strike Today

COAL OWNERS, UNION SETTLE BASIS OF CODE

Only Details Remain, Roosevelt Told.

At 5 o'clock this evening, the union committee, led by John L. Lewis, left the conference building. An hour later, J. D. A. Morrow and his colleagues on the committee of nonunion operators, appeared at Gen. Johnson's office.

They notified the administrator of their acceptance of the compromise proposal and then Gen. Johnson, revealing a tremendous relief over the solution of the problem, made his statement disclosing the agreement.

Gen. Johnson had announced last week that if an agreement was not reached by tomorrow night, he would act under the powers granted to the President under section 3-D of the recovery act, order a public hearing and then proceed to the writing of a code that well might have brought on a long court contest.

Eight Other Codes Approved.

During today and this evening eight new industries received approval of modified presidential reëmployment agreements. These industries included the pretzel, grain exchanges, asphalt and shingle roofing, woolen stock, United States stereotype dry mat, metal lath, fiber wall board, and malleable iron industries.

For the pretzel industry, a maximum work week of 44 hours, averaged over six weeks, with not more than 48 hours in any one week, and outside exceptions. Minimum wages for factory workers are fixed at 30 cents an hour.

The grain exchange's modification fixes a minimum wage of $15 for a 40 hour week, averaged over six months, and minimum wage of 40 cents an hour for a 42 hour week for factory workers. The asphalt and shingle roofing industry will pay minimum wages, of from 35 to 45 cents an hour, graded geographically, for a 40 hour week.

The wool stock industry gets a 40 hour week—lowest wages 40 to 32 cents an hour.

Some Other Features.

The metal lath industry sets a minimum wage of 35 cents an hour for a 48 hour maximum work week, with a 52 hour weekly maximum for store and service operations, and a 10 per cent tolerance for outside crews.

The fiber wallboard industry sets minimum wages of 40 cents an hour, unless the hourly pay on July 15, 1929, was less, in which case it shall be at that level, but, in no case, less than 30 cents. Maximum weekly hours are set at 40 and at 52 for store and service operations.

For the malleable iron industry, a 40 hour maximum work week is established, with minimum wages of 40 cents hourly, unless they were less on July 15, 1929, in which case the 1929 rate shall apply, but in no case less than 30 cents, or 25 cents in the south.

Roosevelt Is Delighted.

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—During a firelight picnic tonight at the cottage on his estate here, President Roosevelt received a telephone message from Gen. Johnson at Washington. It told that agreement had been reached on all substantial points of the coal code, and that only details remained.

The President made no secret of his delight at this result. It was revealed that he will carry out his plan to leave here on Thursday for the Vincent Astor yacht, and will cruise about reaching Washington on the evening of Labor day. During the day he had been in conference with two leaders in his recovery program. Had the code parley failed he would have returned to Washington this week to use his direct influence.

J. D. ROCKEFELLER'S POCANTICO ESTATE GOES UNDER THE NRA

Tarrytown, N. Y., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The 3,000 acre estate of John D. Rockefeller Jr. at Pocantico Hills went under the NRA today. Twenty-five additional men have been employed, with a possibility of more being added.

The 290 men employed on the estate, exclusive of domestic help, are now working five days a week and receiving the same pay as they received for fifty hours.

Because Mr. Rockefeller has completed most of the major improvements on the estate the force had been reduced. No change will be made in the Rockefeller police force. These men were placed on an eight hour schedule months ago.

CHINESE ACCUSE GOVERNOR OF CAUSING FLOODS

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 28.—A formal demand for the trial and punishment of Gov. Lieu Shih of Honan province on charges of cutting Yellow river dikes in eastern Honan and deliberately flooding western Shantung, making 3,000,000 people homeless, in order to save his own taxable areas from inundation, was submitted to Nanking today by the magistrates of eighteen country districts in western Shantung. The petition says in part: "A rumor was started that bandits were responsible for the collapse of the dikes, but meantime Lieu Shih sent a brigade of troops to the Lanfeng district. Under the pretext of safeguarding the dikes, he ordered his men to cut them.

"It is a most curious incident in history for a high official to employ his soldiers in cutting dikes to make a neighboring state an inundated valley and render the slaughtering of people an amusing pastime.

"But it is possible that a governor, pampering himself by taxes from the people, can perpetrate vicious acts which even communists and brigands evade."

H. G. Soderstrom Picked for Illinois NRA Board

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—(AP)—The office of Senator William H. Dieterich [Dem., Ill.] announced that H. G. Soderstrom of Streator, Ill., had accepted the invitation to sit on the Illinois national recovery advisory board.

HEAD OF MEXICO ASKS EMPLOYERS TO FIX PAY SCALE

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 28.—(AP)—President Abelardo Rodriguez today addressed an open letter to all manufacturers and farmers urging them to fall in line with his project of establishing minimum wages throughout the country.

The executive last week addressed letters to state governors in a campaign to raise wages and improve the standards of living.

Rodriguez said the government would welcome voluntary compliance by employers in placing in effect a minimum wage scale ranging from three pesos [about 84 cents] daily.

DELIVER 800,000 NRA CONSUMER CARDS IN CHICAGO

130 Stations to Be Ready for Signers Today.

More than 800,000 pledge cards and NRA "consumer stickers" were distributed yesterday to pledging stations in all parts of the city as the Chicago Recovery council started its drive to enlist every buyer in Chicago in the reëmployment campaign.

A list of pledging stations to which consumers may go to sign the consumer pledge card and receive the NRA insignia was announced by George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and chairman of the recovery council.

Approximately 130 such branches will be in operation within the next 24 hours, it was stated. No charge is made for either the pledge or insignia, all the material being donated by the government. Consumers were urged by the council to appear at the stations and sign the cards which pledge them to trade with none but firms which have signed the President's reëmployment agreement.

List of Pledge Stations.

Canvass Soon to Be Started.

The house to house canvass by volunteer workers to obtain the support of every consumer in the city will be started shortly, it was announced. Many of the pledge stations will conduct their own localized campaigns. The East 75th Street Business Men's association revealed that it will use Boy Scouts to make the local canvass.

F. L. Roberts, district manager of the United States department of commerce, yesterday called a meeting of the district recovery board to meet here Thursday. Interest in the recovery program appears to be growing daily, he reported. Approximately 1,400,000 workers are now under the NRA standard in Mr. Roberts' district, which includes the states of Illinois, Wisconsin, and Iowa.

In Chicago close to 790,000 workers are now nominally under NRA working conditions.

4,000 Hat Workers Strike Today.

Four thousand members of the Cloth, Hat, Cap, and Millinery Workers' union voted unanimously at a meeting at 32 West Randolph street last night to walk out at 8 o'clock this morning in a demand for the right to collective bargaining and recognition of their union by employers. About 100 factories in Chicago will be affected by the strike.

Max Zaritzky, president of the union, declared that the NRA guaranteed to workers the right to join labor organizations of their own choosing without interference and asserted that the strike would last until the manufacturers agreed to give the millinery employés this right.

Acts to Settle Garment Strike.

Efforts to settle the strike of some 7,500 garment workers who walked out a week ago in a protest against wages and working hours were started yesterday with the arrival of Max Meyer, NRA adviser.

"I believe we shall be able to reach an agreement without the lapse of too much time," he declared. "I shall stay here until the last ray of hope for an amicable settlement fades."

Mr. Meyer went into conferences with officials of the Chicago Ladies' Garment Workers union and representatives of the various manufacturers concerned in the strike.

A committee of Illinois manufacturers left for Washington yesterday afternoon to confer with NRA officials regarding various industrial problems. Ray Wantz, vice president; James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, and Edward N. Hurley were in the party. Mr. Hurley is a member of the national advisory board and also of the Illinois advisory board of the NRA.

Delay in Treating Wound Costs Ex-Convict His Leg

Guy H. Baskett, 29 years old, an ex-convict, will be a cripple for life as a result of his fear of arrest, which led him to delay having a bullet wound in his leg treated until infection set in, it was learned yesterday. He was arrested when he applied for medical aid at the Chicago hospital and his leg was amputated at Bridewell hospital. Policeman John Henry of the Englewood station then identified him as the man upon whom he fired July 15, when Baskett attempted to rob a drug store.

ITALIAN CONSUL CALLS RELIGION BASIS OF PEACE

Dr. Guiseppe Castruccio, Italian consul general in Chicago, told the Fellowship of Faiths convention yesterday that religion ultimately will be the only basis of world peace. Dr. Castruccio was the principal speaker at the second day of the convention in the Morrison hotel.

"We may state," said Dr. Castruccio, "that war is the result of unsuccessful attempts to do without God; to create a new set of ethics and to try to explain all things, spiritual as well as material, in the light of intellegence."

The Italian consul general hailed Mussolini as Italy's new guide through intricate world problems. The path to world peace, he said, leads through Rome and not through technology or science, and Rome, he added, is the great custodian of faith where Mussolini "is bringing Italy back to her classics."

Sessions of the fellowship will continue three times each day for the next three weeks.

MOROCCO REBELS GIVE UP IN FIGHT AGAINST FRANCE

RABAT, Morocco, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The last dissidents near Djebel Badou surrendered today, thus allowing the French to complete the mopping up of the eastern section of the great Atlas mountains. The last of the scattered bands still in action in other sections of the range are being rapidly pursued.

There has been heavy fighting recently in Morocco between French forces and rebel bands which have been the object of French pacification attempts for two decades. The casualties have been high, more than 100 being killed in a recent engagement at Djebel Badou.

Neighbors of Roosevelt Still Lost; Push Search

New York, Aug. 28.—(AP)—By sea and air, the coast guard continued a wide search along the Atlantic coast today for three youthful neighbors of President Roosevelt who have been missing in the sloop Postscript since last week's disastrous northeaster. The sloop was sailed by Pierre P. Irving, 21; John L. Niles, 23, and his brother, Charles L. Niles, 16.

DELIGHTFUL WELCH WAY TO REDUCE

Welch's Certified-Pure, Pasteurized Grape Juice, strange as it may seem, provides an easy, delightful, healthful way to control your weight. And when taken in connection with proper diet, it will enable you—if overweight—to get rid of that ugly fat in the safest, most pleasant way you could imagine.

Scientists say Welch's should be on every reducing diet, because its nonfattening grape sugar forces the body to burn up its fat. It satisfies that craving for sweets and rich, fattening foods. That's why Welch's was officially selected for the athletes' training tables at the Olympic Games.

Welch's contains minerals vital to one's health. It helps make red blood. It contains more Vitamin B than orange juice. It cleanses the entire system. People everywhere report that after following the Welch way to weight reduction they feel more vigorous and alert than they had felt in years.

Start today. Drink a glass of Welch's with and between meals, before retiring. Welch's may be diluted with one-third water. Continue—and in a few days experience the wonderful difference.

Send for booklet, "Keeping Your Weight Down," yours free for the asking.

If You Have Children

Welch has published another booklet, called "Red-Blooded Children." It describes a wonderful method of building up youngsters, correcting anemia. If you will send your name and address to The Welch Grape Juice Co., Dept. 1023, Westfield, N. Y., you will receive either or both of these booklets FREE.

IMPORTANT: Insist on Welch's. It is the exclusive Welch Process that retains in the bottled juice the healthful properties of ripe grapes so essential to the system. Only Welch's is Certified Pure and Pasteurized. It contains no adulterants, no synthetic flavors, no artificial coloring, no preservatives, no water, and above all, no tartaric acid crystals. It is selling at the lowest price in 35 years, and is even cheaper by the case. Send for free booklet TODAY.

ILLINI THOUSANDS TO SWELL FAIR'S THRONGS TODAY

Alumni Visitors to Gather at Host Building.

Sunday, Aug. 27, 1933—213,505.
Sunday, Aug. 27, 1893— 20,709.
Total, including Aug. 27, 1893 [119 days, 9,430,696.
The Columbian Exposition opened May 1; A Century of Progress opened May 27.

Thousands of alumni of the University of Illinois are expected to enlarge the crowds attending A Century of Progress Exposition today. It will be University of Illinois Alumni day at the Fair. The number expected precluded arranging a special program, alumni officials announced, but the Illinois Host building has been designated as headquarters, and all present and past students of the university here for the celebration are expected to visit the building sometime during the day.

For thirty years the university has been graduating approximately 3,000 students a year, 70 per cent of whom come originally from Chicago. The enrollment now is 12,000. The Fair officials thus estimate that a quarter of a million alumni are now living in Chicago and their presence is expected to swell the attendance figures.

The United States Civil legion, an organization of civilian war time employés, also will celebrate a reunion at the Exposition today with a tour of the concessions and exhibits.

Boy Is 12 Millionth Visitor.

Less than five day's attendance at the Fair served to bring another "millionth" visitor yesterday. The 12 millionth guest was Richard Gunther Jr., 8 years old, 232 North Waldron boulevard, Memphis, Tenn. Richard will remember his visit to the Fair as long as he lives.

Such sudden eminence rendered the child speechless as he was touched solemnly upon the shoulder upon entering the turnstiles at the 35th street gate. "You are the twelve millionth visitor," he was informed by W. A. Dudley, the gate lieutenant.

Before Richard could regain any sort of composure, a crowd of Fair officials, news cameramen and curious persons bore down upon him with presents, a replica of the official World's Fair seal and handfuls of free tickets to the concessions. In a whirl of indecision over whether he should go first for a ride on the Goodyear blimp, the Cyclone racer or a Fair bus through the grounds, the boy chose the air ride and speedily departed after giving profuse and excited thanks to the welcoming committee.

Fire Salute for Maharajah.

The Fair was host to its first sovereign yesterday when a 21 gun salute fired by escort troops welcomed the Maharajah Gaekwar Sir Sayaji Rao III., of Baroda, the Hindu ruler. Unless President Roosevelt comes here in the fall, it seemed unlikely that the army gun crew would be given another chance to deliver the salute merited only by kings and chief magistrates.

Accompanied by President Rufus C. Dawes and Lewis Bernays, the British consul gene[illegible]nd the ma[illegible]rajah entered the Court of Honor at the 14th street gate escorted by a cavalry troop with drawn sabers. The salute gun began firing as the gates opened. Inside the gates the infantry guard of honor stood at present arms. Alighting from his car, the maharajah reviewed both troops, then retired to President Dawes' office before being taken for a tour of the grounds.

The attendance up to 11:30 o'clock last night totaled 184,467, some 14,000 fewer than the total at the same hour the preceding Monday evening. It appeared that the final total for the day would be less than 200,000 for the first time since Aug. 17.

England Is Gripped by 7th Heat Wave of Summer

LONDON, Aug. 28.—(AP)—England is undergoing the seventh heat wave of the summer. The temperature reached 85 degrees again today in London, and elsewhere it was even hotter. No relief is in sight.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Gov. William Langer and U. S. Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota will be accorded a military reception in the Court of Honor at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow when they arrive with a large party of North Dakotans to take part in the celebration of that state's day at the Fair. Headed by the Indian "beauty queen" of the Columbian Exposition, Mary Hair Chin Ironroad, the party will move to the Court of States, where a pageant depicting the history of North Dakota, speeches, and music will be included in the program.

Members of the Brick Manufacturers' association will visit the Fair tomorrow at the conclusion of their convention in a downtown hotel. Their visit will be informal, with no ceremonies on the grounds.

The opera "Rip Van Winkle," by Dr. Jules Jordan, will be presented tonight at 8 o'clock on the Floating theater by a cast of fifty from the George Peabody college of teachers of Nashville, Tenn. Seats are available along the west side of the north lagoon for several thousand spectators. The program is free to the public.

There is a daily average of 5,000 visitors to the South Manchuria railway exhibit in the Japanese group.

The Gray lines sightseeing tours who carried out the exterior lighting in the Fair grounds have carried more than 500,000 passengers since the opening of the Fair, according to the management.

Lighting experts of the Westinghouse and General Electric companies plans of the Fair will be hosts to members of the Illuminating Engineering society Friday in the Electrical building. The society will conclude its five day convention at Lake Delavan, Wis., with a day's visit to the Fair.

"Concessionaires' Bargain day" next Saturday is to be a day of real bargains on the Midway and in other concessions on the Fair grounds, according to present plans of the Concessionaires' association, announced yesterday by its president, Robert Eitel. Two for one admissions at the shows and rides and cut price meals in restaurants will be featured. Performers from the various shows will give free acts throughout the grounds.

The Railway Express agency exhibit in the south wing of the Travel and Transport building shows the history of express in Amer[illegible]a since 1839, when William F. Harndon started express service with a carpet bag as his equipment. An old wheelbarrow that was used to deliver express in Syracuse, N. Y., in 1844, and the original stage coach used by Louis McLane in Idaho and California previous to 1869 are other features of the exhibit.

A bit of reptilian dentistry will be performed at the Seminole Indian village today when one of the alligators used in the wrestling bouts with Indians will be fitted with a three-tooth bridge.

Jennie Quigley and George Liable, 83 and 73 years old respectively, both inhabitants of the Midget village, will join the Association of '93ers tomorrow. They visited the 1893 exposition and will take an active part in the '93 day celebration Sept. 14.

Starting Friday, two matinee performances of the transportation pageant, "Wings of a Century," will be given daily. The matinees are to be at 3 and 4:10 p. m. and the evening performances at 7, 8:10, and 9:20. Matinees were given last Friday and the Friday before as special Children's day features and they proved so popular with both adults and children that the management decided to schedule daily afternoon shows. A canopy is being erected to shade the seats.

Delegates to the national convention of the Fraternal Order of Police, now being held in Gary, Ind., will visit the Fair Thursday. They will come to Chicago on a special train over the South Shore line.

Japanese Textile Chiefs Bring Families to the Fair

Among distinguished foreign visitors who arrived to visit A Century of Progress Exposition were Ichiro Haratini, representative of the Japanese silk industry, and K. Yokote, member of the Japanese Cotton Trades association, and their families. They arrived on the Overland Limited at the Chicago and North Western railway station, and after a visit at the World's Fair will go on to New York on business, they said. Mrs. Haratini and the three Haratini children, Yoko, Chisako, and Urara, and Mrs. Yokote and the younger Yokotes, Mitsui and Ariro, were in the party.

Michigan Peach Festival Queen and Maids Visit Fair

Miss Lucille Plassey, queen of the Michigan peach festival at Romeo, Mich., yesterday presented to Rufus C. Dawes, president of A Century of Progress, a basket of peaches and an invitation to attend th festival Sept. 2, 3 and 4. Miss Plassey was accompanied by her maids of honor, Miss Marie Callahan of Flint and Miss Arlene Reynolds of Romeo. They will remain three days.

PLAN LANDING OF GRAF ZEPPELIN HERE IN OCTOBER

Plans for a visit of the Graf Zeppelin to Chicago late in October are being laid by F. W. von Meister, American representative of Dr. Hugo Eckener, who arrived at the Bismarck hotel yesterday. Mr. von Meister said Dr. Eckener plans to arrive in Chicago between Oct. 25 and 28, and will stop long enough to take on passengers and mail for Germany.

Mr. von Meister is to survey possible landing areas today. He will inspect locations at 47th street and the lake front, in Washington park, at Chicago airport and at Curtiss-Reynolds airport in Glenview. He also seeks to arrange with the army air corps for 200 men to act as ground crew. If present plans materialize it will be the first time a large lighter than airship has landed near Chicago.

The Zeppelin will come to Chicago from Pernambucco, Brazil after a flight from Friedrichshafen, Germany, via Miami and Akron, O., according to present plans, and return direct to Friedrichshafen from Chicago. The Graf Zeppelin visited Chicago once before on its trip around the world.

Forty Sky Ride Passengers Marooned an Hour in Midair

Forty persons were marooned for an hour yesterday on three cars of the Sky Ride when a power line snapped about midway between the two lofty towers. Workmen treated the watching crowds with a little extra thrill as they walked swiftly along the cables, 251 feet above the ground and went about repairing the strand. Sky Ride officials said that at no time where the passengers in any danger, for the support cables were not affected by the break.

FOUND SHOT TO DEATH.

The police are seeking relatives of George W. Wells, 60 years old, 7852 South Ada street, who was found shot to death, apparently a suicide, yesterday at the rear of the Harvester building, 606 South Michigan avenue, where he was a watchman.

EDUCATIONAL EDUCATIONAL EDUCATIONAL EDUCATIONAL

Am I Too Old To Learn?

No. One is never too old to learn.

The researches of Thorndike, the eminent psychologist, indicate that in capacity to learn effectively, to understand, to retain—adults frequently excel those of collegiate age.

Much of the most profitable educational work is accomplished by those of mature years.

Leaders are learners, all their lives long.

Men and women—in their twenties, their thirties, their forties—throng the library, halls and lecture rooms of Northwestern University School of Commerce, on the downtown McKinlock Campus.

Here they come—one, two, or three evenings a week, carrying university courses after their day's work is over. They are preparing themselves effectively for advancement, promotion and larger responsibilities in business.

A telephone call to Superior 4500, or a request by mail to Educational Adviser, 339 East Chicago Avenue, will bring you free bulletins describing the courses.

You, too, can keep right on learning. Decide now to devote one or more evenings a week this fall to these downtown courses.

WALLACE CALLS FOR 15% CUT IN WHEAT ACREAGE

Slash Must Be Made to Get U. S. Benefits.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—A 15 per cent reduction in the 1934 wheat acreage was proclaimed today as the price wheat farmers must give for federal cash benefits under the domestic allotment plan.

The announcement was made by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, following an agreement at London on the "general principles of an international wheat pact" designed to "correct the world surplus." But Mr. Wallace left a loophole open for revision of the American reduction figure if the all-important supplement to the international accord, involving the four great exporting nations, is not signed as expected tomorrow morning.

Agreement Not Signed.

The secretary's announcement was described as formal and official notice to the wheat farmers of the amount by which they must cut their acreage next year to participate in the federal "compensating payments." But Mr. Wallace pointed out that the supplement, which is the most important part of the international agreement as far as the United States is concerned, has not been signed.

Until the signatures of all four great exporters—this country, Argentina, Australia and Canada—are appended, he said, the 15 per cent American figure is "tentative." The chances of revision, on the basis of late reports from London, were only about 99 to 1, he stated, however, since the only remaining obstacle to consummation of the supplementary pact is the fact that the new Argentinian minister of agriculture has not had time to read and digest the terms of the agreement.

9,600,000 Acre Slash.

The reduction of 15 per cent, according to Mr. Wallace, will mean a cut of approximately 9,600,000 acres in wheat plantings in 1934, provided all wheat farmers sign acreage reduction contracts with the government. The acreage cut would mean a reduction of more than 124 million bushels in the 1934 wheat crop, it was estimated.

The 1934 crop, Mr. Wallace pointed out, is involved alone in the 15 per cent requirement. A decision as to the extent of the reduction for the 1935 crop year will be made next year, in the light of whatever circumstances are existing then.

Announcement of the 15 per cent reduction demand completed the machinery for operation of the administration's experiment at relieving the wheat farmer by paying him a bounty on every bushel produced for domestic consumption, in return for his agreement to cut acreage next year.

Government Pays Farmer.

Under the plan the government will pay the farmer 28 cents per bushel on 54 per cent of his crop, or that portion destined for consumption in this country. In return the farmer must agree to cut his 1934 wheat plantings by 15 per cent. Some 120 million dollars in compensating payments is expected to be paid this year, if all wheat farmers sign government contracts promising to reduce their next year's planting by the stipulated amount. Funds for the payments are expected to be raised by a 30 cents a bushel processing tax on the flour millers.

Recent increased wheat prices, brought about by an exceptionally short crop and other bullish market factors, will raise the wheat farmer's total income for this year's crop to approximately 325 million dollars, Mr. Wallace declared, as compared with 177 millions last year.

In addition to the 325 million dollars, he pointed out, the contracting farmers will receive approximately 120 millions in "adjustment payments," so that the total farm return on wheat this year will probably approximate 450 million dollars.

Mr. Wallace, who postponed his announcement as to the extent of American reduction pending the outcome of the London world wheat conference, said he was "intensely gratified" at the apparent success of the parley.

"In the form it has now reached," he said, "the agreement constitutes a courageous effort to face the facts of recurrent world surpluses of wheat and to grapple intelligently with the fundamentals involved. It is an effort to break the vicious cycle of surpluses, excessive tariffs, ruinous prices, economic paralysis and bread lines, in this and other countries."

Reno, Nev., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The long fight between Albert R. Brunker, Chicago reformer, and his former wife, Mrs. Margaret Gaylord Ruppel of California, over the custody of their two children was settled today. Judge B. F. Curler entered an order modifying Mrs. Ruppel's divorce decree.

The original decree, issued in 1931, provided that each parent was to have custody of the children for six months each year. A series of court battles here and in Chicago, followed, each parent seeking permanent custody of the children, Barbara, 7 years old, and Robert, 5.

Judge Curler set up an elaborate schedule for the custody of the children, extending until 1938. They are to remain with Mrs. Ruppel in Pasadena, Cal., until the end of the next school year, then will go to their father until Jan. 1, 1935, and then return to their mother for the balance that school year. Judge Curler reserved the right to amend his order at a later date.

PRICES DOWN IN POLAND.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

WARSAW, Aug. 28.—Grain prices in Poland have reached a new low level record of 13 zlotys per 100 kilograms for rye and 20 zlotys for wheat. The prices are 15 per cent lower than for August or last year and only half of what they were two months ago, before the harvest. State granaries have been buying little grain and the farmer, under the depression of debts and tax arrears has been selling his products at low prices for years.

Asks for Increase.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 28.—(AP)—A responsible government source today said the administration had cabled instructions to Thomas Le Breton, ambassador at London, that he obtain a 3,000,000 quintal increase in Argentina's export quota before signing the international wheat pact.

The informant asserted that Argentina is entitled to this increase, which is equivalent to 11,023,000 bushels, under the terms of a separate accord entered into by the "big four" wheat exporting nations—the United States, Canada, Australia and Argentina.

Sees Position Abnormal.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

CANBERRA, Australia, Aug. 28.—Prime Minister Lyons said today the commonwealth government had entered into the world wheat agreement "with some reluctance but also with some real measure of satisfaction. The world's wheat position was so abnormal," he continued, "that in the best interests of Australian wheat growers, it was felt incumbent upon the government to consent to an arrangement which gives some promise by assuming to raise prices and prevent cut throat competition."

Sentence Indiana Bandit to Life and 25 Years

Walter Bupp, Hammond bandit, was sentenced to life in prison yesterday on his plea of guilty to wounding Louis Teboda, Hammond policeman, during an attempted robbery of the Hammond Ice company. Judge William Murray of the Lake county, Ind., Criminal court at Crown Point, also imposed a twenty-five year sentence for robbery with a gun.

The body of Samuel Burg, 45 years old, an idle salesman, was recovered from the drainage canal near Argo by county highway police yesterday.

MOLEY DENIES HE QUIT OVER HULL DISPUTE

Magazine of Politics Is Vincent Astor's Aim.

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Prof. Raymond Moley, head of President Roosevelt's brain trust, denied here today that his resignation as assistant secretary of state was due to a rift with Secretary of State Cordell Hull over the world economic conference at London.

Prof. Moley's resignation was announced at a conference yesterday with President Roosevelt at the summer White House at Hyde Park, when it was revealed that Mr. Moley would edit a weekly magazine to be published by Vincent Astor.

Mr. Moley will interpret the administration's ideals "by writing and teaching politics and government."

Both Mr. Astor and Mr. Moley denied today the magazine venture, first in the history of the Astor family, was a face saving arrangement for Mr. Moley. Mr. Moley was in Mr. Astor's office today and made his statement there.

Denies Row with Hull.

Of the implication that his resignation was a sequel to a clash with Cordell Hull, Mr. Moley said:

"There is no denying the fact that resigning as a result of a conflict is interesting, but it just isn't so."

When later in his talk Mr. Moley's attention was called to the fact that he had used the term "conflict," he hastened to say:

"I certainly am not aware of any conflict, except that in a big administration such as the one at Washington there always is a difference of opinion. But, honestly, I don't see any important conflict at all."

Mr. Moley never had expected the state department position to be permanent. He felt, he said.

Also present at the interview was W. Averell Harriman, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific railroad, who, with Mrs. Mary Rumsey and V. V. McNitt, will be associated in the journalistic enterprise.

To Wait for Successor.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Secretary Hull came back today from a two weeks' vacation in Virginia but did not visit the state department. On his return to work tomorrow the secretary will find several problems awaiting his attention, including the matter of a successor to Raymond Moley. It is believed there will be several conferences with President Roosevelt before Moley's successor is named.

Mullen Will Leave, Too.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Arthur Mullen Jr. of Omaha, assistant to Prof. Raymond Moley in the state department before Mr. Moley resigned that post, said here tonight that he "felt sure" that he would leave the department, but didn't know just where else he might be placed. Mullen made his comment after a long distance telephone talk with Mr. Moley. He asserted he "would like" to go with Mr. Moley on the new magazine.

FORD'S CODE STAND UNKNOWN; LABOR HUNTS COURT TEST

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Despite the promulgation last night by President Roosevelt of an NRA code for the automobile industry, Henry Ford today still had not indicated his attitude.

Referring to reports that the Detroit manufacturer intended placing in effect maximum hour-minimum wage scales more beneficial to labor than those provided in the code drafted by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, it was pointed out by NRA officials that he could not use the blue eagle without signing the general agreement.

Promulgation of the automobile code has not ended the dispute over its labor provisions. One labor spokesman said any case of employes discharged for union affiliations would be tested in the courts to obtain an interpretation of the recovery act's labor provisions.

Ford Stand Undefined.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Officials of the Ford Motor company today declined to discuss the approval last night of an NRA code for the automotive industry. Henry and Edsel Ford both were reported on their vacations and not due to return until later this week. As to a better wage and hour scale than NRA, the officials pointed out those reports did not come from inside the Ford organization.

Chester M. Culver, general manager of the Employers' association of Detroit, said "the automobile industry in Detroit has always been open shop." He said William Green had tried time after time to organize labor here "and has failed. Since the passage of the recovery act union organizers have been attempting to organize the industry."

Arrest Dog Track Owners for Using Live Rabbits

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Dan J. Oswald, Robert Hamilton, and Albert Boehlert, operators of a greyhound racing course on Redondo boulevard, were arrested today on humane charges. Officers H. G. Grady and J. L. Ewing reported they used live rabbits, which were torn to pieces by the dogs. The officers said they watched the rabbits, which had been tied to racing machines by strings attached to the rabbits' skin, as they tried to outrun the dogs.

SLEEPS ON TRACK; KILLED.

Paris, Ill., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Tommy Ruggles, 40, was killed by a Big Four passenger yesterday when he went to sleep on the tracks.

Uncollected	75,898,129	103,129,905

County Treasurer McDonough was appointed receiver for 93 more tax delinquent properties under the Kerner-Skarda act yesterday by County Judge Jarecki. The properties owe a total tax bill of $391,818.

Among the properties is the University of Chicago chapter house of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity. The house is located at 5737-9 University avenue and taxes of $2,661 have accrued for 1928, 1929, and 1930. The treasurer announced that he would take over the management of the fraternity house in the fall semester unless a substantial payment is made on the taxes before then.

The treasurer filed 100 more tax receivership petitions in the County court against properties owing a total of $328,413.

Furniture Company Sues.

The Hollatz Brothers Furniture company at 2315 West Grand avenue yesterday brought suit in the Circuit court to enjoin County Treasurer McDonough from collecting the second installment of the 1931 real estate tax on their property, or selling their property for nonpayment. The total tax bill of the furniture company, based on the $7.18 rate per $100 of assessed value in West town, is $1,513. The bill alleges that the legal limit of the tax rate is $5.80 per $100, says the company is willing to pay its taxes based on the $5.80 rate, and asks that the excess be declared illegal.

The state's attorney's office yesterday filed 75 more suits for the collection of 1931 personal property taxes which have been delinquent since May 1. One of the suits is against James W. Stevens, former chairman of the board of the Illinois Life Insurance company. The suit alleges that Stevens owes $1,050 in taxes on his personal property in the insurance company office at 1212 Lake Shore drive.

Wm. B. Laurich, Lawyer, Is Sued for a Divorce

Mrs. Antoinette Laurich, 26 years old, 1900 West 22d place, filed suit in the Circuit court yesterday through Attorney Harry X. Cole against William B. Laurich, a lawyer with offices at 2214 South Lincoln street. The bill alleges that Mrs. Laurich met her husband when he acted as her attorney in 1927 and was married to him in 1928. During their married life, the bill says, he often embarrassed her in front of his clients, and struck her with a shovel on Oct. 13, 1932. Mrs. Laurich asks custody of a son 2 years old.

Oil Magnate Weds Again

Col. Henry H. Rogers and Mrs. Pauline Van Der Voort Dresser, who were married yesterday at the summer home of the bride at Southampton, N. Y. Only immediate members of the two families were present.

HENRY H. ROGERS AND MRS. DRESSER ARE MARRIED

Ceremony Takes Place at Southampton.

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Col. Henry Huddleston Rogers and Mrs. Pauline Van Der Voort Dresser, both of New York and Southampton, L. I., were married at noon today in the Southampton summer residence of the bride, Sand Blown, and will sail Wednesday on the United States liner Washington for a honeymoon abroad.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Wilbur P. Clemens of Southampton before members of the immediate families of the couple.

Son Is Father's Best Man.

Mrs. Rogers was given in marriage by Charles B. Van Der Voort of Jamestown, N. Y., her father. Henry Huddleston Rogers Jr. was his father's best man.

The engagement was announced formally two weeks ago in Southampton by Mr. Van Der Voort at a dinner given for the couple by Arturo Peratia Ramoa and his wife, who was formerly Miss Millicent Rogers, a daughter of the bridegroom.

This is Col. Rogers' third marriage. His first wife, the former Mary Benjamin, secured a divorce in Holland in 1929. The same year, he married Mrs. Basil Miles of Philadelphia. This marriage terminated in Reno last May.

Both Previously Divorced.

The marriage of the new Mrs. Rogers to the late Carl K. Dresser, an oil operator of Bradford, Pa., and Tulsa, Okla., was dissolved by divorce in 1927.

Mrs. Rogers, through her mother, the former Miss Sarah Adelia Sherman, traces her ancestry to the Sherman family of Rhode Island. Her grandfather, Bradley Martin Sherman, was related to several old New York families, and her paternal ancestor, Peter Van Der Voort, was an early Dutch settler.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Jack Simon, 6130 Rhodes avenue, writes that he has been caused "no end of embarrassment" because another Jack Simon has been convicted of robbing dress shops on the north side. He says he is in no way related to the convicted robber, who was sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary.

LIVE WIRE KILLS MAN; TWO DIE IN TRYING RESCUE

Upperville, Va., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Two men and a woman lost their lives today when one of them picked up a broken high tension electric wire with a croquet mallet and the others went to his assistance.

The dead are: Ernest Woolfe, 38; Mrs. Zell Seaton Woolfe, 35, his wife; Fitzhugh Kines, 44.

Mr. and Mrs. Woolfe and Mr. Kines and Miss Mary Crisman were playing croquet on the Woolfe estate when they saw sparks shooting from the end of a broken transmission line. Not realizing that the line carried 6,600 volts and that his mallet had a strip of steel running along the handle, Mr. Woolfe lifted the end of the wire with the mallet. The others died when they attempted to free him.

GERMANS TURN TOWARD HITLER CREED IN AFRICA

Nazi Outbreaks Reported in Lost Colonies.

BY W. E. NASH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

JOHANNESBURG, Union of South Africa, Aug. 28.—Germany's former colonies in this part of the world, or at least the German settlers in these colonies seem to be turning eagerly toward Hitlerism.

There have been Nazi outbreaks at various points. Southwest Africa has witnessed Jew baiting at Luederitzbucht and pro-Nazi demonstrations in Windhoek, capital of the land. Tanganyika territory, once called German East Africa, has prepared massmeetings of welcome for Chancellor Hitler's secretary of state for the colonies who is on a pleasure tour in Africa.

In Windhoek, feeling is reported to be running high between German and non-German, Nazi and non-Nazi burghers. Controversial speeches have been delivered before the German board of education. Demands have been voiced for the "leadership principle" now prevailing in Germany. Threats have been made against the security of outsiders. Stones have been thrown at the windows of anti-Nazi newspapers.

Seek to Ban Nazi Groups.

In retaliation British and Dutch delegates have presented to the territorial house of assembly a motion for the suppression of Nazi organizations and the prohibition of Nazi propaganda. Likewise, it seems as if the same delegates will refuse to vote for a bill sponsored by Gen. J. B. M. Hertzog, premier of South Africa. The measure calls for the establishment of German as the third official language of Southwest Africa.

The whole session of the present legislature promises to be a struggle between German and non-German forces. The former control a majority vote, but not necessarily the two-thirds majority necessary to pass some of their most cherished measures. In any case bills must be signed by a South African administrator, or governor before they become law, because Southwest Africa is, and has been since 1919, a mandate of the Union of South Africa.

German farmers, burghers, and politicians are not all Nazis. Nevertheless, the German element as a whole has certain common revindications.

Seeks German as Official Language.

First, this group wants German established as an official language of the colony. Second, it wants rights and privileges equal to those of British and Afrikaaner Dutch settlers, not only in Southwest Africa, but also in South Africa. Third, it demands ratification by the Capetown parliament of a territorial constitution worked out last year by the local house of assembly.

This constitution is a curious document, in which there are stipulations to the effect that all European inhabitants of the territory are to be regarded as one people, irrespective of race or origin. All European persons domiciled within the territory as of Dec. 31, 1931, would be automatically naturalized. Control over police, education, aviation, land grants, and the civil service is to pass from the South African parliament to the house of assembly of Southwest Africa.

How many of their wishes and demands the Germans will obtain is uncertain because of Nazi propaganda.

REVISION OF BILLS PUTS OFF SEPT. 1 TAX PENALTY DATE

County Treasurer McDonough yesterday mailed out 11,500 tax bills on 1931 real estate which have been revised by the board of appeals. The penalty for the payment of the second installment of 1931 taxes is Sept. 1. As taxpayers are allowed 30 days in which to make payments after receiving bills, the treasurer announced that the penalty date on the tax bills sent out yesterday would be extended. The Sept. 1 penalty date will not apply to the 400,000 properties affected by the order of the board of appeals for a 15 per cent reduction on the assessment of homes and small flat buildings. The state Supreme court has sustained the board of appeals, but the matter is now before the court on a petition for rehearing. A ruling is expected by Oct. 1.

Y. M. C. A. HOTELS GET HEARING ON TAX EXEMPTION

County Assessor J. L. Jacobs yesterday told representatives of two Y. M. C. A hotels that he was convinced from a report made by his assistants that the properties should be placed on the 1932 assessment rolls. When the hotel representatives urged that they had new facts to present in support of their plea for tax exemption for the hotels, the assessor said that he would grant them a hearing.

"There is no question but that the hotels are commercial institutions and should be taxed," Mr. Jacobs said afterward, "and I believe the report made by my assistants, in which the association's viewpoint was given full consideration, settles the matter. However, if there are 'new facts' I will hear them."

The properties are the Lawson Y. M. C. A., at 30 West Chicago avenue, and the Y. M. C. A. hotel at 826 South Wabash avenue. The report prepared in Mr. Jacobs' office showed that the hotels had gone beyond the provisions of the charter, granted in 1861, which exempted them and the other holdings of the Y. M. C. A. from taxation. The charter exempted organizations operating for benevolent and religious purposes, but, according to the report, the hotels are definitely commercial and in competition with other Chicago hotels that are assessed for taxes.

DAUGHTER OF DEMOCRATIC AID TO WED SEPT. 5

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Robert Jackson of Concord, N. H., and Washington, secretary of the Democratic national committee, today announced the impending marriage of his daughter, Mrs. Sarah Jackson Coonley, to W. Forbes Morgan of New York and Washington.

A quiet, family ceremony is planned, to take place in the Lincoln chapel of the New York Avenue Presbyterian church here on the afternoon of Tuesday, Sept. 5.

It will be the second wedding of each. Morgan's first wife, Edith Hall, an aunt of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, died in 1920. Mrs. Coonley and her first husband were divorced.

CHICAGO SPECIALIST* FINDS AMAZING NEW DIRECT RELIEF FOR HAY FEVER!

Results of Short-Cut Method Surpass All Previous Efforts in Test Cases... Believed to Be Final Answer to the Riddle of Pollen Poisoning!

THIS announces the most remarkable relief in the history of hay fever . . . A Chicago specialist has simplified the complicated "pollen theory" to one single fact. And reduced its treatment to one simple remedy. With results that are the wonder of hay fever students.

Not a narcotic deadening of the nerves. Not an astringent drying up mucous membrane. Not a local treatment in any sense—but direct action in neutralizing the poison found in all hay fever victims observed. Relief is not only prompt, but thorough. It is believed to be the final answer to the baffling problems of hay fever and related allergic suffering.

Amazing New Facts

This specialist thoroughly believes in the theory newly advanced by medical science that all allergic diseases (hay fever, hives, etc.) result directly from a poisonous histamine-like substance found in the blood in excess amounts. Histamine is a poisonous end-product of protein—and all pollens are protein. Regardless of what pollens the patient was sensitive to, science has found that the histamine-like substance was always present. "It is the histamine poisoning caused by pollens—not the pollens themselves—which is the underlying cause of hay fever suffering," reasoned the doctor. A complete right about face.

The "Short-Cut" Treatment Found

Now, after 2½ years of research, this specialist has perfected Histeen—a safe preparation which promptly counteracts the effects of histamine poisoning. Often within a few minutes after the first dose relief from hay fever symptoms has followed. And the remarkable thing is that this relief is not just temporary but lasting. So rapid that relief in some cases appeared almost immediately; and so thorough that all apparent symptoms had disappeared.

NOTE:
Hives, rose fever and urticaria are all "allergic" diseases like hay fever, and also are accompanied by excess histamine. Consequently Histeen, which combats histamine, is as effective in these diseases as in hay fever.

HISTEEN
NO NARCOTICS . . . SAFE TO TAKE

These tablets promise relief to hay fever sufferers of a kind never before possible with salves, sprays, inhalers, or any other form of local application.

Laboratory Tested

These findings were verified by independent scientific tests in the laboratories of a famous medical university before offering this discovery to the public.

Now Histeen is available in drug stores. It is taken internally, in convenient tablet form, and is absolutely safe. It is complete in itself without sprays, salves or any other addition. And being utterly different, will not interfere with any other treatment. It simply acts to neutralize the effect of the histamine poisoning. But that is enough to bring thorough relief—often in the first few minutes!

AN IRISH CAPTAIN.

"These are as sweet a pair of pistols as any in the three kingdoms;" said an officer, showing a pair to a young student of his acquaintance, "and have done execution before now; at the slightest touch, off they go, as sweet as honey, without either recoiling or dipping. I never travel without them."

"I never heard of highwaymen in this part of the country."

"Nor I," replied the officer, "and if I had I should not trouble myself to carry the pistols on their account—Highwaymen are a species of sharks who are not fond of attacking us lobsters; they know we are a little too hard to crack. No, my dear sir, highwaymen know that soldiers have not much money; and what they have they fight for."

"Since that is the case, how come you to travel always with pistols?"

"Because," answered the officer, "I find them very useful in accommodating any little differences I may accidentally have with a friend, or which one friend may chance to have with another."

"Do you often settle differences in that way?"

"Why, I was twice out before I arrived at your age.—The first time was with a relation of my own, who said he would see my courage tried before he would contribute with the others towards the purchase of my first commission; so I sent him word that I would be happy to give him one proof the very next morning, and when we met, I touched him so smartly in the leg, that he has halted ever since. But all his doubts being now removed, he cheerfully contributed his quota with the rest of my relations, and we have been very good friends ever since."

"Pray what gave you occasion for the second?" said the young student.

"How it began originally is more than I can tell," answered the captain; all I know is, that a large company of us dined together; we sat long, and drank deep, and I went to bed rather in a state of forgetfulness; and was awaked in the morning from a profound sleep, by a gentleman who began a long story, how I had said something that required explanation; and also, that I had accidentally given him a blow, but he supposed I had no intention to affront him, and so he continued talking in a roundabout kind of way, without coming to any point. So I was under the necessity of interrupting him, "upon my conscience, Sir, (said I,) I am unable to declare, with certainty, whether I had any intention of affronting you or not, because my head is still a little confused, and I have no clear recollection of what passed, nor do I fully comprehend your drift at present, but I conjecture that you wish to have satisfaction; if so, I must beg you will be kind enough to say so at once, and I shall be at your service." Finding himself thus cut short, he named the place and the hour. I met him precisely at the time. His first pistol missed fire, but I hit him in the shoulder. At his second shot, the bullet passed pretty near me, but mine lodged in his hip, and then he declared he was quite satisfied. So as I had given a blow the preceding night, and two wounds that morning, upon declaring himself satisfied, I said I was contented."

"You would have been thought very hard to please, if you had made any difficulty."

"I thought so myself," rejoined the captain, "and so the affair ended, he being carried home in a coach, and I marching from the field of battle on foot."

"Pray, may I ask if you ever was in a battle?"

"No," replied the captain with a sigh, "I never was; I never had that good fortune, though I would give all the money I have in the world, and all the money I am owing, which is at least treble the sum, to be in one to-morrow."

"Provided you had a good cause!" replied the young student.

"I should not be squeamish respecting the cause, provided I had a good battle; that, my dear, is what is the most essential to a conscientious officer, who wishes to improve himself in his profession. I have much reason, therefore, to wish for a war; and at the present juncture, it would be much to the advantage of the nation in general, as it is dwindling into a country of ploughmen, manufacturers, and merchants. And you must know, too, that I am pretty fortunate, having already stood thirteen shots, and I never was hit but once."

"Thirteen! what, have you fought thirteen duels?"

"No, no!" replied the captain, "the last shot fired to me completed only my sixth duel."

Wonders of Littleness.—Pliny and Elian relate that Myrmecides wrought out of ivory a chariot, with four wheels and four horses, and a ship with all her tackling, both in so small a compass, that a bee could hide either with its wings. Nor should we doubt this, when we find it recorded in English history, on less questionable authority, that in the twentieth year of Queen Elizabeth's reign a blacksmith of London, of the name of Mark Scaliot, made a lock of iron, steel, and brass, of eleven pieces, and a pipe key, all of which only weighed one grain. Scaliot also made a chain of gold, of forty-three links, which he fastened to the lock and key, and put it round the neck of a flea, which drew the whole with perfect ease. The chain, key, lock, and flea, altogether weighed but one grain and a half!

Hadrianus Junis saw at Mechlin in Brabant, a cherry-stone cut into the form of a basket; in it were fourteen pair of dice distinct, the spots and numbers of which were easily to be discerned with a good eye.

But still more extraordinary than this basket of dice, or any thing we have yet mentioned, must have been a set of nursery shown at Rome, in the time of Pope Paul the Fifth, by one Shad of Mitelbrach, who had purchased it from the artist Oswaldus Norhingerus. It consisted of sixteen hundred dishes, which were all perfect and complete in every part, yet so small and slender that the whole could be easily enclosed in a case fabricated in a peppercorn of the ordinary size! The Pope is said to have himself counted them, but with the help of a pair of spectacles, for they were so very small as to be almost invisible to the naked eye. Although his holiness thus satisfied his own eyes of the fact, he did not, we are assured, require of these about him to subscribe to it on the credit of his infallibility; for he gave every one an opportunity of examining and judging for himself, and among the persons thus highly favored, particular reference is made to Gaspar Schioppius, Johannes Faber, a physician of Rome.

Turrianus, of whose skill so many wonderful things are related, is said to have fabricated iron mills, which moved of themselves, so minute in size, that a monk could carry one in his sleeve; and yet it was powerful enough to grind in a single day, grain enough for the consumption of eight men.

A Whistler.—A boy in Vermont, accustomed to whistling alone, was so prone to whistling, that, as soon as he was by himself, he unconsciously commenced. When asleep, the muscles of his mouth, chest, and lungs were so completely concatenated in the association, he whistled with astonishing shrillness. A pale countenance, loss of appetite, and almost total prostration of strength, convinced his mother it would end in death, if not speedily overcome; which was accomplished by placing him in the society of another boy, who had orders to give him a blow as soon as he began to whistle.

Another CENTURY of PROGRESS

When the first issue of The Sun appeared 100 years ago the telegraph, telephone, cable and wireless were unknown. The most important railroad in the country was 34 miles long. The steamship was a novelty and transatlantic service had not been established.

The news came slowly . . . by sailing vessels, by stage coach, by pony express, by runners on foot. Local news was considered of little value in those days. Most of the space in the newspapers was devoted to politics, national affairs and foreign news. As a consequence, the news was days, frequently weeks, old. A large portion of it was clipped from month-old newspapers from abroad and from newspapers several days old from other cities.

During its century of existence The Sun has used every known method to assure its readers getting the news quickly. It has had its own horse expresses. It has engaged special trains, used its own steamboats, and maintained its own carrier pigeons.

Today The Sun has its reporters and correspondents in every town and city of importance in the world. It is centered in a web of cable and telegraph wires that incessantly tap out the day's news from everywhere.

Somewhere today, perhaps in London, Berlin, Paris, India, Japan, China, there is an event that touches our lives and interests . . . Today the news of the event appears in The Sun alongside the news of New York and the nation. Nor are the accounts of the events cold recitals of facts as they were 100 years ago; they are graphic stories of events that live before the reader's eye.

The Sun is today one of the great newspapers of the country, complete without being ponderous, interesting without being sensational, accurate without being dull or lacking in color. Because its circulation is concentrated among people of intelligence and means, advertisers have found it a profitable medium for their messages. The newspaper which Ben Day founded 100 years ago has grown with the city which it serves.

THE 100th ANNIVERSARY NUMBER OF THE SUN

On Saturday, September 2, The Sun will publish its 100th Anniversary Number, giving an interesting record of the growth of this newspaper and the development of the city, State and nation during the last century. With copies of the Anniversary Number, newsdealers will distribute, without charge, reprints of the first issue of The Sun . . . "The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

GOLD AND THE GOVERNMENT.

About once a week the press agent of the department of justice in Washington takes a hitch in his pants and tells the world just what is going to happen to the gold hoarders. The first half dozen or so statements of this kind found a place on the first page, but, as nothing happened, the story has been allowed latterly to drop back toward page 14. When some of the gold hoarders, just one, for example, is made to cough up his gold or is penalized in some fashion for holding it, the matter may be regarded as news.

Meanwhile it is pretty clear that an injustice has been done by the government. Those who had gold and gave it up did so at a loss which today runs to something like $25 or $30 a hundred. The government has made a corresponding profit, for it gave in return paper money which has steadily depreciated. If the government is not going to proceed against gold hoarders, but is only bluffing, it will penalize those who cooperated and reward those who have stubbornly refused to do so. Those who gave up their gold would be justified in demanding that the government return it. On the showing to date the government can properly be suspected not only of playing favorites as between citizens but of having obtained valuable property by threats and false pretenses. Citizens who are accustomed to regarding the financial dealings of their government as a model of rectitude are having difficulty in adjusting the theory to the facts.

The difficulty is not lightened by the recent ruling of the department with respect to gold ore and concentrates. It is a crime, or so it is alleged, for an individual citizen to own gold or to export it without authorization, but it is not a crime to export it in a partly refined form, though it must be obvious that exporting it in any form comes to about the same thing from the point of view either of the owner or of the general welfare. John Smith who foresaw the depreciation of the currency and therefore exchanged his paper money for gold is an arch-fiend; but Henry Jones who foresaw the depreciation of the currency and bought stock in a gold mine is permitted to avoid any loss.

It would be interesting to know how the government finds it possible to distinguish between private property in gold and private property in a gold mine.

WHY NOT SAVE HERE?

Attorney General Cummings announces a comprehensive shakeup of dry enforcement forces, and among other changes the establishment of a new dry enforcement district with headquarters in Chicago. The shakeup would be more considerative of conditions and more consistent with the administration's purpose of retrenchment in the ordinary federal expenditures if it were a shakeout rather than a shakeup. We can find no justification for the continuation of a discredited, obnoxious and worse than futile office. The federal law enforcement activities should be returned to normal as quickly as possible, not only to stop the waste of public money but to remove further opportunity for the misdeeds that have outraged the just feelings of the public during the regime of dry bigotry. Competent administration of federal law must be maintained, but it is disparaged, not helped, by the activities of dry régime enforcement, and will return to popular respect and efficiency only when it returns to its former and proper field.

SUGGESTIONS FROM AN EDUCATOR.

The veterans of the organization of Socialist parties known as the Second Internationale, in convention in Paris, were surprised to find the American delegation the most radical at the conference. Among the American proposals is that the Second Internationale shall by some means, not very clearly defined, arm all the "workers" in all countries with revolvers, rifles and machine guns in order to meet the "menace of Fascism."

It seems that the menace of Fascism in America is inclosed in the innocent appearing bosom of Nira, which Delegate Prof. Krueger of the faculty of the University of Chicago views with dissatisfaction and even concern as not only a far cry from the control of industry which a Socialist government would establish but positively dangerous to the proletariat in offering the framework for a Fascist tyranny.

On the other hand Prof. Krueger is reported to have pointed out that NRA does offer workers a chance to build up a fighting mass organization by which in the impending struggle with Fascism the Socialist cause may conquer. Another inspiration of Prof. Krueger was a proposal to enter into negotiations with the Third or Communist Internationale at Moscow with the view of establishing a united front.

Prof. Krueger's amiable proposal that American wage earners, who, we take it, are what he means by "the workers," forthwith arm themselves with revolvers, rifles, and machine guns, for civil bloodshed seems worthy of consideration from the viewpoint of that mooted question of academic freedom. We are all for freedom of thought and utterance, not only in the ordinary individual but also and perhaps especially in the forum of the higher learning. But does the principle of academic freedom imply a duty on the part of an educational institution to retain the services of a jackass? We would not deny the right of any member of a college faculty to have his own opinion of events or his own theories of policy and, having them, to express them. If a man believes sincerely in astrology or numerology we are all for his freedom to utter his faith freely, but does it justify his employment in the department of astronomy? We are all for Prof. Krueger's liberty to diagnose and prescribe for our social ills, but after all an institution of education owes something to the minds and spirits of the youth whom it purports to educate and, while we may be the victims of the bourgeois idealogy and thus shut off from the true light, it seems to us doubtful that the students of the university will derive benefit from the guidance of Prof. Krueger or any other educator of similar mental and moral condition.

SIX MONTHS FROM MOLEY TO TUGWELL.

In the beginning there was Prof. Moley, and he was the whole brain trust. Later came Tugwell. On the day Prof. Moley resigned a new name, that of Dr. Dahlberg, the pink and green money man, came to notice.

A little less than six months saw the rising of Dr. Moley's sun and the going down thereof. In that time Prof. Moley demonstrated, among other things, that he was not particularly well equipped for a diplomatic career; but on the whole it may be said that his influence in the administration has been wholesome. His voice has frequently been raised in behalf of moderation. His mind was disciplined. When he was told about a pot of gold buried at the end of the rainbow he generally asked what rainbow, which end, who said so, and how did he know. Often Dr. Moley must have added, "So what?" Without Dr. Moley, it seems probable, a great many schemes for reorganizing everything into particularly small pieces might have been undertaken.

Almost from the start it was said that the other brain trustees were going to get him. Whether they got him or he got himself is a matter about which there may be debate in future. Meanwhile the departure of Dr. Moley must raise the question in many minds whether Prof. Tugwell now succeeds, and, if so, how long Tugwell will last.

Originally it was Moley at bat, Tugwell on deck, and Dahlberg in the hole. Moley tried to stretch a single into a two bagger and is out at second. Tugwell is at the plate. How long before the pink and green money man, Dr. Dahlberg, will replace him? And after Dahlberg, who's next? Where is Zack Foster's place in the batting order?

CUTTING THE PIE.

A billion dollars of the government's public works fund has now been allocated for various projects, most of them federal but many of them local in character. New York the other day obtained 37 million dollars for a bridge and advances of more than 5 million dollars for two large-scale housing projects. The sea coasts get the several hundred millions' spending on the navy. Whether the public works plan is well conceived or not is no longer in question. The money has been voted and will be spent somewhere. The need for funds to complete the sanitary district's sewage treatment works is unquestioned. The Supreme court has ordered the works built, but in the present state of local finances it is impossible to borrow the money. The plans and specifications are completed. The government ought to buy the drainage canal, now that the canal is no longer to be useful for sewage disposal and is to be used only for navigation; but whether the canal is purchased or not, the money with which to build the sewage treatment plants should be made available.

Other public works, including the elevated highway to the west and the outer drive bridge, have everything to recommend them, as a million visiting motorists can testify.

If New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Hutchinson [Kas.] can get advances for housing projects, there is no reason why Chicago should not, for there has been no lack of initiative shown by Chicago architects and builders. A half dozen plans, drawn by some of the ablest specialists in large-scale urban housing, are ready.

Editorial of the Day

PERPLEXING PRICES.

[The Sun, New York.]

Gen. Johnson has talked a great deal about the way his staff will punish cheaters who block recovery under the NRA. The problem that will give him most trouble, as he admits, is price control. Collecting many bushels of statistics will not stop an unreasonable rise in prices in some quarters, nor can the central statistical board act effectively to adjust wages to prices. These basic relations between income and cost of living are still subject to the law of supply and demand. The NRA has not repealed or modified that simple economic law to bring it within control. It would take an army of investigators to check the accuracy of price gains in every trade and every community.

Rising prices, moreover, may cause no more trouble than conditions which may depress prices to a level at which heavy losses may be sustained in certain industries. While men's wear dealers, for instance, have announced an average price increase of 20 per cent on fall goods over those of last spring, several manufacturing industries are wondering what can be done in a period of slack demand with a heavy surplus of goods.

The cotton goods trade expects mill shutdowns, or at least sharp curtailment in output of goods, as stocks are piling up in the face of an inadequate demand. The processing tax to aid farmers is regarded among the cotton fabric makers as a serious obstacle to their immediate recovery. The lumber industry is reported to be producing twice as much lumber as is needed to fill the present demand. The industry has a surplus of material which, so long as it exists, will have a deterring effect on all efforts to raise prices, while costs of manufacture are going up.

THE LIGHTS OF FRIENDLY TOWN.

Here, in the city of the proud,
Alone I wander, up and down;
But often for my eyes there gleam
The lights of Friendly Town.

The city lights are bright, 'tis true,
Along the streets of wide renown,
But somehow still I long to see
The lights of Friendly Town.

The faces that I see are fair,
But there's a face, more plain and brown,
Which tempts me oft to seek again
The lights of Friendly Town.

Why should I tread these weary streets
And seek my lonely thoughts to drown,
When there are twinkling, calm and bright,
The lights of Friendly Town?

Ah, soon I'll hie me back again
And ask of HER love's joy and crown,
Then we shall build our nest among
The lights of Friendly Town.

FORMERLY BONE DRY TEXAS BECAME THE twenty-third state to record its sentiment against the eighteenth amendment and for repeal. Washington votes today. For information of those becoming a bit impatient, other states cast ballots thus: Vermont, Sept. 5; Maine, Sept. 11; Maryland, Colorado and Minnesota, Sept. 12; Idaho and New Mexico, Sept. 19; Virginia, Oct. 3; Florida, Oct. 10; Ohio, Pennsylvania, Utah, North Carolina and South Carolina, Nov. 7. North Carolina and South Carolina thus vote on the same day. One wonders if the two governors will engage in any conversation.

WHAT PRICE PUBLICITY.

Dear Harve: This competition among country clubs for first page publicity has Exmoor on the spot. We have 129 entries for the women's national golf championship being held this week, but we have no eight goal polo players and, anyway, north shore residents now pull in their ravines and sidewalks at 9:30. Neither of the gentlemen of the "kiss by the swimming pool" is on our waiting list. We have no machine gunners, so far as we know, among our lady entrants. We thought of signing a fan dancer to do a parachute drop, but feared the fans might drop faster than the parachute, which would be embarrassing to members of our conservative organization. But we do want some publicity so people may come out to see what I believe is the most representative field ever to compete in this event. If you get an idea, come out to dinner Thursday night. PIMPLES AND VITAMIN D.

THERE are several causes of pimples that are rather generally accepted and some others that are not. Among those in the first group are the sex glands, failure to keep the skin clean and the sebaceous glands emptied, and the influence of age. A new one but recently proposed is a deficiency in vitamin D.

Among the second group are the eating of candy and other sweets in excess and the eating of pork. The theory that eating too much sweets is the cause has been considerably upset by the failure to find high blood sugar in cases where pimples were bad, by the fact that clinically no unusual prevalence of pimples has been noted among diabetics and others with high blood sugar, and by the failure of diet to clear up pimples.

The theory that eating pork is the cause was never more than a crude inference. No proof of the theory has come by reason of scientific work on the liquidity of the fat on the grease glands and any change therein by reason of eating oils and liquid fats, on the one hand, or suets, tallows, butters, and more solid fats, on the other.

Of the several causes the most important by odds, from the practical standpoint, is failure to keep the skin scrupulously clean and the sebaceous glands well emptied. The new one recently pitched into the arena of battle by two university students is that pimples result from a deficiency of vitamin D. These two students were unhappy because of the affliction. They had learned that a good treatment for pimples is exposure to ultra violet rays. They knew of cases where such exposure had brought about temporary improvement. They knew of the accepted opinion that the activation of ergosterol in the skin by the action of light thereon produces vitamin D. The inference is that this action is responsible for the benefit that comes from the use of ultra-violet.

Following this line of observation and reasoning they concluded to try viosterol on themselves. They were convinced that their acne was made less. Armed with this visible proof and making use of their powers of persuasion they induced thirty-five pimply associates in the university to try the method.

After four to five weeks Messrs. Doktorsky and Platt reported that 90 per cent of the students had had an improvement of 75 to 80 per cent. Probably they were freer from pimples than was the average boy or girl. The remaining 10 per cent were improved about 50 per cent.

Toward the latter part of the experiment ten of the students stopped the treatment for two weeks, whereupon their skin became as pimply as it was originally. Those who continued treatment during this two weeks did not relapse. The report states that blood determinations made during the test showed no change in calcium. There is no report on blood sugar or changes in refraction of fats. Nor is there a report of other procedures taken to control pimples.

The treatment used was viosterol taken internally. The beginning dose was ten drops a day. That used later was 20 drops a day.

TWO HEARTS.

C. A. B. writes: I have read of persons having two hearts. Is there any record of persons being born with two of any other vital organs? Which ones? Is there a known cause for such a condition, or is it just a freak of nature?

REPLY.

Everybody has two hearts—right and left. They are fastened together and are loosely thought of as one. Practically all organs in the body are in pairs. Among the few exceptions are the liver, the spleen, and the digestive tract.

NRA Question Box

Questions concerning the operation and enforcement of the NRA [national reëmployment agreement] are constantly arising. To settle some of the confusion and misunderstanding, THE TRIBUNE will print daily a series of questions and answers regarding the agreement.

Q.—How is the government going to make an employer live up to the promises he makes when he signs the NRA pledge?

A.—A complete check is to be made soon to determine who is complying and who is not. The government has indicated that it may single out willful violators to "make an example of" but has stressed the fact that force or intimidation cannot make a success of the campaign; that only 100 per cent coöperation from all employers can.

Q.—Are consumers supposed to boycott concerns which do not live up to the NRA?

A.—The national recovery administration has condemned the word "boycott." The consumers' statements of coöperation [pledge cards] now being distributed declare: "I will coöperated in reëmployment by supporting and patronizing employers and workers who are members of NRA.

Q.—When will the real effect of the NRA, if any, be felt?

A.—While an upturn in employment has already been noted, the recovery administration has warned that several months will probably elapse before an improvement, which may be regarded as permanent, is recorded.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 29, 1917.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson, on behalf of the United States, has rejected the peace proposals of Pope Benedict XV. The President, in a reply which reached the Vatican yesterday, declared that peace on the terms submitted by his holiness would involve a renewal of the "furious and brutal" policy of the German imperial government. The President asserted in terse language that the terms offered only would serve to give Germany time for recuperation in order to renew its craving to dominate the world. Acceptance of the offer, the President further declared, would demand that a permanent hostile combination of nations be maintained against the German people; that it would force abandonment of "new born" Russia to intrigue, counter revolution and "all the malign influences to which the German government has of late accustomed the world." The President's reply is another terrific indictment of the imperial German government, which, he asserts, set out to dominate the world by brute force. "We cannot take the word of the present rulers of Germany as a guarantee of anything that is to endure, unless explicity supported by such conclusive evidence of the will and purpose of the German people themselves as the other peoples of the world would be justified in accepting," the President declared.

WASHINGTON. — President Wilson's rejection of the pope's peace proposals is regarded here as the high water mark of the war. Furthermore, it is indicative of the virtual selection of the President by the allies as their spokesman before the world.

WAR SUMMARY. — British drive forward on 2,000 yard front in Flanders and occupy posts in German third system, London reports. Rome claims further progress on Bainsizza plateau. Russian troops desert trenches and retire to the east in region east of Czernowitz.

EQUALIZING OPPORTUNITY.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—There should be a different view taken by the public of what is being termed a school wrecking program of the board of education. In the matter of their abandoning the junior high schools and Crane Junior college their action may rightly be termed a school opportunity equalizing program.

When the first junior high school was erected some years ago it was announced that that step was an experiment. After that experiment was found to be successful, if the junior high school was to be made a permanent institution in Chicago, there should have been, in order to give equal opportunities to all of Chicago's children, enough schools of this type provided to accommodate all of the seventh, eighth and ninth grade pupils in the city. It was recently reported that only 40 per cent of these pupils last year were in the junior high schools, the other 60 per cent who attended the elementary grade schools being without the superior training that these newer schools were supposed to give.

Inasmuch as there cannot be enough junior highs provided for all of the children of these grades, and since such a large part of the senior high school pupils are without a decent place to sit in, it will mean a far greater justice to all to place the 40 per cent now in the junior high back in the 800 vacant rooms in the elementary grade schools and to use the present junior high buildings for the senior high school pupils. This equalization of opportunities will not only affect the coming school year but, if the public comes to see the justice of it, will no doubt be effective many years to come.

In the matter of the abandonment of Crane Junior college there is very strong argument in favor of the action of the board from this same standpoint. Before educational advantages are given to Chicago young men and women beyond that afforded by the senior high schools, those who are still in the senior high should have comfortable and decent housing. Students who graduate from this institution, if they have not skipped or repeated any of the grades, are either slightly past or close to eighteen years of age. It must be granted that when the taxpayers of the city have given these young people training for thirteen or fourteen years they have done pretty well by them. If young men and women past eighteen must be provided with college training to keep them from crime, as is being said in the present agitation against the board's action, their education in the Chicago schools has been a failure. If, however, their higher training is to continue—if the courts should prevent the closing of Crane college—those receiving this advanced work should be the ones to be housed in portables.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—On Saturday, at about 3 in the afternoon, a Lincoln sedan car, Illinois license number 34-433, with a big star, going west crossed to the south lane of Washington boulevard to pass cars stopped by red light and ran through it at a high rate of speed. Chicago, Aug. 21.—I am following an irresistible impulse by asking you to print this tribute to John T. McCutcheon. As an artist, a gentleman, and a man of honor he deserves to rank among the unforgettable. In our decadent and degenerate times he always stands for the refined and for righteousness. More power to him. EDWIN J. KUH, M. D.

PRAIRIE FARMERS NEAR CONTROL OF MILK MARKET

U. S. May Force Policies on All Producers.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The story of how an association of dairy farmers organized in 1925 to control the marketing of milk for Chicago and suburbs may have their policies forced upon all farmers in the area by the federal government was unfolded here last night.

That farmers' organization is the Pure Milk association, with nearly 18,000 members whose yearly business totals nearly 23 million dollars. The association was formed when the Chicago board of health ruled that all milk sold in Chicago must come from cows certified to be free from tuberculosis. Its first officers were unpaid volunteers. Now they command good salaries and expense accounts.

Expect Court Ruling Today.

At first few dealers took notice of the farmers' organization. Now less than 10 per cent of the milk consumed in the metropolitan area is sold from any other source except members of the association. Should the trade agreement and license laid down for Chicago by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace on Aug. 1 be upheld by the District of Columbia Supreme court in a ruling which is scheduled to be made today, the association will be able to dictate virtually the entire business conduct of all farmers selling milk or cream in the area from Waukegan to Chicago Heights, and from Elgin to Gary, Ind.

The recognition of the Pure Milk association's strength was first recorded in January, 1929, when at the close of a strike throughout the dairy district, leading milk companies agreed to arbitrate and to buy milk only through the association. It is a corporation organized under the farm coöperative act of Illinois which permits collective bargaining without violating anti-trust laws.

How "Base" Was Fixed.

In 1929 the association undertook to fix the basis upon which each member could produce milk for the city market, and the manner in which to qualify for a premium price to be paid by milk companies for milk sold in fluid form. As a test, each farmer member was permitted to produce all the milk he could during a three month period. The average production of the three months was called his allotment, or "base."

The companies agreed to pay each farmer the special "base" price for this allotment, which was all that could be consumed in fluid form in Chicago. All milk produced over this "base" was classed as surplus and was paid for on the basis of current quotations for butter and manufactured dairy products. Member farmers paid 1 cent per hundredweight of milk as dues.

As the association closed in on dealers who were not under contract, forcing them to come into the "big deal," the association reached a point two years ago where virtually no nonmember's milk could find a market in Chicago.

Insure Accurate Tests.

On July 1, 1930, the dues were raised to 2 cents a hundredweight, and a testing and inspection force was added to insure each member's getting accurate butterfat tests and to strengthen the inspections of the city of Chicago, curtailed in an economy drive. Members also were paid 80 per cent of all losses incurred by being "shut off" the market by scarlet fever or other contagious outbreaks.

At this time, also, the association started returning $1 per member per year to his community or "local" district of the association, to finance meetings and the maintaining of a solid membership. On July 1, 1931, the dues were raised to 3 cents a hundred pounds. From the added sum the members were guaranteed against loss of revenue from failure of milk buyers, and a large contribution was made to the Milk Foundation, Inc.

The latter organization is also financed by contributions from the milk companies. It distributes propaganda on milk products in the public schools, uses billboard advertising for milk, and financed a series of talks on the radio by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago board of health.

Code Affects Nonmembers.

In the new code which Secretary Wallace announces will become mandatory on all handlers of milk and cream in this area, farmers and dealers not under Pure Milk association control will be obliged to pay as much to the Milk Foundation as do those complying with the association's rules. The government is pledged to pay sums from the Milk Foundation to give the nonmember farmers "benefits similar to those which are secured by members of the association."

On July 1, 1932, the farmers' dues were advanced to 8 cents per hundredweight. This new fund of nearly a half million dollars a year was drawn upon to pay members for their milk when dealers no longer could buy it, in an effort to prevent such milk being sold at cut prices.

Of $466,158 collected in one year for the market loss checkoff of 5 cents a hundredweight, $446,630 has been repaid to such farmers as lost their market through no fault of their own.

The "base" of payment, or allotment which each farmer in the association is permitted to sell at the premium price of $1.75 per cwt., has not been changed since 1929, except that last fall each member was penalized 5 per cent of his "base" and this reapportioned back to those with low "bases" through the local districts of the association.

The "base" insures a herd owner that his milk check will come regularly and places a premium on herds having it. If two men own such a herd and they divide it, the "base" is split between the owners. A herd holding such a "base" may be moved to another farm or sold, provided the new farm meets regulations of the city health board.

QUIZZED IN PLUNGE

Miss Elizabeth Urbanski, 25 years old, was recovering last night at John B. Murphy hospital after she had attempted to end her life by leaping from the sixth floor of an apartment hotel at 712 Diversey parkway, where she lived, earlier in the day. John Kohler, 28 years old, a soda clerk, who also lived in the apartment hotel, said he could give no reason for her act. He was charged with disorderly conduct.

RULING TODAY IN VALIDITY OF MILK PRICE ACT

Constitutional Decision at Washington.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—In the judgment of Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue of the District of Columbia Supreme court tonight rested the outcome of the first legal challenge to the constitutionality of federal price fixing under the farm adjustment act.

Following a day of argument by counsel for the government and for the group of 102 Chicago independent milk distributors who seek to restrain enforcement of the recently approved marketing agreement for the Chicago milk shed, Justice O'Donoghue announced that he would take the case under advisement and render a decision at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Whether his decision will result in an appeal which would send the case eventually to the United States Supreme court was uncertain. There was a possibility that should the Chicago independents lose in this initial court test, they will bring their complaint before department of agriculture officials for open hearings.

Constitution Involved.

It was the question of constitutionality raised by former Assistant State's Attorney General Nugent Dodds in behalf of the independents which formed the basis of today's argument before Justice O'Donoghue. As its immediate answer, the government presented a contention that the injunction action was brought prematurely by the independents before they had exhausted the remedies provided them under the farm act. But the discussions revolved almost entirely around the constitutional aspects of the case.

James L. Fly, special assistant to the attorney general, counsel for the government, asserted that the issue as to legality under the constitution involved the question whether the government, "in the present emergency and under existing circumstances, has the power to regulate the price of milk bought and sold in interstate commerce."

The government attacked the sanitary methods of the complaining independents in Chicago. He asserted they operate under no municipal health regulations and have refused to comply with Chicago health ordinances.

Following Mr. Fly's presentation of the government's case, Attorney Dodds asked specifically for a temporary injunction which would "maintain the status quo," pending the ultimate outcome of the litigation.

Aviation Notes

Residents of the northwest section of the city were alarmed early last night when the Goodyear blimps, the Puritan and the Reliance, flew low while fighting a stiff headwind en route to their base at Palwaukee airport, at Milwaukee avenue and Dundee road, from the Fair. The ships reached the airport without difficulty and were landed and docked by their pilots, John Benton and John Reiker.

A new record for air passengers in and out of Chicago in one day was claimed by United Air Lines yesterday for Sunday, when 178 persons arrived and an equal number departed over the system.

The growth of commercial aviation in the last fifteen years will be stressed during National Air Mail day at the Fair on Sept. 6, it was announced yesterday by Capt. B. B. Lipsner, first superintendent of the air mail service. Comparison will be made between the first mail flight of 23 hours and 47 minutes between New York and Chicago fifteen years ago and the same flight today, which requires four and one-half hours.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BARCELONA, Spain, Aug. 28.—Claude I. Dawson, American consul general at Barcelona, received an appeal today from the five Americans who are awaiting trial at Palma, Mallorca, on charges of assaulting a civil guard. They asked him to intervene in their behalf.

The Americans, who were released on bail July 20 after leading a squalid life in a Mallorcan jail for six weeks, pleaded with the American consul general to speed up their trial and to protest the severity of the charges preferred against them by the Spanish military authorities in Mallorca.

The Americans involved are Mr. and Mrs. Clinton B. Lockwood, Springfield, Mass.; Rutherford Fullerton, Columbus, O.; Walter Blodgett, Stamford, Conn.; and Roderick F. Mead, New York City. They claim that the Mallorcan officials are making life miserable for them because of resentment over the intervention of Premier Manuel Azana of Spain. It was Azana who finally ordered the five prisoners freed on bail after strenuous protests had been registered by American newspapers and Ambassador Claude Bowers.

The Americans further charged that their case has become a political issue in Mallorca.

It is understood that the protest will be followed up by the American embassy at Madrid.

Heart Attack Is Fatal to Former Canal Chief.

Timothy J. Crowe, who arose from a rough and tumble boyhood in a steel mill district to become a power in Democratic politics and president of the sanitary board, and who was convicted and sentenced to prison in the sanitary district graft case, died suddenly of heart disease yesterday at his summer home at Williams Bay, Wis. He was 58 years old.

His death bore out his prediction at the time of his conviction eighteen months ago that he would never live to go to prison. He had been in poor health since his indictment in 1929. His appeal from a prison sentence of one to five years is pending in the Appellate court.

Peddler of Lunch Pails.

Crowe's first job was as a peddler of tin lunch pails in the steel mills. Later he became a street car conductor and an investigator for the Surface Lines. He became a deputy clerk under County Clerk Sweitzer in 1912, later was made chief clerk in that office, and held a series of minor executive posts in public office until his election to the sanitary district board in 1922. He had risen in the party organization at the same time, becoming Democratic committeeman from the 37th ward and secretary of the party organization.

Crowe was elected president of the sanitary board in 1926, when the Democrats gained control of it. The two years following saw an orgy of spending, with thousands of political pay rollers put on the district's rolls. The order of the United States Supreme court requiring the district to construct a series of sewage treatment plants provided a front for the activity.

The storm broke shortly after Crowe was defeated for reëlection in 1928. Frank J. Loesch, veteran crime fighter, conducted a special grand jury investigation which disclosed a waste of public funds estimated at $5,000,000 or more.

Legislators on Pay Roll.

The investigators found that thousands of pay rollers had never done any work for their checks. These included numerous members of the legislature, for some of whom a special, secret pay roll was established, and scores of lawyers, a number of whom were later disciplined by the Supreme court.

From the disclosures of the manner in which taxpayers' money had been used to finance pleasure jaunts of the trustees, the period of the board's wild spending was dubbed the "whoopee era." There was a trip to New York to a footbal game, followed by an orgy in the old Waldorf Astoria hotel, costing $6,900 altogether, including charges for broken furniture.

An auto livery company billed the district for $120,000 for automobile hire, but its records showed that these charges included expenditures for women entertainers, liquor, powder puffs, and other articles of feminine use. When the investigation turned to the district's contracts it was learned that the trustees had spent $1,068,000 for a horseless bridle path adjoining the north shore channel road, in some instances paying contractors to haul cinders away from the district's plants and then buying the same cinders for use on the path.

Canal Trustees Indicted.

Crowe, James M. Whalen, John K. Lawler, Frank J. Link, John J. Touhy, and August W. Miller, all members of the board during the "whoopee era," were indicted along with several employés. The indictment gathered dust for a year. It was predicted that the politicians would never come to trial, but finally, through the persistence of John E. Northup, then a prosecutor, the case went to trial in the fall of 1931.

His conviction ended Crowe's power in the ward organization, although he fought successfully for reëlection as ward committeeman last spring.

Other troubles for Crowe followed. The Oak Park bank of which he had been president and a large stockholder failed. The federal government filed an income tax lien for nearly $500,000 against his property. He was reported to have made a settlement with the government, under which he was still making payments.

His wife, Mrs. Mary Ellen Keegan Crowe, and a son, Francis, were with him when he died yesterday. There are also three daughters, Marcella, Marian, and Mrs. Isabelle Joyce. The body was brought back to Chicago.

Johnson Makes Speech at Convention.

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Flanked by spectators all along the four mile parade route, ten thousand Illinois members of the American Legion marched through Rockford streets today after hearing their national commander, Louis A. Johnson, appeal for a united veteran body behind the Legion's program for national defense and the rehabilitation of world war service men.

Speaking at the Midway theater this morning, the commander asked also for a resolute body of Legion men "behind President Roosevelt's NRA program," and the response was resounding cheers.

The parade was one of the most impressive and spectacular which northern Illinois has ever witnessed. For more than three hours marching men and women passed through city streets. The Legionnaires, most of them grown a bit corpulent since world war days, marched, however, with their old war time cadence.

The Board of Trade post band of Chicago won first place in the department band contest at Fair grounds park. Second place went to Peoria post No. 2. The Jacksonville State Hospital band was third.

Pledge Fight for Pensions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—With an estimated 20,000 veterans of the foreign wars in Milwaukee, the business sessions of their 34th annual encampment got under way today, with the national leaders of the organization pledging a fight to recover their bonuses and pensions.

Distinguished guests who arrived today were Gen. Smedley D. Butler, of the Marines, and United States Senator Huey P. Long, Louisiana and Senator Elmer Thomas, Oklahoma. Admiral Robert E. Coontz, national commander in chief, made a strong plea for a better national defense. "The veterans of foreign wars stand strongly for national defense in letter as well as in word," he declared. "We call for a rounding out of the national defense in every particular to present day needs."

Senator Thomas promised that "when congress convenes again one of the first problems to be considered will be the plight of the veterans of the nation. I hereby pledge my support for proper hospitalization, liberal compensation, pensions, and the full and immediate payment of the bonus promised the soldiers."

One of the resolutions to be presented before the convention of delegates will be a demand for outright repeal of the federal program for veterans' compensation.

DR. A. M. HALL, EYE SPECIALIST OF NOTE, IS DEAD

Dr. Alfred Marvin Hall, noted eye specialist and an ardent trout fisherman, dropped dead Sunday at Twin Lakes, Wis., where he had spent his summers fishing for 40 years, it was learned yesterday. His home in Chicago was at 47 Bellevue place.

Dr. Hall was 71 years old. The body is being accompanied home by his widow, who had spent two months this summer with him at Twin Lakes.

Dr. Hall, who had no children, was born in Northampton, Mass., in 1862. He was graduated from old West Division High school in Chicago and attended Amherst college, where he received the degree of A. B. in 1885.

He was graduated from Northwestern university medical school in 1889 and took post-graduate courses in Europe for three years. In 1896 he married Elise Coleman of Dessau, Germany. He engaged in practice in Chicago in 1893 and became associated successively with the opthalmology departments of Northwestern university, University of Chicago, and the Passavant and Children's hospitals.

ALBERT LESTER FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow for Albert G. Lester, a member of the Chicago Stock exchange since 1893, who died Sunday night at the Presbyterian hospital after a short illness. The services will be conducted from the home at 5702 Blackstone avenue, and burial will be at Hinsdale.

Mr. Lester was 76 and a resident of Chicago for over 70 years. He became a member of the firm of Granger Farwell & Co. in 1899 and later was vice president and secretary of the Farwell Trust company. In 1913 he and other associates founded the present firm of Lester, Carter & Co. He was a governor and vice president of the Chicago Stock exchange for many years and retired from active business in 1932.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Fannie B. Lester, and two daughters.

FUNERAL TODAY FOR MOTHER OF DAVID S. KLAFTER

Mrs. Hannah Klafter, 78 years old and a resident of Chicago for fifty years, who died at the Grant hospital Saturday night after an extended illness, will be buried in Waldheim cemetery this afternoon. She was the mother of David Saul Klafter, noted architect, and of Joseph H. Klafter, vice president of the Diamond Coal company.

She also was survived by another son, Charles B. Klafter, and a daughter, Mrs. Max J. Klafter, both of Chicago. Services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Piser's chapel, 4911 Broadway.

Mrs. Klafter was born in Hungary. She and her husband, Adolph, who died thirteen years ago, came to this county in 1873. Her home here was in the Rokeby hotel, 3831 Rokeby street.

Clarence C. Majeski Dies; Leading Polish Attorney

Clarence C. Majeski, 36 years old, died yesterday at his home, 4810 South Kedvale avenue, after a long illness. Mr. Majeski, who was a prominent Polish lawyer in Chicago and a member of both the American Bar association and the law fraternity, Phi Alpha Delta, is survived by his widow, Marie, and their two children. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Evanstonian Becomes Ill at Fair; Dies in Hospital

James Bird, 29 years old, 806 Forest avenue, Evanston, an employé of the Commercial Credit company, died last night in the emergency hospital at the Fair. After Bird had complained of feeling ill a Fair policeman took him to the hospital. There a physician discovered his heart had stopped beating. After a half hour's effort to revive him by artificial respiration, he was pronounced dead. Bird's wife, Josephine, was with him.

Plane Flying Upside Down Hits Auto; Nobody Killed

LONDON, Aug. 28.—(AP)—An air circus plane, flying upside down and close to the ground, struck a motor car at Aberdeen, Scotland, yesterday. The roof was ripped off the automobile and the plane crashed in a river, but both the pilot and the occupants of the car escaped injury. This was one of many week-end accidents which resulted in a total of 23 persons killed and many injured.

Louis P. Stone, Father of Actor, Dies in East

Freeport, L. I., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Louis P. Stone, 85, father of Fred Stone, the actor, died here today after a long illness. It was the elder Stone who taught Annie Oakley, the noted circus dead shot, how to shoot.

CUBA FACES NEW CRISIS; 2 CABINET MEN MAY RESIGN

Rift Caused by Delay in Reforms.

HAVANA, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The resignation of two members of President Carlos de Cespedes' cabinet was threatened today unless he takes immediate action to effect constitutional reforms.

The powerful ABC revolutionary society, a spokesman for the organization said, will withdraw Secretary of the Treasury Joaquin Martinez Saenz and Minister of Justice Carlos Saladrigas from the government unless this is done.

It was reported that the president had not planned to have the constitution altered until after the general election set for Feb. 24, 1934. The Nationalist party has opposed any attempt to modify the constitution.

Revolutionary Groups United.

The ABC and OCRR revolutionary groups and various student factions apparently were in unison in demanding the changes.

Bodies of ten men believed by authorities to have been killed for revolutionary activities were found by the ABC in diggings alongside Lake Piedra, near Havana. The remains of Dr. Andres Baccallao and José Hernandez, prominent Machado foes, were reported identified.

Authorities said they believed the men were killed by Lieut. Diez Diaz after the abortive 1931 revolt. Diaz was killed last year by a mailed bomb. Similar discoveries of bodies in unmarked graves occurred at Atares castle recently and former Machado aids admitted the men had been secretly slain.

Close Doors of Bank.

The doors of the Banco Comercial de Cuba, some of whose stock was held by Machado, were closed today when treasury and interior department officials intervened after a run had started. The manager, Eusebio Delfin, denied that payment had been suspended. Troops were sent to guard the bank.

Secretary of the Interior Laredo Bru said:

"You may be certain that the bank disaster of 1921 will not be repeated."

It was reported that nearly $500,000 of treasury funds was in the bank. Much of the amount was said to be consular collections.

3 SHOT IN CARD GAME ROW; COPS SEIZE ASSAILANT

Two brothers were shot, probably fatally, and a third man wounded less seriously yesterday in a quarrel over a card game in a Cicero poolroom. Their assailant was seized by the police shortly after the shooting.

The wounded men are Joseph Donbkowski, 21 years old, 3531 South 53d court, Cicero, shot in the left lung; his brother, John, 24 years old, of the same address, shot in the abdomen, and John Brennan, 26 years old, 3602 South 54th court, Cicero, wounded in the left arm. Physicians said the Donbkowski brothers had little chance of recovery.

"Red" Kelly, 35 years old, of New York, a stableman at the Davidson stables, named as the men's assailant, was arrested in a prairie a few blocks from the poolroom of Michael Litka, 3616 South 52d avenue, Cicero, where the shooting occurred.

The police were told that a quarrel started among the four men as they played cards and Kelly suddenly leaped to his feet and fired at the other three players. When arrested Kelly appeared to be under the influence of liquor, the police said.

Slight Earthquake Felt Long Beach to Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—An earthquake of minor intensity and of only a few seconds duration shook the Long Beach-Los Angeles area at 8:17 p. m. The earth tremor was most distinct in the east section of Long Beach which suffered heavy damage in the temblor of March 10, but no damage was reported from there tonight. The light shock also was felt at various points between here and Long Beach, but there was no damage.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of sufferers from piles have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1,000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets with a rigid money back guarantee.

So why waste time on external treatments or worry about an operation when Walgreen's invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back to any dissatisfied customer.

BOULDER DAM BUILDER DIES ON VISIT TO RUSSIA

MOSCOW, Aug. 28.—(AP)—An overdose of medicine [insulin] today caused the sudden death of Warren A. Bechtel, 61, of San Francisco. He was the head of the six companies building the Boulder dam. Bechtel, who had been taking the medicine on doctors' orders for several years, had planned to leave tomorrow to see the Dnieprostroy dam. He had been in Moscow three days. The widow, who is in Vienna, was notified. He also leaves three sons and a daughter.

Warren A. Bechtel was born Sept. 12, 1872, on a farm near Freeport, Ill. He worked at arduous farm chores almost from the time he could toddle, taking his schooling in the winter. When he was 12 years old the family moved to Peabody, Kas. He graduated from high school when he was 19.

In 1897 Bechtel married Miss Clara West of Cincinnati. The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway company was putting new lines westward. Bechtel hired out to the contractor with his teams at $2.75 per day per team, including driver. He got similar work in northern Iowa with the Chicago and North Western, drifted on to Minnesota, and kept following construction jobs all over the west—Wyoming, Oregon, Nevada, and California.

OTTO REXSES, 65, COUNTY EMPLOYE 40 YEARS, IS DEAD

Otto Rexses, 65 years old, 557 Lee street, Des Plaines, a county employé for more than 40 years, died last night at the County hospital.

He was employed in the office of the county treasurer, part of the time as chief clerk, for 30 years. He was custodian of the county building four years and worked in the coroner's office, when Peter Hoffman headed it, for eight years. He was also postmaster and city treasurer of Des Plaines for terms of four years each.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon in Des Plaines. Interment will be made in Ridgewood cemetery.

How I Lost 62 Pounds Without Harmful Dieting, Salts or Drugs

Rest While Mother Plays in Golf Tournament

Society Sees Golfers Play First Rounds,

Fans Follow Chicagoans at Exmoor Club.

BY JUDITH CASS.

YESTERDAY wasn't as interesting a day for the gallery as the next five will be at the Exmoor Country club, where the national women's golf championship tournament is being played this week, for only the qualifying rounds were played yesterday, but the gallery was large and enthusiastic nevertheless. The perfect day had attracted many to the club who weren't there to play and almost every would-be qualifier had her own little coterie of followers, all wishing her good luck and envying her manner of playing golf.

The first to tee off and the first to turn in her score was our own Mrs. Charles Dennehy, the former Virginia Wilson, ofttimes runner-up in the national women's tournaments. Mrs. Dennehy, who lives in Lake Forest and is playing for the Onwentsia, did not stop to have luncheon at the Exmoor before going home, for she had a very attractive young man, Charles Dennehy Jr., aged a little over 1 year, waiting for her to share his simple luncheon.

Later in the afternoon Mrs. Dennehy went back to the Exmoor club to invite some of her sister golfers to a luncheon she is giving for them tomorrow at her residence on Ravine drive.

Miss Virginia Van Wie of Beverly, present holder of the national championship and probably Chicago's best hope for retaining the championship, had luncheon in the grillroom with Miss Helen Hicks, the 1931 national titleholder, and Donald Luhey. Miss Van Wie was smart in a white skirt and hat and yellow sweater and Miss Hicks was all in white except for a dark blue cardigan. Both were looking very well pleased with their qualifying scores of 78 and were receiving congratulations from all who saw them.

Colored Sweaters Worn with White.

White skirts and hats and colored sweaters were the attire of most of the women at the club yesterday, whether they were playing golf or just gallery-ing, although in many cases the white hats were missing, for bareheaded golfers were much in evidence. Miss Jean Armstrong of the Indian Hill club was being beaued at luncheon by Alexander Fletcher of Boston. One of the most attractive of the out of town women who followed the players was Mrs. Henry Beadleston of New York, who rushed home from Paris three weeks ago upon receipt of a cable from her daughter, Mrs. Fritz Lindh of Glen Head, L. I. telling that she was to play in this tournament. Mrs. Beadleston and Mrs. Lindh and the latter's two little sons and Miss Jane Brooks of New York motored to Chicago, a trailer hitched to their big touring car, and when they leave here, after the tournament is ended and they have seen the Fair thoroughly, they are going on further west for a stay on a ranch.

Miss Charlotte Clutting of South Orange, N. J., was having luncheon, after she had finished playing, with her aunt, Mrs. Thomas Wakefield of Evanston. Also with them were Miss Katherine Pritz of East Orange and Mrs. W. Miner Osborn of West Orange. Miss Veronese Beatty was an admiring gallery for her house guest, Miss Elizabeth Dunscombe of Memphis, who looked too smart for words in a blue pique golf frock. Mrs. John Wing joined them for luncheon.

Mrs. Edward H. Vare Jr., who as Glenna Collet, made women's golfing history, walked around with Ada MacKenzie, three times holder of the Canadian open championship, while the latter qualified. Mrs. Vare, who is here with her husband and two months old Glenna Collett Vare Jr., was smart in a blue shirtwaist dress with a brown hat. She isn't playing in this tournament, but she timed her visit to the Fair so that she could be present.

Also in Miss MacKenzie's gallery were R. Arthur Wood Jr. of Highland Park, captain of the Princeton golf team: Mrs. Frank Fuller and her house guest, Michael Bartlett, and Joseph Lynch of Ridgewood, N. J., who is visiting Maj. Gen. Frank Parker. Mr. Wood Sr., Harry Towner, Thomas R. Wildes, Robert Smith, Henry L. Glidden and Harold C. Gifford were among other men who watched the play. It was Mr. Towner's birthday and he was kept busy receiving the good wishes of his many friends among the players and galleryites.

"IT'S GREAT TO BE ALIVE."

Produced by Fox.
Directed by Alfred Werker.
Presented at the State-Lake theater.

THE CAST.

Carlos Martin ..... Raul Roulien
Dorothy Wilton ..... Gloria Stuart
Dr. Prodwell ..... Edna May Oliver
Brooks ..... Herbert Mundin
Toos ..... Joan Marsh
Al Moran ..... Dorothy Burgess

BY ANNA NANGLE.

This one is a lavishly presented farce, offering a bit of nice music, a rather novel idea, and Edna May Oliver.

We find Raul Roulien, a singer very popular in foreign motion picture versions I understand, doing a Maurice Chevalier in this flicker. He has a charming voice, but is minus the personality and elan of the fascinating Frenchman.

A series of fairly humorous events cause a most popular young man and his beautiful fiancée to part. He disappears into the air in an attempt to win her back by flying the ocean. No more is heard from him.

In a few years a peculiar disease wipes out all the men in the world; women are in charge of everything and wishing they weren't. The following action is quite funny in spots, and rather well presented. Edna May Oliver stands out in her rôle as a leading scientist who does her darndest to cook up a man for her country.

It's a light, silly little movie, but entertaining withal. Mr. Roulien is nice enough, but doesn't quite carry it off, and as far as I could see wouldn't cause much hair pulling even if he were what the picture proves him to be.

Declares Possibility of Merger by Chicago and N. U. Is Remote

The possibility of a merger between the University of Chicago and Northwestern university was termed "remote" yesterday in a statement by Emery T. Filbey, dean of the faculties at the University of Chicago. He is acting president while President Robert M. Hutchins and Vice President Frederic Woodward are on vacation.

Early this month President Hutchins and Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern, favored the idea of "informal coöperation," they said after a conference.

"A merger between Northwestern and Chicago is such a remote possibility that any attempt to prepare a statement of possible results is highly misleading and inappropriate," Dean Filbey stated. "There is no plan, such as a published report indicated, for abandoning undergraduate or professional work on the Midway."

BY HAL FOUST.

The banks of the Fox river through St. Charles, Ill., are being transformed from a clutter of shacks, abandoned buildings, billboards, and refuse into landscaped waterfront parks for public enjoyment. The improvement, fostered by the Fox Valley federation, is using labor furnished by the local relief agencies from the men on the relief rolls.

Looking down the Fox river from the North avenue highway bridge, motorists see a west bank with gardens of flowers, shrubs, and trees with rock paths and benches for pleasant leisure. Nine months ago the site was occupied by a string of large billboards, rubbish, and the dilapidated remains of a stone retaining wall.

On the east bank of the river are a group of aged and long vacant brick buildings. Workmen are tearing these down to make way for more park development.

North of the bridge the Baker hotel has beautified the west bank, while on the east bank a group of boat shacks has been removed, making a grassed yard with flower beds of what was the community's neglected backyard.

"Other cities along the Fox river are joining this movement," said Lester J. Norris, president of the Fox Valley federation. "The towns are becoming aware that the stream is a valuable asset to the residents of this valley. The future growth and prosperity of these communities depends upon the beautification of this river so as to attract more population to its banks.

"In Aurora, for example, the federation is assisting Mayor Bjorseth in appealing for federal funds for unemployment relief work in parking the waterfront."

Say Fairbanks Will Marry Lady Ashley

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Douglas Fairbanks plans to marry Lady Ashley, former London actress, as soon as Mary Pickford's divorce suit is over, it was reported in Paris today.

Fairbanks, who has been in Paris for several days after a trip to London where he and his son plan to make films, checked out of the Hotel Crillon two days ago and his present whereabouts were not learned. But local society circles have been whispering the report for some time, although it has been kept dark, since not only Doug but his intended bride are awaiting the outcome of divorce actions.

Lady Ashley is the former Sylvia Hawkes, wife of the son of the earl of Shaftesbury from whom she was separated. She is reported to be at Cannes at present.

Crippled Children Guests at Sunbeam League Party

The 48 children in the Martha Washington Home for Dependent Crippled Children, at 4448 South Michigan boulevard, were entertained yesterday at the anual party given them by the Sunbeam league. The children were shown motion pictures by Mrs. John Chalmers and in turn gave a program of songs and recitations. Favors were given each child. Miss Helen Crone is supervisor of the home.

Front Views and Profiles

MINOR musings. Country luncheon and the Fair all in one day, and here am I in front of a typewriter. In bed, that's where I ought to be, after bounding between Lake Forest and 23rd street. In bed reading another chapter of "Anthony Adverse" and turning out the light early. But what a heavenly luncheon it was. Charming hostess, charming French Provençal house. Charming guests. Practically my most favorite people, all of them. And a police dog and a Great Dane. Tiny garden with scarlet trumpet vines clinging to the wall. Long, narrow blue pool. White phlox, dahlias, delphinium. Circular cushioned seat at the garden's end, with the woods making a green tapestry behind. A nice picture to remember. Creamy zinnias beautifully arranged in long oblong pewter holders on the luncheon table. Mrs. Lawrence Williams is famous for her taste, of course. And such food as you've never eaten. The nut bread with tiny strips of orange in it. And the thick cream to pour over the fruit had rum in it. Wonder if my Aino could make nut bread like that. I'll bet this is the first time the name Aino ever got into print. A Finnish name—and you pronounce it "Ino." When she arrived chez nous he, who is part owner of Sandy and Binge, inquired her name. "Aino," I told him. "Yes, I suppose you do, but how about telling me?" he said. . . . Well, I said before I ought to be in bed. . . . And think of going down to the Fair after getting in from Lake Forest. To a cocktail party given by a gypsy for a bear. A bear cocktail party in Paris, Inc., and you spell it b-e-a-r. The bear wasn't there, though. The beautiful gypsy girl who bought him, $25 down and $10 a week, couldn't get him to the Café Casanova because she couldn't bring him into the Fair without a muzzle, and he ate up three muzzles. Just wouldn't wear one. She had been weeping about it, too. Traces of tears around her beautiful eyes as she served cocktails to the guests. "And here am I in my very best gypsy costume," she told Hal Strotz, "and the party was for Mischka." . . . That's the bear's name. Loves blueberries, she says. I'd like to have a bear and a lamb and a burro. Some day I'm going to be a funny little old lady living in a hut with all three of them hanging about the doorstep. And I'll sit in the doorway and look off to the mountains and it will all be very peaceful. . . . Not very peaceful prospect now. People arriving in town for the Fair tomorrow, and appointments with a painter and a Venetian blind man. Not a blind man, but a Venetian blind. . . . O, well, let it go. And another column to write. And that woman coming in to figure out if the curtains can be lengthened for the new windows when we move. And be dressed by 6 o'clock in order to get to Lake Forest by 7:30. And dressed in what, I wonder. Probably one of the curtains. I smile when I think of the postcard from Kitty and Ernest Eyfield in England. They were at Bea Lillie's, and the conversation turned to the queen's taste in dress. "Yes, but did you ever stop to think how she would look in a smart hat?" Lady Peel asked. And when they were in Holyrood castle in Edinburgh the guide pointed out the brass plate that marks the spot where Lord Darnley laid Rizzio low, and Kitty, who left two babies behind in Chicago, said, "It's nursie's night out tonight." And Ernest grabbed his umbrella and ran.

Five hundred delegates to the Junior Hadassah convention at the Palmer house will bring their deliberations to a close today with a discussion of funds for support of its three major projects in Palestine. A budget of $85,000 was raised last year and $50,000 will be spent during 1933 for the orphanage caring for 110 youngsters, the nurses' training school, which serves many of the health centers, and the farming project to educate young men and boys.

This afternoon Miss Pearl Franklin, woman attorney and member of the senior Hadassah, will give an address on the Zionist congregation now in session in Prague, to discuss the oppression of Jews in Germany and to formulate plans for caring for refugees. Other speakers on the closing program will be Miss Sulamith Schwartz of New York, president of Junior Hadassah; Mrs. Harry Berkman, president of the Chicago senior organization, and Mrs. John Rissman, sponsor for the junior group.

NRA WE DO OUR PART

THE critical women to whom we've submitted Kraft's Miracle Whip Salad Dressing all agree that it tastes better than mayonnaise!

A flavor that's new and different—yet tantalizingly familiar—there's the secret of the instant popularity of this new type of dressing. It's not too tart. Not too bland. Not too oily. Miracle Whip Salad Dressing is a perfect combination of true mayonnaise and true old-fashioned boiled dressing.

It's mixed from choice ingredients to a new creamy fluffiness in the exclusive Kraft Miracle Whip. We think you'll prefer this new dressing to mayonnaise. Try Kraft's Miracle Whip Salad Dressing on your favorite salad today!

BLOOD MONEY

By IRVIN S. COBB.

SYNOPSIS.

Uncas Cresap and his Chinese servant are found dead in the upper room of Cresap's boathouse on Kettle pond, near the eastern end of Long Island. Gilbert Jonathan Redd, Cresap's stepbrother, keeps a private written account of developments in the case. A blow on the forehead from a slender, sharp edged implement killed Cresap. The cause of the Chinaman's death is not apparent. Capt. Bill Bailey, a special investigator, is an old friend of Redd's. Redd is a former police reporter. Florence Dane, Cresap's niece and an orphan, lived with him. Redd was fond of Florence's mother. He bought a home near Cresap's in order to protect Florence. Cresap made his fortune in the far east. Redd feels admits to Bray his hatred of Cresap, who was a drunkard and a débauché. The Chinaman and a dwarf, Sabino, are the most important of the servants, and there seemed to be some secret bond between them and their employer. Bray finds spread out on Cresap's desk a new will disinheriting Florence. As it is directed the old will stands. Cresap had disapproved of Florence's penniless sweetheart, Gregory Thorpe, who had arrived the day before Cresap died, having driven east from his home in Ohio in response to an urgent wire from Florence. Thorpe can't be reached at the local hotel where he registered as George Thomas. Florence is on the verge of prostration. The inquest is held.

INSTALLMENT XX.

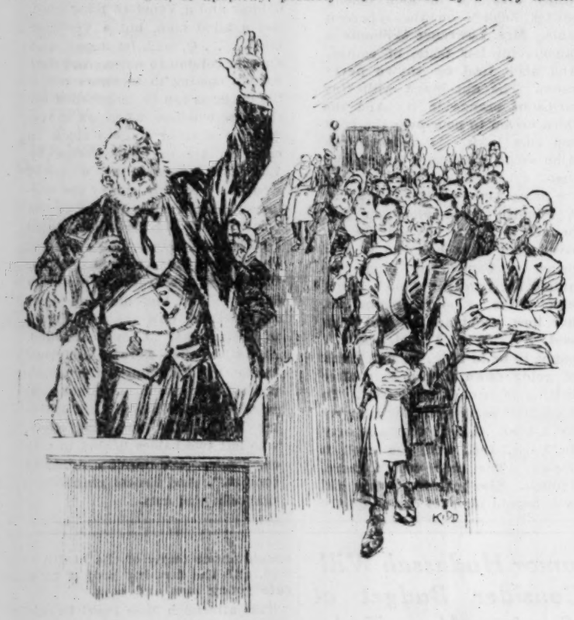
THE JURY'S VERDICT.

Dr. Finch said that analysis had shown that the deceased consumed a small amount of food and a considerable amount of alcohol in the six hours preceding death. In his opinion the deceased had been killed while seated in a relaxed attitude in his chair. A single stroke inflicted with great force and with a very sharp and fairly narrow bladed instrument, such as a small hatchet or an even smaller ax, had caused death, and caused it, he would say, practically instantaneously.

This instrument had split the scalp and cloven the skull longitudinally at a point slightly above and almost exactly equidistant between the inner tips of the eyebrows, extending inward and downward to the base of the brain. He went on to say that through careful measurements of the wound, top, bottom, and sides, he was prepared to affirm that the weapon employed was of such and such depth as to blade and such and such length as to shank, of such a width on its cutting edge and such a breadth between its greatest lateral plane surfaces.

He took up Wong Gee. With the coroner he had performed the autopsy upon Wong Gee's remains. He said:

"I give it as my unequivocal judgment that this individual died, roughly, at or about midnight, of apoplexy, possibly superinduced by a very intense



"I wouldn't go no further into that— Capt. Bailey."

[illegible] spasm. I incline to believe death in this case ensued shortly after the decease of Uncas Cresap, but very shortly after. I base my opinion as to the direct cause of death upon a variety of things—upon the position of the body as I first saw it, upon the congestion of the face, and most of all upon the disclosure under dissection of a blood clot in the left lobe of the brain. This man was of an advanced age, obviously frail and depleted, and moreover, the cadaver showed abundant proof that he was an opium addict and had been so for a considerable number of years—conceivably was an habitue throughout his adult life. There were no marks or contusions to indicate violence or injury outwardly inflicted. Finally, there was this patho logical indication—not an indication, but an absolute condition—to support the theory of an apoplectic seizure: The deceased would be predisposed to a sudden and fatal attack of such a nature by reason of isolated plaques, as we term it, or, stating it differently, hardened and contracted sections in the arterial system. Now these plaques unmistakably revealed that the deceased was a sufferer of long standing from so-called tertiary infection of—"

Here Cap'n Ab Bailey, the foreman of the jury, balked him with a great swoop of a great brown fist, which, so local history has it, was once upon a time potent to quell incipient mutiny on the high seas.

"I wouldn't go no further into that," he directed in a tone dulcet for him, but having in it the gusty emphasis of an arctic gale blaring through the riggings. "Us men folks kin make out to figure out whither you're steering and there's ladies present—yes, yes!"

"Quite so, sir," assented Dr. Finch. "If you gentlemen understand what I'm driving at, that, I take it, is sufficient for all purposes."

After Coroner McIntosh had corroborated Dr. Finch's technical statements, the jurors, accompanied by the coroner, filed into the town clerk's office. As they passed where Motley sat he handed the foreman a memorandum which he had just scribbled on a scrap of note paper.

Almost at once Cap'n Ab led his flock back to where we waited, and in a placid bellow he read the written verdict. The findings were under two headings, as follows:

First, that Wong Gee came to his death through natural causes.

Second, that Uncas Cresap came to his death at the hands of some person or persons to the jury unknown, through an act of willful and atrocious murder.

A proviso was added: The jury would earnestly recommend that all possible efforts be made to find and question one Gregory Thorpe, sometimes known as George Thomas.

And that was that.

Bray, who sat by me, in an aside made annoyed comment:

"As though we weren't already moving heaven and earth and the radio to locate that same party!" he rumbled in my ear. "I tell that cocksure young whippersnapper Motley there's no need our tipping our mitt any more than we have to—that we can sort of slur over what's rightly uppermost in our thoughts before this here pack of chatterboxes. But, no, he must go shoving his beak in just to show how important he is."

Three Americanized Chinamen attended the hearing as emissaries of the tong to which Wong Gee belonged. The corpse was formally surrendered to them and they are taking it up to the city tonight, and so I presume old Wong's brittle bones in a red lacquered box eventually will go back to China. As for the other body, it will be disposed of tomorrow at Clear Brook crematory, up the island, and then the ashes are to be shipped down to Lumber Center, the town in North Carolina where the family vault of the Cresaps is. This arrangement suits me. Whatever my shortcomings may be I flatter myself hypocrisy is not among them, and it would put a strain upon me to stand by with a straight and decorous look on my face and see Uncas Cresap's mortal clay shoveled under the earth the surface of which I do here solemnly declare he was unfit to encumber.

The noon issues of the evening papers, which arrived about the time the inquest adjourned, attested with front page displays that today's chief development broke in New York. Mr. Bodkin's firm gave out a comparative analysis setting forth significant differences between the old will and testament which, without successful litigation, must be accepted as Uncas Cresap's last will and testament, and the newly drafted will which, as things stand, and so far as the probate's files are concerned, is worth less than the paper on which its clauses are written.

By the terms of the first will, which is dated Nov. 8, 1930, nearly two years ago, he unreservedly bequeaths to his beloved niece and ward, Florence Dane, the realty here at Bridgeton; stocks, bonds, mortgages, notes and other securities, together with cash on hand, approximating in value—so the lawyers estimate—eight hundred and fifty thousand dollars, also an itemized assortment of jewelry and gems, including five bracelets, one diamond and emerald necklace, sundry jade ornaments, some unmounted stones and five uncut rubies, of an estimated value, by present prices, of about fifty thousand dollars more.

In the newer will, had he lived to sign it, he would have cut her off with five hundred dollars. The estate, except for certain designated gifts of money outright, would go in equal bestowals to various distant kinspeople—cousins mostly—living in the south and west.

Of these specified gifts there are in both wills just two and in both they are identical: Five thousand dollars to Wong Gee, his butler, and ten thousand dollars to his "trusted associate and devoted companion, Manuel Sabino."

Naturally, the inference to be drawn from these provisions—and all the newspapers took pains to draw it, too—is that neither Wong Gee nor Manuel Sabino, even though having privy knowledge of their benefactor's intent to set aside one will and set up another, would have any financial incentive to destroy him before the transaction had been completed, seeing that these twain still would fare no better and no worse than formerly.

BY MARY MEADE.

Are you acquainted with that jolliest of Sunday or holiday meals officially known as a "brunch"? If you'll skedaddle to the biggest dictionary you can find that a brunch is, to be prosaic, "a slang word denoting a repast taken between breakfast and lunch."

But, come to think of it, that's a bit misleading, for a brunch never is prosaic, and in the second place, the dictionary should have explained that the point to a brunch is that it takes care of us sleepyheads who wake up gloriously of a Sunday morning with that delicious thought, "Don't have to hike for the office today," and then curl up and take another snooze in the loving embrace of the pillow. A few odd hours later we wake to discover that it's really too late sensibly to have breakfast. On the other hand—especially if dinner is scheduled for the evening meal—it's much too early to have lunch. And yet we're starved. The answer therefore is brunch!

It may be a family affair—or if you're a kitchenette bacheloress [or is it ette?]—it may be a spontaneous business in which you call up a friend or two and climb out in your mules and polkadot p. j.'s to fix the grapefruit and start the coffee perking.

But whatever the occasion, brunches ask to be tempting to the eyes, nose and taster, to have plenty of whatever we serve to differ from "just any meal" by the addition of something a bit special.

Let's start with possibilities in the fruit line to tingle morning palates. Spiced chilly fruit juice cocktail [spiced grape, orange and a dash of gingerale is "perfectly corking," says the English in me]. Or make it half and half, tomato and orange juice, chilled. Best ever! On the other hand, bananas diced in orange juice or sugared grapefruit on the half shell with a few big black cherries and their juice sitting in the center make zippy starters for knowing brunches.

½ cup cream
¾ crushed well drained pineapple
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon powdered sugar
½ package fine noodles
¼ cup butter

Beat the eggs and whip in the cream, pineapple, salt and sugar. Cook the noodles in boiling salted water till tender. Now take a small frying pan and melt in it one tablespoon of the butter. Drop in a part of the well drained noodles and pour over this one-fourth of the pineapple mixture. Fry till golden brown, turning to cook both sides. Repeat to cook the other three pancakes.

Or for the main course there may be ham à la king on crisp waffles, baked at the table. There may be prune waffles with butter and honey. [Add one cup cooked, chopped prunes to a standard waffle batter.] There may be simply a fluffy omelet folded over and then masked with cream sauce made nippy with grated parmesan cheese and foamy with a little whipped cream. Serve with this your most alluring strawberry jam and piles of crisp hot muffins. Top it with cups of nobly perked coffee and verily you have a feast.

Olivier Given Right to Work as He Chooses

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 28.—In return for his chagrin in being displaced from the lead opposite Garbo in "Queen Christina" after being enticed here from London with a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer contract and proffer of the part, Laurence Olivier has been given a new and unusual contract.

It is an optional contract, but the option works in reverse to the customary Hollywood contract. It entitles the actor to demand that the studio give him a picture in which to work instead of the studio making the demand on the actor.

The rest of the time Olivier is free, it being stipulated he can make as many stage appearances as he desires, but has the privilege of dashing back into films at any time he wishes, whereupon it becomes the studio's duty to find a story to put him in. Olivier will start under this contract as soon as he and his wife [Jill Esmond] return from a trip to Honolulu, on which they left yesterday. Olivier first will go to New York to play in the stage run of "The Green Bay Tree."

Ronald Colman has the only other contract that resembles it. Colman is coming back from Europe in November, and if he notifies his contract holder, Sam Goldwyn, that he wants to make another movie, Goldwyn is obliged to start the cameras grinding, so that Colman can go on salary within 45 days. Colman and Goldwyn have been on frigid terms for a year, but the rumor is that the golden harvest from Colman's last Goldwyn picture, "The Masquerader," has been proving so great that the prospect of more profits is melting the coolness.

The amount of money Colman is paid each film is determined by the profit from his preceding one. This, in itself, makes his an unusual contract.

Olivier and Miss Esmond were only two of a boatload of film persons going to Honolulu on the liner Lurline. Others included Mona Maris, Virginia Cherill [Chicago leading woman], Hardie Albright, David Newell and W. De Rham, to play in "Cane Fire," a color action film by the Seven Seas Film corporation, which is backed by Count Alfredo Carpenga of Italy and Isadore Bernstein, veteran Hollywood executive. Lois Weber, woman director, is in charge. Much of it will be shot on the Lindsay sugar plantation, island of Kauai, with spectacular effects showing that most dreaded of plantation disasters, a cane fire.

Cecil De Mille's cast was to accompany the troupe of Count Carpegna as far as Honolulu for De Mille's plantation shots in another picture, "Four Frightened People," but this troupe, including Bill Gargan, Herbert Marshall, Mary Boland, and Leo Carrillo, canceled their reservations for one week to wait until a new feminine lead can be screen-tested, wardrobe fitted, and signed as substitute for Claudette Colbert, who cannot recover from last Saturday's appendicitis operation in time.

Seven other Hawaiians—that is how they appear on the cast sheet, although one is a Greek, and others also may be Hawaiian only on the casting director's "type" sheets—are being sent over from the mainland to join De Mille for his picture. They will play villains and native guides in De Mille's Malay story.

Her True Story Now To Be Printed For The First Time

Greta Garbo's true life story and true love story are to be printed for the first time. This same statement made about any other character in Hollywood would not be news. It would just be funny. In Hollywood there are few secrets and little reserve. Again and again they turn their silly souls inside out for the sake of a head line.

But not so, Garbo.

She has been "the cat that walked by herself." She has stood alone on the mountain top. Even her press agents scurrying for copy have never been able to fathom the real Garbo who has now been revealed for the first time.

True Story Magazine has had many hundreds of thousands of all-too-human human documents pass across its editorial desks. Life stories and love stories that reached to the very heart of us millions upon millions of everyday people for whom they were written. But this True Story of Garbo comes pretty close to the top.

For Garbo herself not only comes from the common people. She still belongs to the common people. She has not changed.

The first chapters of the Great True Story of Greta Garbo will appear in the next issue of True Story Magazine which will be out on Friday, September 1st. Watch for it eagerly. It is well worth watching for.

better time than they did out there. The week-end started with tea at Miss Mary Senior's Saturday afternoon, then dinner at Miss Jean Schweppe's. Sunday morning the young men golfed and then went to Miss Jean Wilhelm's for luncheon. Then on to the Schweppe home again for swimming and tennis, and then dinner at Gaylord Donnelley's.

In addition to the young girls who were their hostesses, the young men had the pleasure of meeting Miss Lydia Swift, Miss Mary Reed, Miss Suzette Morton, Miss Fleury Leonard, and Miss Eleanor Wheeler, all among society's most charming young women.

"Stein" Cummings is described as being a wizard on the bagpipes, and he managed to give those who heard him play at Mr. Donnelley's party a very different idea of bagpipe playing than they had had before.

The other cricket and rugby players who had been in St. Louis—they won both games down there, by the way—returned yesterday in time for the stag dinner given for them at the Harvard-Yale-Princeton club by the Oxford and Cambridge alumni living in or near Chicago. Chauncey McKeever is one of the most prominent of these and has been active in arrangements for the entertainment of the young Englishmen during their visit to Chicago.

Play Game at Oak Park Tonight.

Tonight the young men will go to Oak Park to play a picked team from the Illinois Rugby union for the benefit of the Oak Park Infant Welfare society. The kickoff will be at 6:30 o'clock in the Oak Park High school stadium and after the game there is to be a dinner dance at the Oak Park Country club for the young visitors. Mrs. Russell Doherty, Mrs. Norman Smith, Mrs. George W. Wallerich and Mrs. Duncan Rowles are among those in charge of the affair.

Tomorrow afternoon there is to be a tea dance at the A. and P. carnival at the Fair for the visitors, followed by a dinner at the Saddle and Cycle club, at which Miss Jean Wingfield will be hostess. Thursday the Englishmen go to Lake Forest again and after lunching with Miss Senior they will be Miss Schweppe's guests for a swim in the Schweppes' glorious pool. That evening at 6 o'clock the Vandals and Goths [the latter are a picked team selected by young Mr. McKeever and the former are the Englishmen] will play a game of rugby on the Onwentsia polo field, starting at 6 o'clock.

After the game Durand Smith is giving a cocktail party for sixty or seventy and then Mr. Donnelley will entertain the same party at the buffet dinner dance at the Onwentsia. There were over 300 reservations for this on Sunday, so it would seem as if it will be one of the affairs of the season at the smart Lake Forest club.

McWilliamses to Prolong Stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy McWilliams have decided to postpone their departure from Chicago until the day after the last of the United States-Australian Davis Cup team matches in Lake Forest, which means that they will be leaving for New York on Sept. 14 instead of the end of this week as they planned to do when they came a week ago. The McWilliamses have a very keen interest in tennis and their courts on their estate at Bidart near Biarritz are the scene of spirited matches between some of the leading tennis players of the world, as well as others not so expert, constantly.

On Thursday of this week Mrs. Walter S. Brewster is entertaining at dinner at Covin Tree, the Brewsters' charming and hospitable home in Lake Forest, for Mr. and Mrs. McWilliams, and on Friday Charles Edward Brown will be their dinner host. The McWilliamses will spend the long Labor day week-end with the Kellogg Fairbanks' at Lake Geneva. During their visit here they are the guests of Mrs. McWilliams' brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Belden, in Lake Forest.

Two attractive southerners who are here for ten days to see the Fair and to visit a friend, Miss Harriet Tilden, are Miss Frances Frances of Dallas, Tex., and Miss Cynthia Williamson of Baltimore. Miss Frances and Miss Tilden are roommates at Vassar college, where both will be seniors this year, and Miss Williamson was graduated last June form Pine Manor. Miss Tilden is the daughter of the Averill Tildens of Winnetka.

News of Visits and Travel.

Mrs. D. Mark Cummings and her sister, Mrs. James C. Sharp, are expected to arrive at home in Lake Forest the end of this week from a motor trip. They have visited several Canadian resorts, the Maine coast resorts and some of Cape Cod's quaint villages. The date of Miss Edith Cummings' return from Jasper Park, Canada, is not set yet.

The Edward G. Paulings of Astor street are planning to go east to visit their daughter, Janet, now Mrs. John Morse Elliott, of Boston, in the early autumn, probably before the Elliotts leave Needham, where they are spending the summer. The Paulings' other daughter, Mrs. Pauline Donnelley, is spending the summer at Gloucester, and she does not plan to be back in Chicago until the late autumn.

Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler Williams, who have been visiting the Lawrence Williamses in Lake Forest, are leaving for a visit today of a week or ten days with her family at the Lake of the Woods, Winnipeg, Can. Wheeler Williams and his bride have not decided whether they will be in California or New York during the coming winter.

Shoulders Flare Dramatically Over Plaited Sleeves in Afternoon Frock

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

A chestnut brown novelty silk crêpe made the original model, and its a fine dress for general wear—showing the smart widened shoulders that jut out over sleeves that are plaited into the armholes. The surplice bodice and bias skirt seaming are both slimming in effect.

The pattern, No. 2546, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 5⅛ yards of 39 inch material.

THE STAGE

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Two new plays by Eugene O'Neill will be staged by the Theater Guild this season—the recently announced "Ah, Wilderness," with George M. Cohan in the central rôle, and another bearing the title of "Days Without End." The latest work by Maxwell Anderson, a historical drama called "Mary of Scotland," is also on the Guild's impressive production schedule, which includes fifteen items.

The Guild's latest bulletin states that these three plays will probably be seen in Chicago. This organization's subscription season at the Erlanger theater will open with S. N. Behrman's comedy, "Biography," in which Ina Claire will have the leading rôle. The date of this première depends upon the duration of the run of "Take a Chance" at the Erlanger, and at present Messrs. Olsen and Johnson, owners and comedians of that frolic, are counting on remaining in Chicago until the World's Fair closes.

The Guild also announces that Miss Thoda Cocroft has been appointed managing director of the Chicago subscription season. She settled down to her duties in the Erlanger theater office yesterday.

Basil Rathbone, the Anglo-American actor who has had many important rôles in dramatic and cinema productions, has been engaged by Katharine Cornell as leading man in her plans for the new season. He will play the rôles of Romeo in "Romeo and Juliet," Robert Browning in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," and James Morrell in "Candida."

Rathbone came to the United States eleven years ago as leading man for Doris Keane in "The Czarina." Among the plays in which he acted later were "The Swan," with Eva Le Gallienne; "The Captive," and "The Command to Love." His last acting in Chicago was in "The Devil Passes." He also appeared with Pola Negri in the screen version of the latter play.

Miss Cornell is now in Garmisch, in the Bavarian Alps. She will return to New York in October and will make her debut in Shakespeare in Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 29. She will then tour to the Pacific coast in her repertory of three plays. Chicago is not included in her booking.

"The Green Pastures," now three and a half years old, will begin its fourth season in Richmond, Va., Oct. 2. That performance will be its 1,301st on the American stage. The company of Negro players, without a change in the principal rôles, will make an extensive tour of the southern states under the endorsement of southern editors.

Hat and Hair Come to Terms in Fall Styles

Becurled Coiffures Fit Tilting Chapeaux.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I ask you if there is anything that can make a woman look the way she prays to look as a cleverly chosen chapeau? Also, if there is anything more discouraging than the wrong one, the unbecoming?

Our best dressed women do not come by their reputations without having spent a great deal of time in studying their best, poor, and indifferent points. I think we go wrong on hats oftener than on frocks. Simply because we do more reckless choosing in this regard. We forget that a hat should have a frock, gloves, shoes, bag, costume jewelry to see it through at its most effectiveness. And a coiffure, too.

This last named connection is so generally recognized by millinery and hairdressing trade that their conventions are being based on just this alliance. Their styles are designed and promoted with this in mind. The hat for the coiffure, the coiffure for the hat.

At one such convention attended recently we saw this theory propagandized cleverly. Fall hats, it's predicted, will tilt over the right eye—partly cover it, leaving a wide space of exposed hair on one side. Now, it isn't the trick to have that exposed side only looking all dressed with some place to go—it is also cleverly arranged to carry out the line of hat or complement it. And the back of the hair is given the same treatment complementary to the hat and vice versa.

For example, you choose one of those perky hats that tilt over the eye with not much more than that behind. Then you build your curls tier upon tier until they reach the hat in back, sometimes the meeting occurring crown high. Or suppose you choose a hat that sets firmly on the head. The curl treatment does not come so high but it is there to dress the back of the hat. Your better bet, of course, may be a wave, when you swirl the hair. This way or that.

Sees Return to Gracious Way of Living.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Edwardian days are here again, Orry Kelly, one of Hollywood's foremost designers, says.

Specifically, a return to that fashion era will mean a more gracious manner of living, thinks Kelly, as well as new-old styles in clothes. Gentle folk may even start dressing for dinner again. New emphasis will be placed on feminine curves. And old fashioned colors will once more be popular. Even hobble skirts, says Kelly, are likely to be worn by ladies in the know.

The new fall colors, the stylist predicts, will include mahogany, elephant, caviar, olive green, rust, burnt rose, iron and eel gray, snuff, cinnamon and chocolate brown; greens from reseda to myrtle, and the berry shades, mulberry, blueberry, blackberry, and so on.

"Tubes, tunics and peplums," Kelly calls the big three in today's fashions. Straight, narrow and tubular already, the new skirts may be just barely wide enough to walk in—and any fullness may be placed well below the knees. Even street suits will have tight skirts and tight fitted jackets.

And here's a note about Hollywood dinner gowns: They will have either elbow length or long sleeves; they'll have bust fullness and back fullness, some of them will be away off at the shoulders, in spite of the sleeves; and many of them will have trains.

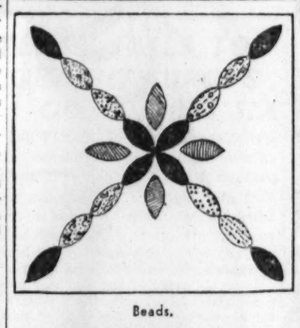
Rhythmic Bead Pattern Comes from Old Texas



Beads.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Don't let the modernistic touch in this quilt pattern fool you. The design "Beads" is in reality quite an old one and dates 'way back to the early days of Texas.

Notice the color scheme. The four beads in the center and in the extreme corners are cut of a plain, rather dark fabric. Between each of the four center ones is another plan bead, but of a somewhat lighter color. The other eight are made of harmonizing prints.

For a quilt pattern of this design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office. One South Dearborn.

Lucien Lelong Introduces Straight Lined Coat in 2 Colors for Autumn

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Lucien Lelong's advance autumn collection contains a group of two color ensembles. The coat in two shades is important in this group and so is the suit with a jacket of one color and a skirt of another.

Lelong adds a cape and collar of one shade to a straight coat that is in a lighter tone, as shown in our sketch today. He uses for his fall coats a new woolen with a surface as downy as the surface of a new born chick. It comes from Rodier. The model above is made of this wool in a soft pinky beige color.

The new Lelong coat silhouette is straight, but much narrower than the swagger lines we have all been addicted to this summer. Coats cut on the straight and narrow, like this, are being promoted for practical wear this fall by several of the great French couturiers.

The model pictured here has no buttons, being merely crossed in front. It is held at the neck by a scarf collar of brown downy woolen, which is worn Ascot-tie fashion. The little cape that covers the shoulders, but splits to leave a wide open V at the back, is also made of the same brown woolen.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Probably the most disconcerting thing about new clothes is the fact that humps and bulges are to be exposed relentlessly . . . the new silhouette starts at the neck and finishes at the hemline, and every inch of every dress will cling to the anatomy. Consequently, it isn't too soon to begin the battle for super-smoothness from your shoulders to your knees.

When you shop for important new underlayers, you will find extra long affairs . . . longer than you have ever worn them before, sleek slim models, miracles of line and fitting . . . smooth strong fabrics in most cases, carefully and skillfully fashioned and designed to achieve that liquid smoothness that is imperative as a perfect foundation for the new sheath-like gown. The rigid armor effect is gone forever; there are few bones and they are used only for extremely overfed figures.

You are going to hear more and more about thighlines . . . previously it has been hipless; this fall there is another dimension to worry about . . for the newest, alluring feminine gowns are fitted with a diabolical cleverness that will reveal the slightest bulge.

Four Books to Make a Rainy Day Pleasant

Youngsters Can Revel in Myths, Heroic Tales.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

I have just been going over a stack of books in order to make a selected list for rainy day reading. Rainy summer days can be gloomy summer days if the children are impatient because they can't go out, or because there is so little to do if they can. Rainy summer days can be happy, though, if we plan some fun to fill them. And they can represent a very necessary rest time—something that is needed during the hot weather more than the cold.

The first two are fairy, myth, or folk tales.

"How It Happened, Myths and Folk Tales Retold by Rhoda Power." [Houghton Mifflin.] This is a collection of folk tales and myths beautifully retold by Rhoda Power. Little children will enjoy these tales though, like many myths, some of them are sad. The children who are particularly interested in fairy tales will find special enjoyment in the book.

"Magyar Fairy Tales," by Nandor Pogany, illustrated by Willy Pogany. [E. P. Dutton.]

A book that has a really new flavor in fairyland is "Magyar Fairy Tales." These fairy tales, based on old Hungarian legends, are well told and interesting, and beautifully illustrated by Willy Pogany.

And here is a story of adventure. "Bran the Bronze-Smith," by J. Reason. [E. P. Dutton]. A rather unusual story of a boy three thousand years ago in the British isles. Although necessarily somewhat imaginative, for there are no written records of this age, it is an interesting story and one that will appeal particularly to boys for the gallant fight of sturdy Bran against disaster, and his adventures.

My last suggestion is a tale of heroism and deeds of "derring-do."

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

FORDNEY SENSES A PLOT.

Professor Fordney was sitting on the porch of Aaron Meyer's old colonial mansion with his host and Miroff Resinkoff, an admitted Communist, who had arrived only a few minutes before.

The butler, a big, strapping Negro, was just about to serve tea when a Rolls-Royce drove up and Resinkoff's valet jumped out of the car, doffed his hat and had a word with his master. At the latter's request the butler lifted two weighty bags from the car and carried them in, one at a time.

Later at dinner Fordney was surprised that the small, frail, but intellectual Miroff was not in dinner clothes. As if in answer to the professor's thought, he said, "I'm sorry, gentlemen . . . I didn't dress as I must hasten through the meal. I received a phone call that makes it imperative that I leave, almost immediately, on my yacht, which is lying in the harbor. I have already ordered the car around. You'll pardon me?"

After dinner he again made his apologies, picked up his two bags that had been placed in the entrance hall by the butler and jauntily walked to the car.

As he sunk into the back seat he called to Fordney, "I trust, professor, I shall have the pleasure of entertaining you in Russia, where there is NO unemployment!"

Fordney was silent for a moment, then turned to his host and remarked, "I'm sorry, Aaron, to see you mixed up in Resinkoff's plot—whatever it is!"

WHY DID FORDNEY BELIEVE HIS FRIEND WAS IN CONSPIRACY WITH THE RUSSIAN?

WEDDINGS

Announcement is made of the wedding of Mrs. Mayme C. Brown of Christopher, Ill., to Francis A. Dillon, son of John Dillon of Fond du Lac, Wis., which took place here Aug. 16. Mr. and Mrs. Dillon are at home at 1100 Dearborn parkway.

Mrs. Charles F. Strubbe of 1435 Glenlake avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Mildred Gertrude, to Gordon Franklin Hook, on Aug. 23. A wedding breakfast and reception was held at the Edgewater Beach hotel after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Hook are spending their honeymoon on a tour of the west. They will be at home in Chicago after Oct. 1.

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Brent Wiley of Paris, Ill., announce the engagement of their daughter, Sarah Ann, to M. J. Musser Jr., of Madison Wis. The wedding is to be an early fall event.

ABSOLVE YACHT OWNER IN CRASH FATAL TO THREE

Conflicting Stories Told to Coroner's Jury.

A coroner's jury yesterday absolved Anthony J. O'Malley, 6524 Yale avenue, from all blame connected with the deaths of three persons as a result of a collision between his cruiser and a speed boat at the mouth of the Chicago river last Friday evening. The jury declared the crash "an accident" and recommended that restricted lanes be fixed for the operation of speed boats at the mouth of the river.

At the inquest O'Malley identified himself as a lawyer with offices at 139 South La Salle street. He is a Democratic precinct captain and is said to be a friend of Coroner Walsh. O'Malley denied that he was employed in the city prosecutor's office, although the records in the city hall disclose that an Anthony J. O'Malley, 6524 Yale avenue, is employed in the city prosecutor's office and is now assigned to the South Chicago Police court. Previously he had been identified as a railroad freight agent.

Coroner and Witnesses Clash.

A dozen witnesses told dramatic stories of the accident, during the three hours the inquest was held in a mortuary at 716 North State street. The hearing was marked by clashes between Coroner Walsh, who attended, and Attorney J. Brandt, counsel for Walter Pomper, pilot of the speed boat in which the victims of the accident were passengers, and between the coroner and Boatswain's Mate Carl Howell of the coast guard.

Conflicting testimony concerning the blame was given by nearly every witness called to the stand. It was testified by Mate Howell and George Pietrowski, the lookout at the coast guard station who saw the crash, that O'Malley's boat was heading west into the river mouth in what is really the eastbound lane when it was struck by the speed boat. O'Malley himself said he was in the proper lane and that the whole blame lay upon Pilot Pomper.

Guardsmen Cause Arrest.

It was upon the testimony of the coast guardsmen that police directed that O'Malley be seized last Saturday morning. He was released on order of Coroner Walsh after being questioned.

Pilot Pomper, who said he lived at 2475 Cullom avenue, testified that O'Malley's cruiser had not been visible until the speedboat was only 25 feet distant. He admitted that he may have been partly blinded by lights on Navy pier.

O'Malley said he had seen Pomper's boat and two other speed boats when they were at Monroe street. He said one boat passed behind his cruiser, one in front of it, and Pomper's struck him just in front of the rear cockpit. O'Malley said he was moving directly west and into the proper lane of the river when the accident occurred.

Miss Virginia Collins, 1100 North Dearborn parkway, was the only one of the speedboat passengers who noticed Attorney John H. Schultz, his wife, Mabel, and their son, John Jr., 7 years old, who drowned, after the crash.

Life Preservers Unused.

"I was slow in climbing out of my seat," she said, "and I noticed that the man and woman and boy were still sitting where they had been in the seat ahead of me. The boat was filling with water fast, and I started to climb over the side toward the ship we struck.

"While doing so I saw the man get up out of his seat. He picked up the boy and stepped over the side with him. The woman followed. I was then in the water myself and going up and down. I saw the man, kicking his legs and arms, not swimming, but keeping above water until only a few seconds before the coast guardsmen came."

Among the other witnesses heard was Miss Virginia Jensen, who also was a passenger on the speed boat.

It was disclosed that the speedboat had life preservers in open lockers underneath all the seats. None of these preservers were used by the speedboat passengers.

President of Ecuador Again Spurns Demand He Resign

QUITO, Ecuador, Aug. 28.—(AP)—President Juan Martinez Mera for the second time today refused to accede to a request of congress that he resign. The president ten days ago refused to leave office after h had been visited by a congressional commission, which asked that he bow to the will of the public for democracy's sake. Later the cabinet upheld the president and thereby invoked a vote of censure by congress.

KANSAS BANKER IS ARRESTED IN FAKE BOND CASE

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Arrest of Warren W. Finney, president of the Fidelity State and Savings bank at Emporia, and father of Ronald Finney, held in jail at Topeka, with Tom Boyd, state treasurer, is the latest development in the Kansas bond forgery case. The elder Finney was arrested today on charges of embezzling $79,061.20 from his bank. He was released on a $25,000 bond.

The warrant charges embezzlement from the bank through personal checks, ranging from $10,000 down to $2.

Warren Finney took up $150,000 in forged bonds deposited by his son in a Topeka bank. His indorsement on the check turned over to Ronald Finney by Tom Boyd, state treasurer, enabled the son to retrieve the spurious bonds before the federal bank examiner arrested him.

The elder Finney, reputed millionaire telephone operator and banker, has been active in Kansas financial and political circles for 30 years. He was chairman of the Kansas anti-hoarding committee last spring—at the time some of his checks now under fire were written.

The Finney bank was closed by the state bank commissioner Aug. 10.

Ronald Finney and Boyd are still in the Shawnee county jail, unable to provide bond. Boyd's bond has been reduced from $50,000 to $25,000, but he has been unable to provide even that amount.

ICE FUND GIFT FROM CHICAGOAN IN WESTERN CITY

A letter from a Chicagoan on the stationery of a Tacoma, Wash., resort hotel, containing a contribution of $15, was received yesterday by THE TRIBUNE Free Ice fund, which is for the benefit of children in families which are unable to buy ice. The contributor signed his name as E. Richey. Yesterday's contributions were as follows:

E. Richey	$ 15.00
"To Ice Fund"	1.00
Total	$ 16.00
Previously acknowledged	$1,664.78
Grand total	$1,680.78

Through the fund, raised by TRIBUNE readers, free ice is distributed to families who otherwise would do without ice in the summer months. Contributions may be addressed to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower, and will be acknowledged in the columns of this newspaper.

Captain Praised

Coast guard officials started an investigation yesterday of the fire Sunday evening which destroyed the central coast guard station at the mouth of the Chicago river.

Capt. Hiram R. Searles, head of the Chicago division of the coast guard, inspected the scene and said temporary quarters will be constructed on the breakwater where the old station was located pending an appropriation for a permanent station. He praised Capt. John O. Anderson and his crew for saving their boats, permitting them to carry on their work without interruption.

Commander Thomas Klinger, chief of staff of the Chicago division, and Capt. S. B. Johnson, district commander at Green Bay, Wis., are assisting Capt. Searles in the investigation.

Insufficient steam pressure was assigned by Acting Fire Commissioner Daniel Carmody yesterday as the reason why the fire tug Graeme Stewart was late in reaching the fire. The boat is more than 25 years old and because of its age the government inspectors refuse to allow the fire department to carry more than 116 pounds of steam when the boat is not in actual operation, he said.

POSTAL CLERKS TOLD OF HOPE TO RESTORE OLD PAY

One thousand postal clerks, representing 40,000 throughout the country, yesterday were told that Postmaster General Farley hopes to remove the curtailments of a 15 per cent pay cut and payless furloughs they have suffered.

To accomplish this, however, it is essential that the NRA drive be a success, said Joseph C. O'Mahoney, first assistant postmaster general, the speaker at the opening of the 33d national convention of the United National Association of Postoffice Clerks. Mayor Kelly welcomed the federal employés to Chicago.

"Let no one doubt that Uncle Sam has the right to fly the blue eagle on every government establishment," said Mr. O'Mahoney. "In the face of reductions of almost 17 per cent in income in the postoffice department, the number of clerks and carriers employed in first and second class postoffices and in the railway mail service was reduced less than 4 per cent. In other words, the federal government did not add to unemployment."

In discussing the question of salaries the speaker opened a subject expected to develop into a fight for a pay increase by the postal clerks, according to Fred D. Sullivan, president of the Chicago branch.

'SILENT STRIKES' PLAGUE HAWAIIAN SUGAR INDUSTRY

BY CLIFFORD GESSLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, Aug. 28.—A field of sugar cane, under the mellow sunlight of Hawaii. A group of Filipinos toiling with hoes. Toiling?

THE TRIBUNE correspondent observed them closely. One would take a few half-hearted strokes at the weeds which spring up so rapidly among the young cane. Then he would stand looking vacantly out at the road. Another leaned on his hoe, meditatively. Not one among them was working as if he meant it.

"Silent strike," said a resident of the neighborhood.

But why? Are they organized? Have they made any demands? What is behind it?

The local resident smiled.

"Not organized, as far as anybody knows," he replied. "The trouble is over wages. These Filipinos read the papers. They know when a dividend is declared by the company they work for. And they sit around the camp at night and discuss it. They ask each other why the profits aren't being passed on the workmen.

"Restoration of the turnout bonus recently helped some, but it wasn't enough. These Filipinos are discontented. And that silent strike you saw is a sample.

"When the Filipinos walked out recently on three plantations on the island of Oahu, the movement couldn't be ignored. So you read in the papers that there was no strike, but only a temporary cessation of work, due to minor disagreement. And later you were told that the trouble was caused by the firing of some man or by some disagreement with an overseer.

"Those things were true, but they were not the whole truth. The incidents mentioned were the specific grievances, but there is a deeper underlying grievance that wasn't mentioned. And that is wages. The Filipino workmen are beginning to wake up and ask questions, as people in their position are doing in all parts of the world.

"You can look for more and more labor trouble on Hawaiian plantations. I know these people and I see in them a deep and bitter resentment that is not to be easily placated.

"It's true that they are better off here than they were in the Philippines. It's true that they are better paid and better treated than sugar workers in many other parts of the world. But it's not enough to be better off than in the Philippines, or better off than somebody in Cuba, if you feel that you are getting only an infinitesimal share of the wealth that you produce. And that's the way these fellows feel."

OREGON FOREST FIRE FIGHTERS ENGAGED IN 40 MILE BATTLE

Portland, Ore., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Mountainous billows of smoke hid lurking, treacherous flames today along a 40 mile front in northwestern Oregon as slumbering winds and moisture from the ocean permitted 4,000 fire fighters to renew their attack on the most devastating conflagration that ever swept over the forests of the state.

For 14 days the flames have ridden high gales of wind to spread with explosive force over thousands of acres of the fine timber. Fire wardens have estimated the loss at $15,000,000 to $18,000,000.

The general range of the fire extends about 40 miles from the Elsie district in Clatsop county southward to the vicinity of Blaine, in southern Tillamook county. The fire center is about 45 miles directly west of Portland.

FIGHT TO CURB SLEEP SICKNESS; DISEASE SPREADS

St. Louis, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Medical skill of nation, state and city is working here to find a way to halt the ever-widening spread of a mysterious "sleeping sickness" which has cost 40 lives. Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming, will come here, while Dr. J. P. Leake, senior surgeon of the United States public health service, has been here since three days after the epidemic was reported. He has been joined by two associates, Dr. Charles Armstrong, director of sickness research in Washington, and Dr. Charles L. L. Williams Jr., medical entomologist. Dr. L. K. Musson, Missouri state epidemiologist, arrived in St. Louis with Dr. Leake. The city health department is working with them.

8 Kansas City Cases.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 29.—(AP)—R. D. Shaff, 50, died of sleeping sickness at a hospital here last night. He was stricken a week ago. Seven other cases have been reported here.

More At Rushville.

Rushville, Ill., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Mrs. Cora Walker, 64, for many years clerk of the school board, after two weeks illness, has succumbed to a disease diagnosed at first as a form of influenza, but now believed to be sleeping sickness. Six other cases have been reported.

ENID WILSON WINS GOLF MEDAL WITH 76

JONES FAILS TO HOLD LEAD; SOX LOSE TO A'S, 9-5

Lyons Also Swoons in Rescue Role.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The swooning of Sox pitchers while in possession of seemingly adequate leads rapidly is growing to the proportions of an epidemic. Sam Jones was seized in the seventh inning yesterday after pitching handsomely for six innings; then Ted Lyons, supposed to be relieving in the ninth, put on even a bigger and better faint than Sam's, the outcome of the two smelling salts cases being a 9 to 5 victory for the Athletics in the fourth game of their series with the White Sox.

During the first six innings Jones held the A's to a double by Finney in the second, singles by Cochrane and Foxx in the third, in which the A's scored one run, and singles by Finney in the fourth and sixth innings—five hits in all and three of them by the No. 8 hitter.

In the same span Dykes and Simmons had scored in the first inning, Swanson had scored in the second, and Appling had scored for a 4 to 1 edge.

Sad Happenings in Seventh.

In that seventh the A's rapped out four hits, and these, combined with one of Luke Appling's inevitable jam errors, put the A's ahead, 5 to 4. Nothing happened in the eighth, but Lyons came in in the ninth. The second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, and seventh men to face Ted rammed across four more runs.

Among the sad features of the game was the spectacle of Al Simmons crawling back into his slump cocoon after having emerged so gloriously in Sunday's double header. Al walked his first time up. After that he could not get the ball out of the infield in four attempts.

The Sox got themselves a pair of runs in the first inning, the fact that both were unearned not disconcerting them one whit in their early enthusiasm. With two down, Dykes was safe on Bishop's fumble. Then Simmons and Appling walked, filling the bases. Kress singled to right, scoring Dykes and Simmons. Hayes flied to Finney.

One Run on Three Hits.

In the second inning the Sox helped themselves to three times as many hits as they made in the first inning, but got only half as many runs. Jones singled to left with one down and stopped at second on Swanson's safe bunt. McNair made a nice back hand pick up of Haas' grounder and threw to Higgins in time to force Jones at third. Dykes singled to left, scoring Swanson, and when Johnson's fine throw to the plate got past Cochrane, Haas went to third and Dykes to second. Simmons then popped to McNair.

A double play held a Philadelphia rally to one run in the third. Cramer walked and went to third on Cochrane's single to left. Foxx beat out a slow bouncer to Dykes, Cramer scoring. McNair then grounded to Jones. Sam threw to Dykes to force Cochrane at third and Dykes pegged to Kress to double McNair. Johnson flied to Simmons.

The Comiskeys made their fourth run in the fifth inning. Appling was safe when his hot grounder went through McNair. He went to second on Kress' sacrifice and trotted home on Hayes' double to left. Sullivan and Jones furnished infield outs.

Jones Folds Up.

In the first six innings Jones allowed only five hits, three of them by Finney. Then came the aforesaid seventh.

Bishop led off with a single to Hayes in short right and went to third on Cramer's single to center. Cochrane singled to center, scoring Bishop and putting Cramer on third. Foxx fouled to Dykes, but McNair dou-

Doctor Says Helen Jacobs Was Ill, Too

New York, Aug. 28.—(AP)—While the controversial features of Helen Wills Moody's dramatic default to Helen Jacobs in the National Tennis championship finals continued to agitate sporting circles today on both sides of the Atlantic, it developed that both participants disregarded medical advice by competing at all.

Mrs. Moody, storm-center of the debate over her decision to withdraw when within three games of losing the final set at love, was well on her way to California, accompanied by a nurse and friend, after an admission that she wished she had followed her doctor's counsel and not even entered the tournament.

Physician Explains All.

Miss Jacobs, newly acclaimed for her greatest championship victory, was still at Forest Hills under the care of her physician, Dr. Thomas C. Chalmers, who ended the mystery about blonde Helen's condition with a statement specifying details and explaining why it was necessary for her to use stimulants throughout the tournament.

"Miss Jacobs played throughout the tournament against my advice," said Dr. Chalmers' statement. "She fainted at Seabright after her match with Sarah Palfrey. Upon consultation with me, there was an x-ray examination which showed Miss Jacobs suffering with an acute inflammation of the gall bladder. Her heart conditions was by no means as good as it should have been for her athletic competition.

Miss Jacobs Insists.

"She insisted upon playing in the tournament and it was necessary for her to be under constant treatment by me in order to play. The remarkable thing is that she was able to play. In her matches it was necessary for her to take stimulants, even while playing, as it was her idea she must compete all the way to the end."

CARDS' 7 RUNS IN NINTH DEFEAT GIANTS, 12 TO 8

New York, Aug. 28.—(AP)—A seven run drive in the ninth inning gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 12 to 8 victory over the Giants today and ran the National league leaders' string of defeats to three in the last four games, with one tie.

There was no loss to the Giants in their efforts to keep ahead of the Braves, who were blanked by Cincinnati and remained six games behind, but in the battle, with the lead shuttling around half a dozen times, two of Bill Terry's pitching stars, Bud Parmelee and Hal Schumacher, took a cuffing.

O'Farrell Gets Second Homer.

Parmelee rode the shifting tide in a pitching duel splattered with home runs until the ninth when, with the Giants leading, 6 to 5, Ethan Allen batted for Slade and singled.

Parmelee was taken out then and Schumacher, who was beaten by the Cards yesterday when they won one game and tied the second in a double header, replaced him but not for long. Bob O'Farrell, veteran catcher, greeted him with his second home run of the afternoon, a drive into the left field seats that sent the Cards ahead, 7 to 6. Crawford batted for Dazzy Vance, who had replaced Carleton in the eighth, and walked. Then in quick succession Pepper Martin singled, Crawford scored on a wild pitch and Schumacher was removed in favor of Lefty Watson Clark.

Medwick Triples with Two On.

Clark's troubles were immediate. He walked Watkins, Frankie Frisch singled, and Joe Medwick sent them home with a triple to deep left center. Medwick scored on an infield out and the rampage was over.

With Dizzy Dean replacing Vance, the Giants made a final effort in the ninth and scored two runs on singles by Moore, Critz, and Davis. Bill Terry fanned in the heart of the rally and Dean worked easily behind his big lead, finaly getting Vergez for the third out on a bounder to Martin. Score:

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

If it isn't one thing it is another. Intercollegiate football must have its troubles, either from within or without. When the sport was riding on the crest of a popularity wave three or four years ago the newspapers were filled with the vaporings of reformers complaining about overemphasis. Too many people were attending the games, the receipts were too large, and too many young men were spending too many hours every fall engaging in blocking and tackling.

BARRY WOOD.

Now the same folks are wondering how they can emphasize the game sufficiently to lure enough customers to balance the budget. Cheaper admission prices are held out as bait. Some schools are talking about radio restrictions with an eye toward enticing the fans out of the living rooms into the grandstands. Coaches even have gone so far as to admit the presence of promising sophomores in the hope of encouraging their teams' supporters to believe another Red Grange is in the making.

All this is well and good. But there is a new danger lurking beyond. I refer to the overemphasis of brains. Coach Clark Shaughnessy is congratulating himself because several of the stalwarts he has been counting on to lift the Maroons out of the gridiron bog have passed eligibility tests. Bob Zuppke is enjoying the same experience at Illinois. And so on around the conference.

Obviously this is a situation fraught with peril. Is the day at hand when a man must know what Latin verbs take the ablative before he will be permitted to slash an opposing line to ribbons? Are the rugged traditions of football to be cast aside for new fangled educational ideas?

Barry Wood of Harvard and Marchmont Schwartz of Notre Dame are to blame for all this. Their scholastic batting averages were so widely publicized you couldn't escape the inference that they paid occasional visits to the class room. I suppose we ought to toss Gene Tunney into the setup too. Since he took to reading books several athletes have been caught going through this form of mental gymnastics.

Unless this reactionary movement is checked pronto a coach will pay no attention to a football candidate unless he has a high scholastic rating. Then if he develops a championship team he won't know whether he or the professors are responsible.

Dick Hanley, the football promoter, advances the theory that a college sophomore may be and frequently is more valuable to a football team than a senior with three years of intercollegiate experience.

We were talking about gridiron prospects here and there. Said Mr. Hanley:

"Too many sophomores," we suggested. "You can't count on fellows like Pilney, Elser, Layden, and Mazzi-otti until you have seen them under fire."

"That's the McHooey," said Hanley in rich Celtic brogue. "A player with natural talent who has a burning desire to make good is just as valuable as the average three year man. I would prefer to have a team of promising sophomores rather than seniors who had lost their fire."

There must be something to Hanley's theory at that. Red Grange demonstrated in his first game as a sophomore that he was the greatest ball carrier of his day. On the other hand, the Four Horsemen were only ordinary after quitting the yearling ranks but they later earned recognition as the best back field football has produced.

It will be interesting to observe whether Walter Cruice and Hugh Duvall, who will make their debut in the Northwestern back field this fall, are as effective as they will be in 1934 and 1935.

TERRY FAILS TO GET HIT; DROPS OUT OF BIG SIX

Bill Terry, New York Giants' manager, fell out of the Big Six yesterday as he failed to hit against Cardinal pitching in four attempts. In fact, only one of the top ranking hitters, Wes Schulmerich of the Phillies, bettered his average during the day and the point he added was just enough to edge him into the picture.

Chuck Klein, the leader, dropped a point to .377 and Jimmy Foxx of the Athletics lost two in second place. Virgil Davis, Phillies catcher, and Al Simmons each lost two points. Terry's loss was four points, leaving him three points behind Heinie Manush of the Senators, who did not play and remained at .338. The standings:

Sox-Macks Game Today to Aid Disabled Veterans

The game between the White Sox and Philadelphia Athletics today will aid the Disabled American Veterans of the world war. Forty thousand tickets are on sale, and a record attendance is expected. A percentage of the proceeds on all tickets sold in advance will be donated to the veterans for use in relief among needy ex-service men and their families.

FLEET PRINCESS CAMELIA SCORES SECOND VICTORY

BY FRENCH LANE.

Princess Camelia, the daughter of Royal Canopy-Sunmella, hasn't been doing so well at the race tracks since her owner, Joseph Leiter, passed away. She was able to win only two races in 15 starts last year and she had accounted for only one this year until she started in the Humboldt Purse, the six furlong feature of Hawthorne's card yesterday afternoon.

In the Humboldt she ran like the Princess of old, stepped out into an early lead, withstood challenge after challenge in the stretch, and lasted just long enough to capture the race by a head from Cathop in a stirring finish. A nose back of the two leaders came Karl Eitel.

Rehoboth, from Maryland, was fourth and Don Leon, from Kentucky, was fifth with Action, another Kentuckian bringing up the rear.

The betting indicated that Princess Camelia was going to run one of her very good races. The price against her was battered down and down as the wagering progressed. At the finish the price was flashed at 3 to 1. When her gray head was showing in front at the finish she paid off at $8.18 to win, $3.90 to place and $3.08 to show. Cathop was at $3.50 to place and $2.66 to show, while Karl Eitel paid $3.76 to show.

Princess Takes Early Lead.

Except in the last desperate stretch drive in which she displayed unusual gameness, Princess Camelia never left the result in doubt. The field was out only a few strides when she flew into a lead of a length. At times she was outpacing her field by three lengths but came pounding down the stretch just a length in front.

Then Cathop, which had been running fourth, and Karl Eitel, which had been third most the way, began closing in on her. They made a run at her like a couple of champions but she came again near the finish and outgamed both her speedy Chicago rivals.

The finish was as thrilling as any that has been offered in Chicago this year. Until the number flashed out on the green and white board in the infield few of the 8,500 spectators knew which had won.

Col. Edward R. Bradley's 6 year old Broad Meadows, one of the greatest in and outers of present day racing, failed his public again in the fourth. Breaking from an inside post position and showing a lot of early speed under an energetic ride by the old fellow, Jimmy Smith, Broad Meadows suddenly decided he didn't want to run in the stretch. He quit so badly that he finished out of the money.

Teralice, from Abraham Bartelstein's stable, was an easy winner at odds of more than 8 to 1. Merrily On wound up in second place and Fanfern, from Audley Farm stable, was third.

Cavanaugh, of Football Fame, Is Near Death

Mansfield, Mass., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Maj. Frank W. Cavanaugh, world war hero and former football coach at Dartmouth, Boston college and Fordham, was near death tonight. The 57 year old coach, known as football's "iron major," lay in his home in this small town on Massachusett's south shore and physicians said nothing but a miracle could save him.

Maj. Cavanaugh entered the world war as a private in a field artillery outfit and figured in many battles.

A star end at Dartmouth during his playing days, Maj. Cavanaugh entered the coaching field at Holy Cross. Then he went to Worcester academy, the Denver Athletic club, and Dartmouth. After the war he went to Boston college and later to Fordham university in New York. His Boston college squads defeated Yale two successive years.

RENTNER FAILS TO APPEAR; COURT ORDERS ARREST

Ernest [Pug] Rentner, former member of the Northwestern university football team, failed to appear in court yesterday morning when called before Municipal Court Judge Harry H. Porter in Evanston on a charge of operating an automobile without an Evanston city license.

Judge Porter ordered a $5 bond forfeited and a capias for Rentner's arrest be issued. Rentner, arrested Saturday night, said the automobile he was driving belonged to a friend.

BRITISH GIRL IS 3 UNDER PAR IN RECORD ROUND

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[SCORES ON PAGE 19.]

Enid Wilson, a tall blonde of 23, who comes out of Nottingham, England, where Robin Hood was wont to stymie the high sheriff of that village in the bunkers and traps of Sherwood Forest, yesterday ran off with the medal in the qualifying round of the 37th annual national women's golf tournament at the Exmoor Country club.

To say that Miss Wilson ran off with the medal is to be conservative, for she finished with a record of 76, three strokes under par, and two better than the score submitted jointly by the defending champion, the titleholder of two years ago, and one of the most ever-trying contenders in the tournament. Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, who won the championship last year; Helen Hicks of Inwood, N. Y., victor in 1931, and the persistent Maureen Orcutt from Haworth, N. J., did their darndest to catch Enid, but that proved to be nothing better than 78.

Mrs. Lake Wins Playoff.

Match Play This Morning.

In a special playoff among the Misses Orcutt, Hicks, and Van Wie for the second, third, and fourth place in the match play bracket, Miss Orcutt won with a birdie 4 on the extra hole. Miss Hicks took second with a 5, and Miss Van Wie was third with a 6.

The first round of match play at 18 holes will begin at 10 o'clock this morning. A special match play against par event, with prizes to be donated by Exmoor, will begin at 1:30 p. m. Eighteen hole matches will be held tomorrow, Thursday, and Friday, all starting at 10 a. m., and the final will be held Saturday at 36 holes.

Record for Medal Round.

Miss Wilson's 76 not only vindicated the guesses of the railbirds that the field of 113 would do things to par, but it also established records both for the Exmoor course and for the qualifying round. The best previous competitive card on the Highland Park links was a 78, fashioned by Jane Weiller. Her 76 lowered by one stroke the best figure ever brought home in the qualifying rounds of the 37 year old tournament. Scores of 77 had been shot by Alexa Stirling Fraser in the 1925 tournament, by Ada MacKenzie in 1927 and by Virginia Van Wie and Maureen Orcutt last year.

It will be no task for real golf fans to tell you who Enid Wilson is, even on this side of the pond, for she holds one of the most unique records in the game, having won the British women's championship for the last three years.

Scores Six Birdies, Eagle.

If her 76 sounds incredible coming from a girl golfer, consider that it included six birdies, and for a climax an eagle on the 13th green. Those who followed the English girl testified that she is as facile with her woods as with her favored irons, and will call upon the former even in traps and rough.

Miss Wilson had to be good to come

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The 31st Kentucky claiming stakes, won by C. V. Whitney's Jabot, was the feature race today, but chief interest centered in the Belair purse which saw a victory for High Quest, the Sir Galahad III. colt, which many consider the potential juvenile champion. Jabot won by a neck over Miss Merriment which led until within a few strides of the finish line.

A strong finish by Bobby Robertson aboard the daughter of Sickle decided the issue. Miss Merriment was the 9 to 5 favorite while the Whitney entry of Jabot and Piety was a well played second choice at 11 to 5. Miss Merriment made all the early pace, but could not hold on in the last sixteenth. Third fell to Easy Come, which brought up four lengths back of Miss Merriment.

Track is Dead.

The track was dead, even after much work had been done on it over the week end and was a tiring surface over which to run. The time in the Kentucky was 1:07 for the five and one half furlongs. It was Mr. Whitney's first victory in the stake which his father, Harry Payne Whitney, won with Gosling in 1930.

High Quest's race in the Belair was at six furlongs and the result stamps him as a fine colt. He won by two lengths from Mrs. Payne Whitney's Soon Over. A length and a half farther back Discovery, a long shot gained the show.

JUSTICE DOUBTS A. A. U. RIGHT TO RULE ON PROS

TORONTO, Aug. 28.—Justice J. M. McEvoy today extended an interim injunction he had issued to restrain the Amateur Athletic union of Canada from forfeiting the amateur card of Gerald McNulty for alleged infraction of amateur rules. The justice expressed doubt the union "has the right to arbitrarily declare a man a non-amateur by their own sweet will with no one having the right to question it."

McNulty, an amateur ballplayer, was suspended some time ago by the Ontario branch of the union. In suing for the injunction he said he would suffer irreparable loss and harm if the suspension were allowed to stand.

D. M. Findlay, counsel for the union, in pointing out that McNulty had not availed himself of the right to appeal from the decision, said that if the union did not have the right to suspend members for infractions of its rules "its decisions are not of much use and it might as well stop now."

Justice McEvoy said he would rule Wednesday on McNulty's plea for a permanent injunction to restrain the union from interfering with his ball playing.

Winner trained by D. A. Headley. Went to post at 2:44. At post 3 minutes. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

DOUBLE DATE, placed on outside at start and away fast, but unable to keep up, bettered her position fast after reaching final three-eighths and won easily. DROMBO, well rated, held on in improved fashion. HOUR ZEV, a strong factor throughout, fought it out stubbornly.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Winner trained by B. Parke. Went to post at 3:09¼. At post ½ minute. Start good for all but Hopulikit from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

STRIKE SIGNAL SINGER went to the front with a fine early pace, but tired badly, and weakened badly, but under strong handling lasted for a lucky win. CHOKOLOSKEE raced on own courage, lost considerable ground, and probably would have won under a stronger ride. HIS LAST had no mishap.

TERALICE, well in hand for three-eighths, slipped through on inside on the stretch turn, came away fast after straightening up in the stretch, and had something left. MERRILY ON had speed from the start, lost ground and, holding on well, outstayed FANFERN. Latter was under strong riding throughout and weakened in closing eighth.

McPherson. Went to post at 3:59½. At post 5½ minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

PRINCESS CAMELIA had the most speed, was under light restraint until reaching final quarter, where she outstirred well to closing sixteenth before weakening, but outstayed CATHOP. Latter saved ground early, withstood the drive gamely, and outfinished KARL EITEL in final stride. Latter lost ground all the way and held on well in a fine effort.

Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 4:28½. Off at once. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

RESISTING, under strong restraint but not far back the first five-eighths, came around the leaders rapidly when entering stretch and, continuing strongly, won drawing out. PHARAHEAD, taken up at the start, made up ground after reaching the last three-eighths, where he raced wide. ONDOTT saved much ground and weakened in final drive.

Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 4:53. At post 1⅛ minutes. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

BELGIAN LASS, in close quarters at first turn, was taken to outside when entering backstretch, lost ground thereafter, but, much the best, took command with a rush in the stretch and won easily. BRAINS bore over sharply on first turn, was well rated, and held on gamely. HAPPY FELLOW, far back for three-quarters, closed with fine belated speed.

Horse Drags Rodeo Entrant Caught in Rope

Andomaro Bercerril, a member of the troupe of Mexican charros led by Gen. Quinones, was injured in a freak accident last night at the World's Fair rodeo at Soldiers' field. Bercerril, on foot, had just roped a running horse when he became entangled in his own lariat and was dragged by the neck for a considerable distance. He was rushed to St. Luke's hospital, where his condition was considered serious.

In the relay race the horse ridden by Frankie Burns of Alamosa, Cal., fell on a turn at the north end of the field and Sport Parker of Hot Springs, Ark., piled up on top of him. It seemed that the boys might be badly injured but they grabbed their saddles, mounted the next horses in the relay, and split third and fourth money for the event.

It was announced that Young Harry Knight of Calgary, Alberta, Canada, seriously injured Sunday when bucked from a horse, had a fighting chance for recovery. Eight of the cowboy contestants went to St. Luke's earlier in the afternoon to offer their blood for a transfusion and Jack Kerscher of Blackfoot, Idaho, was chosen. Kerscher later appeared to take part in the steer wrestling, making his best time to date.

The summaries:

Bronc riding—Won by Dick Griffith, Fort Worth, Tex.; Hughie Long, Battleford, Sask., second; Harry Vancaupen, Faith, S. D., third; Earl West, Cheryton, Tex., fourth; Short Hill, Farmington, N. M. and Herman Linder, Cardston, Alta. Can., tied for fifth.

Wild cow milking—Won by Floyd Gale, Morris, Okla.; Arthur Beloat, Buckeye, Ariz., second; Carl Arnold, Buckeye, Ariz., third.

Steer riding—Won by Dick Griffith, Fort Worth, Tex.; Hughie Long, Battleford, Sask., and Fox O'Callahan, Newhall, Cal., tied for second; Smoky Snyder, Kimberly, B. C., and Johnny Schneider, Livermore, Cal., tied for fourth.

Wild horse race—Won by Gene Rose, Sayre, Okla.; Pete Kirscher, Federal, Wyo., second; Carl Arnold, Buckeye, Ariz., third; Pat Ryan, Buffalo, Wyo., fourth.

RAIN AGAIN PUTS DOUBLE HEADER ON CUB PROGRAM

2 Today, 2 Tomorrow at Brooklyn.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 28.—The Cubs secretly made arrangements today to present their manager, Charley Grimm, with a token befitting his 34th birthday. The gift was to be a victory over the funny Dodgers, but the party failed to come off. A deluge came down just at the minute scheduled for the start of the game, so the local management hastily devised another double header. That means the Cubs will have to struggle through two contests here on Wednesday as well as the two billed for tomorrow. Having gone through four double headers in a row, the Chicagoans will not mind a couple more for good measure.

The battle washed out this afternoon was to involve the pitching services of Pat Malone, which was not in line with Grimm's earlier plans. Sunday night Grimm told the portly Pat he would have to start this morning on a series of reducing exercises along with Bud Tinning. Lon Warneke was in line for the pitching job. But about noon today Grimm relented on the Malone training program and told him he would be given a chance this afternoon to prove he wasn't all out of shape. Now Malone will have to wait until tomorrow and the other game will be handled by Warneke.

Babe Back in Lineup.

Babe Herman, who has been on the bench because of inability to use his bat, will be restored to active service tomorrow, but there is no telling how long it will last. The young man is in a low mental state and whether he can snap out of it is a question. A few hits might start him off again, but first he has to get the hits. The answer to the Babe's predicament is that he can't click with a contending team. He goes well only when there are no pennant percentages to worry about. The Babe was with the Dodgers six years and was a great hitter in all except one season. That was the season the Dodgers had a chance for the flag.

Unless the Cubs take an unexpected flop in the four remaining games here, they will be able to point with pride to their record for the final eastern jaunt of the year. They won one in three at Boston, lost two at New York, won four of six at Philadelphia, and broke even in the two played here thus far. That's six victories and seven defeats, which is a vast improvement on the two previous trips. The answer probably is that Babe Herman isn't the only one with a pennant complex. Since the Cubs dropped so far behind the leaders there has been a letdown in the tension with a consequent improvement in hitting.

Stan Hack Recalled.

On the possibility that extra help might be needed to put on a stirring finish in the September stretch at Wrigley field, William Veeck, the Cub president, announced that two men would be added to the roster this week-end at Cincinnati. Stanley Hack, the young infielder who was purchased from Sacramento at a fancy price a couple of years ago, has been recalled from the Albany, N. Y., team. From the same team the Cubs have taken Gordon Phelps, a young catcher. Both are hitting slightly over the .300 mark, which isn't much for the International league.

After the double header Wednesday, the Cubs will hop an early train for Cincinnati, where they'll loaf Thursday afternoon. They are billed for single games in the Rhineland sector Friday and Saturday. They'll be back home next Sunday for a stretch of 23 games.

Yanks Escape Shutout; Lose to Tigers; 6-1

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Vic Sorrell, slender Tiger pitcher, came within an inning today of becoming the second pitcher to blank the Yankees in 334 games as he led Detroit to a 6 to 1 victory.

Sorrell pitched hitless ball for six innings and allowed only two hits up to the ninth. Then Dixie Walker tripled and Babe Ruth singled to bring him home. Four hits were all Sorrell allowed as Detroit evened the series at two games all.

The Tigers had two big innings at the expense of Johnny Allen, who retired for a pinch hitter in the eighth with Danny MacFayden finishing.

Four runs developed in the third on walks to Hayworth and Rogell, Fox's single, doubles by Gehringer and Gerald Walker, and a wild pitch. In the seventh Rogell's single and triples by Gehringer and Walker added the final runs. Score:

C. H. Wood, Major League Pitcher in '80s, Dies at 74

New York, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Charles H. Wood, 74, a major league pitcher in the '80s, is dead of injuries suffered when he was knocked down by an automobile here a month ago. Wood broke into big league baseball with the Detroit Nationals and later played with Pop Anson's Chicago Nationals.

WHEN SOX THANKED MICKEY FOR A GIFT RUN

Braves Held to 2 Hits by Lucas; Reds Triumph, 2-0

Boston, Mass., Aug. 28.—(AP)—The Braves' pennant aspirations received a setback today, when Fred [Red] Lucas, Cincinnati pitcher, shut them out, 2 to 0. Hafey made both runs for the Reds. It was the second straight loss for the Braves, after having won eight games in a row. Boston got only two hits off Lucas.

The second run came in the ninth. Hafey opened with a scratch hit that went through Maranville. Rice bunted and Brandt's throw for a force play at second was a fraction of a second too late, each runner advancing on Lombardi's sacrifice. Hafey finally scored after Berger had caught Bottomley's fly to deep center field. Score:

PIRATES WIN TWO.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 28.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates brought their losing streak to an abrupt end today with a double victory over the Phillies, 9 to 5 and 9 to 1.

The Pirates came from behind to win the first game. Trailing, 4 to 2, at the beginning of the sixth inning, they hammered Elliott from the mound and pounded his successor, Berly. In the eighth they pounded Berly for three runs to clinch the contest. Swift, who had started for the Pirates, was removed for a pinch-hitter in the fifth and Chagnon who finished received credit for the triumph. Spud Davis hit a homer for the Phils in the ninth.

In the second game the Pirates took an early lead by hammering Holley for a run in the second and four more in the third. Home runs by Lindstrom and Vaughan, the latter with two on base, were the big factors in this victory. Scores:

GIANTS RECALL PITCHER.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 28.—(AP)—The Kansas City American Association baseball club today announced that Bill Shores, pitcher, has been recalled by the New York Giants and will rejoin that team at Boston, Sept. 7.

Sox Pitchers Collapse, So A's Win, 9-5

bled off the left field wall, Cramer scoring and Cochrane stopping at third. Johnson walked, filling the bases. Dykes threw out Higgins, Cochrane scoring the tying run. Finney was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. A jam without an error by Appling seemed incongrous. So Peterson bounced one to Luke, who fumbled the ball, letting McNair score the run that put the A's in front. Bishop, up the second time in the inning, considerately fanned.

The Sox went out in order in the seventh, and neither team accomplished anything in the eighth. Then Lyons tried to pitch in the ninth after Jones had given way to a futile pinch batter. Ted was all right after he warmed up, striking out Foxx and McNair, the last two men to face him. The only trouble was that four runs were hammered off his delivery before he got warmed up.

Higgins Starts Bombardment.

In their half of the ninth the Sox scored the run which would have meant something but for Lyons' flop in the relief rôle. Haas opened with a single to McNair and went to second when McNair threw the ball into the dugout for the fourth Philadelphia error. Haas went to third while Cochrane was throwing out Dykes and scored on Simmons' grounder to Bishop. Appling singled to center, but Kress was thrown out by Higgins.

A'S IN FAREWELL TODAY

The Athletics will say good-by to Chicago for 1933 in a single game this afternoon. Durham or Miller will pitch for Chicago and Dick Oliver Barrett will work for Connie Mack.

The Sox will loaf tomorrow, play the Cleveland Indians Thursday, loaf Friday and resume against the Indians Saturday and Sunday in single games.

A single game will be played Sunday under the stipulations of the conflict agreement. The Cubs also will be in town Sunday. The last time the Sox chortled about a single Sabbath game they got hooked up in a 17 inning contest with the Detroit Tigers.

Next Sunday night the Sox take off for a six town road trip, which opens with Labor day games in Detroit and ends in Cleveland, with the eastern clubs sandwiched.

Umpire Helps Terry, Ott in Escaping Ban

The leader of the Giants escaped with nothing more serious than a reprimand for his run-in with Umpire Ted McGrew on a close decision at first base in the last inning of the second game with the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday at the Polo grounds.

Terry at first was ordered out of the game by McGrew for shoving the umpire. This decision was reversed, however, after a general argument and because of McGrew's feeling that the Giants' manager merely was momentarily overheated after a succession of close decisions in the same inning.

Mel Ott, hard hitting outfielder of the Giants, also escaped suspension because of his otherwise good record, although he was ejected from the game as an aftermath of the argument started by Terry.

NATIONAL C. Y. O. BASEBALL MEET TO OPEN SEPT. 5

Catholic Youth organization officials are making final preparations to welcome teams from out of town which will compete in the national Catholic Youth baseball tournament at Comiskey park Sept. 5 to 9.

Chicago will be represented by the three finalists in the C. Y. O. baseball race—St. Hyacinth, St. Adrian, and St. Pancratius.

Among the several out of town teams expected to compete are the champions of the Louisville, Ky., Catholic Baseball league. Last year the Chicago C. Y. O. champions traveled to Kentucky and were whipped by Louisville.

ENID WILSON'S 76 WINS MEDAL IN WOMEN'S GOLF

British Girl 3 Under Par in Record Round.

home in front of the trio of 78s turned in by the Misses Van Wie, Hicks and Orcutt, all of whom might have equaled, even bettered, the visitor's card but for a few minor mishaps. Miss Hicks and Miss Orcutt, for instance, found only one hole during their rounds on which they couldn't come to terms with par. Miss Van Wie ran into trouble here and there, but answered the same with two birdies and an eagle on the 15th, the latter as the result of two best wood shots of the day.

Mrs. Cheney Has a 79.

Following the four leaders was Mrs. L. D. Cheney of Los Angeles, the only other in the field to break 80. She finished with a par 79. After her were two of the younger stars, Lucille Robinson of Des Moines, Ia., winner of the recent western title at Oak Park, and Frances Williams of Wayne, Pa., each of whom had 81.

Par—Out	555	554	343—39
Par—In	544	345	555—40 79
Miss Wilson—Out	564	445	344—39

Mrs. Cheney—In	554	345	553—40—79

Miss Wilson didn't let on to her gallery that she was bound for places until the third hole. She earned her par on the first, and was over at the second, where the combination of a trap and three putts sent her to the third tee with a 6. Then she went to work in earnest, knocking down three consecutive birdies. She took two putts from three feet out on the third, and so had to be content with a birdie instead of an eagle. She was under par again at the fourth, dropping her third shot eight inches from the pin for an easy putt. She scored still another birdie at the fifth, landing a foot from the pin with her approach.

More Birdies Fall.

She explored the forestry at the sixth for a 5 and found a trap at the ninth. After driving the rough at the 10th she reached the green with her second and was down in two putts for another birdie. A trap at the 14th, the day's most pesky hole for all concerned, cost her a 6. She reached the 420 yard 16th in two for a birdie, and bagged another on the 17th. After her tee shot to the 18th she chose a No. 2 iron and sent the ball onto the green, eight feet from the hole. She stepped up to the putt and sank it before the cheering gallery for an eagle 3.

Miss Van Wie started out as though she were going to attend to the business of breaking her own record of last year. She reached both the second and third greens in two, and was down in 4 on both for birdies. A four foot attempt for another birdie on the fifth hesitated on the rim of the cup and stayed there. She reached the 185 yard seventh easily enough, but needed three putts to hole out. She was over the ninth green and took two putts after chipping up.

Great Shots on 15th.

The champion matched the card until the 14th, where her second shot sailed into the trap at the right of the green. She chipped and took two putts for a 5. She had a great drive from the 15th tee, and improved it with her brassie shot, the ball falling six feet from the cup. She ran it down for her eagle and one of the best performances of the day. Her second shot to the 17th landed on the rugged path between the two traps at the left of the greeen, but she got on with her next and earned a par 5.

Her tee shot to the 17th found the rough at the left back of trees and bunkers, but she escaped with a par. Her second shot to the home green sailed to the left among the trees over the scorer's table. She chipped on to within about four feet, but lost the chance for a 77 when her putt slithered beyond the cup.

Par Easy for Helen.

Helen Hicks played some of the soundest golf of the day, going over par only at the 14th, which she three putted after reaching it in two. She scored birdies at the second and eighth. At the former her spoon shot flew over the green into the rough, but she came back to within two feet of the cup and sank the putt. A 40 footer accounted for the birdie at the eighth.

Miss Orcutt was even with par to the fifth, which she reached in two, and took two putts from ten feet to get down for her first birdie. She went two over par at the 13th, finding a trap and going away with a 5 instead of the legal 3. A ten foot putt at the 15th and a twelve footer at the 16th dropped two more birdies into her collection.

New York, Aug. 28.—Pressure against leading foreign loans, which sent prices down fractionally to more than 4 points, featured dealings in bonds on the stock exchange today. Domestic corporation bonds were irregularly lower on the day.

United States government bonds were irregularly higher. The latter closed up 3-32ds to off 2-32ds points. Total transactions in the listed bond market today were slightly under $10,000,000.

German Bonds Decline.

In the foreigns German bonds were weak on the prospect of uncertainty regarding the legal status under the federal security act of the scrip which is to be offered in lieu of 50 per cent of cash on the debt service. German government bonds, which do not come under the scrip plan, were also weaker today, the 5½s losing 1⅜ points, and the 7s, ¾ of a point.

Reflecting the pronounced strength of the dollar in the foreign exchange markets, United Kingdom 5½s fell 4¼ points, French government 7½s, 4 points, and Kingdom of Italy 7s, ⅝ of a point. Argentine government loans were the weakest of the Latin-American group.

Domestic Issues Weak.

The major declines in domestic corporation bonds ranged from 1 to 5 points. Few of the individual issues, however, were particularly active. Several of these were able to make some headway against the general downward trend. Studebaker 6s, due 1942, rallied 3½ points; Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific adjustment 5s, due 2000, up ½; Western Pacific first 5s, due 1946, up 2⅜; and Missouri Pacific 5s, due 1977, up ½.

Net Earnings of Canadian Railroads Gain for July

Pacific Power and Light.

Investors' Guide: I would like to buy Pacific Power and Light first 5s, due 1955, bonds for investment. What is your opinion?—R.N.W.

Answer: This subsidiary of American Power and Light company furnishes electricity to 115 Washington and Oregon communities. In the beginning of 1932 a new plant, belonging to a wholly owned subsidiary, Inland Power and Light company, was placed in operation. This should eventually be a source of substantial earnings, but at present operations are unprofitable.

Pacific Power and Light company would have been able to cover its charges 1.38 times in 1932 except for the losses of this subsidiary. As a result of such losses it covered only 97 per cent of charges on a consolidated basis.

In 1931, when Inland Power and Light was not yet in operation, interest was earned 1.79 times, against 1.83 times in 1930 and 1.53 times in 1929.

Although Pacific Power and Light was successful in 1931 in selling $20,500,000 of 5 per cent bonds, due 1955, this was not sufficient to refund all expenditures for subsidiary's plant. As a result current assets on Dec. 31, 1932, totaled $1,454,000 and current liabilities including $4,405,000 notes payable to the parent company, were $5,751,000.

In view of the unimpressive current position and the unfavorable trend of earnings the bonds are regarded as speculative.

William Ganschow Co. Shares.

Investors' Guide: Among the papers of an estate we found several shares of stock of William Ganschow company. We shall be pleased if you will help us get information concerning the present status of this company.—R. B.

Answer. The following letter has been received from S. C. Dalbey, acting for Frederick L. Lackie, receiver for Gears and Forgings, Inc.:

"Relative to stock of William Ganschow company: In January, 1928, this company was taken over by Gears and Forgings, Inc., and a certain amount of Gears and Forgings, Inc., stock together with money, was paid to the William Ganschow company for payment of their property. We have no record of what the transaction was between the William Ganschow company and their stockholders. We presume, of course, that the cash and stock was prorated to their stockholders.

"Gears and Forgings, Inc., was taken over by receivers on March 29, 1932. We believe it unlikely that either the class A or B stock of Gears and Forgings, Inc., will have any value."

Directors Accused of Stock Pool.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Charges and counter charges filled the air yesterday as the minority stockholders' group and the management of Armour & Co. continued their fight for proxies to be voted on the proposed financial reorganization.

The issue of "banker dictation" of the company was raised by Alexander Berger, a member of the opposition committee and a holder of 1,000 shares of class A stock.

The allegation that three bankers who are directors and officers of the company made several million dollars in pool operations in the company's shares was made by Berger in an "open letter" to T. George Lee, president of the company.

Asks Amount Paid Trustees.

Berger demanded that the company make a full disclosure of the amounts paid to the three bankers to serve as voting trustees of the company's A and B shares.

He also demanded that the company reveal to what extent the company under its present management has participated in "recent manipulations of the stock market and how much have the present officers made in such transactions?"

"Is it not a fact," Berger asks in his letter, "that these bankers were each paid the sum of $100,000 annually to act as voting trustees of the A and B common stock when all they had to do was to meet once a year and vote this stock?"

Bankers Are Listed.

The bankers referred to are Arthur Reynolds, former chairman of Continental Illinois National bank; Samuel McRoberts, director of the Manufacturers' Trust company, New York, and chairman of the Armour finance committee, and A. H. Wiggin, director and former chairman of the Chase National bank, New York.

"Is it not true," the Berger letter said, "that shortly after the A and B common stock was brought out these three bankers and certain officers and key men in Armour & Co., including the president and treasurer, formed a pool to purchase a large amount of this stock at a low price; that they then, by typical Wall street pool operations, with the incidental 'window dressing,' advanced the price to practically $30 a share and then unloaded and left the investing public, including many of present stockholders, of whom I am one, to suffer millions in losses?"

Letter Follows Lee's Charge.

The Berger letter followed closely the statement of President Lee that the attack on the reorganization plan is backed by F. H. Prince, Boston capitalist, who through his large holdings in the Union stockyards is engaged in litigation with Armour & Co. Lee has been president of Armour since 1931, succeeding F. Edson White, who was killed in a fall from his apartment window.

The special meeting called to vote on the reorganization has been adjourned until Sept. 1. The management failed by a slim margin to muster the necessary two-thirds of the stock necessary to approval of the plan when the meeting convened Aug. 22.

CHEVROLET ADDS 11,000 EMPLOYES, BOOSTS PAY 20%

Factory employment of Chevrolet Motor Car company, General Motors division, now exceeds 47,000 men, the highest since the peak reached in 1929, according to H. J. Klingler, vice president and general sales manager. Mr. Klingler was in Chicago yesterday attending a sales meeting.

"In the neighborhood of 11,000 men have been added to our factory pay rolls since June 10, and Chevrolet was the first motor car manufacturer in the industry to increase wages and shorten working hours," Mr. Klingler said. "Approximately 47,000 employés are now receiving 20 per cent higher wages than in March this year."

The company has not only done everything that the NRA suggests but in some instances have gone further than the provisions of the code require, he said.

Sales of the company for the first 7 months this year exceeded the total 1932 volume by 10,000 units, Mr. Klingler said.

Mr. Klingler said the experience of his company shows that definite and specific results have been produced by the recovery program.

U. S. Treasury Sells Bills to Yield 14-100ths of 1%

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—The offering of $100,000,000 91 day treasury bills made last week was subscribed four times over, and was awarded at close to the lowest discount on record. Acting Secretary of the Treasury Acheson announced tonight that total subscriptions were $403,192,000. The accepted bids ranged from 99.966 to 99.63, equivalent, respectively, to a rate of .13 to .15 per cent a year on a bank discount basis, with the average price affording a yield of 14-100ths of 1 per cent. The bills will be dated Aug. 30 and will mature Nov. 29.

Monthly Fluctuations in Factory Employment in the United States

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 28.—Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, began today a series of conferences which he is expected to hold here this week with federal reserve officials and others bankers. Mr. Norman was the guest of the New York Federal Reserve bank, where he has been provided with an office for the period of his visit.

His conferences began with a luncheon meeting attended by Eugene R. Black, governor of the federal reserve board; William H. Woodin, secretary of the treasury; George L. Harrison, governor of the New York reserve bank, and other officers and directors. Following the luncheon Mr. Norman and Mr. Harrison drove to Hyde Park to call on President Roosevelt.

Discuss Monetary Problems.

The nature of Mr. Norman's conversations with federal reserve officials was not disclosed beyond the general statement that they pertained to monetary problems in which the banks of issue and the Bank of England are concerned.

Bankers who have not yet held conversations with Mr. Norman during his present visit were of the opinion that his chief concern at this time would be the question of the fluctuations of the dollar and of the pound sterling.

Within the last few weeks the British exchange equalization fund has had to give up its attempt to peg sterling at 85 francs to the pound and the pound, which had been stable in terms of gold during the period of the fall of the dollar, has dropped to within a narrow margin of its record low price measured in french francs. With the period of seasonal pressure on British exchange now at hand a further depreciation of the pound appears likely.

Consider Credit Expansion.

Mr. Norman is believed to feel that the stabilization of the dollar and the pound sterling are essential to world recovery. President Roosevelt has refused to consider stabilization of the dollar in foreign exchange until prices here have been restored to the approximate level of 1926.

Apart from the question of stabilization, the most important subject likely to be discussed by Mr. Norman and federal reserve officials here, it is believed, is central bank operations to expand credit. The federal reserve has in progress an open market campaign to expand credit. The Bank of England, although it has maintained an easy money policy, has not yet attempted measures as aggressive as those employed by the reserve banks. From time to time in the past proposals have been advanced for concerted action by central banks in their respective markets to expand credit and stimulate price rises.

U. S. FOREIGN TRADE UP FOR THIRD MONTH AS RECOVERY WIDENS

New York, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Domestic trade recovery is operating to stimulate the foreign trade of the United States, the American Manufacturers Export association said today in reporting that July was the third consecutive month of export and import trade revival.

July exports of $145,000,000, the association said, were 21 per cent higher than June, and imports of $143,000,000 represented an increase of 17 per cent.

"While our prices are higher here," said the association, "the increase is still less than the depreciation of the American dollar abroad and allows us to meet competition and brings our goods into the hands of foreign buyers at less cost than trade."

The association commented that the increase in imports was "unquestionably due to the creditor status of our country asserting itself, but also to the demand for more raw materials from abroad arising as a consequence of our domestic industrial revival."

The association expressed itself as "highly gratified" by the administration's apparent intention to foster the growth of foreign trade through the negotiation of reciprocal trade treaties and the empowering of commercial attachés to assist individual exporters in establishing principles for the solution of trade problems.

STEWART-WARNER SALES IN AUGUST DOUBLE YEAR AGO

Maintaining the rate of increase established in July, sales for August of the Stewart-Warner corporation have been running almost double those of the same time last year, according to Joseph E. Otis, executive vice president.

While unable at this time to accurately forecast earnings results, Mr. Otis said that he anticipated an improved showing in the third quarter, in comparison with the second, when the corporation operated at a loss of $155,315 after all charges.

Through the adoption of the NRA code, increasing employment and pay rolls and shortening working hours, has resulted in an increase of over ten per cent in expense, this has been partially offset by improved efficiency, Mr. Otis said.

The meeting of the directors was adjourned yesterday to Sept. 25, owing to lack of a quorum. A new president had not yet been selected for the corporation.

Dollar Rallies Cent and Half on 3 Factors

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 28.—The dollar rallied strongly in foreign exchange today, partly as a natural rebound from its heavy depreciation of last week, partly in reflection of Europe's interest in the conference between President Roosevelt and Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, and partly from arbitrage operations connected with the United Kingdom 5½s, which are convertible into sterling obligations.

In terms of the franc the dollar reached a high of 70.72 cents gold valuation against a closing valuation of 68.94 cents on Saturday. This rise of 1.78 cents involved a fall in the franc of 141¼ points to 5.54 cents. French exchange closed at 5.56½, off 113¾ points, indicating a gold value for the dollar of 70.40 cents.

Well Under Last Week's Top.

The dollar, however, has a long way to go before recovering all its losses of last week when it dropped from more than 73 cents to 69.01 cents.

Sterling suffered an extreme reaction of 133¾ cents to $4.49½ and closed of 111¼ cents at $4.52. Other exchanges showed similarly sharp declines.

The Canadian dollar declined 7-16 cent to 4⅞ per cent discount; German marks lost 60 points to 33.85 cents and Italian lire were 16 points lower at 7.49 cents.

Norman Visit a Factor.

The fact that Mr. Norman was scheduled to confer with President Roosevelt at the summer White House in the afternoon, presumably on monetary questions, was a factor of importance in the market. Reports from abroad indicated that in Europe, where Mr. Norman is regarded as a diplomat of the first rank, great expectations had been aroused by the news of the visit.

But news from the President's summer home tonight indicates that Mr. Norman got nowhere in his hoped-for conference.

GRAINS RECEDE; TRADERS REVISE INFLATION IDEAS

Wheat and Corn Fall as Dollar Rises.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A sharp upturn in the value of the American dollar as measured by English pound sterling and French francs was construed by the grain trade as suggesting that ideas as to inflation might have to be revised.

For some time grains have been going against the trend of the dollar, declining when the latter advances, or the reverse. Sufficient selling developed yesterday to send wheat prices down as much as 2 cents from Saturday's finish at the opening. The December touched 91 cents, which proved to be the low level for the day.

There was no snap to either the buying or selling at any time during the day. Fluctuations after the opening were within relatively narrow limits, with outside and local speculation light.

Wheat Closes Lower.

The bulk of the trade in December wheat was around 91½ cents, although there was a rally to 92⅛ cents before noon on scattered buying. At no time, however, were prices as high as the finish on Saturday, and the close was well toward the bottom. Net losses were 1¼ to 1⅝ cents, with September closing at 87⅝ to 87¾ cents; December at 91⅜ to 91½ cents, and May at 95¾ to 95⅞ cents.

Liquidation was again in evidence in September corn, and the price dropped to 49¾ cents early, or 1⅛ cents below Saturday's finish at the extreme. Cash interests bought the nearby future and sold December at 53⅜ and 51½ cents difference. Closing trades were on a fair rally from the inside figures with net losses of ½ cent, September being 50⅞ to 50⅝ cents, December 55⅝ to 55¾ cents, and May 61½ cents.

Oats and Barley Decline.

Oats lost ⅝ to ⅝ cent, with December closing at 40⅜ to 40½ cents. Rye was ¾ to ⅞ cent lower, December being 77¾ cents.

There was closing of spreads between barley and other grains during the day, the former being bought and closing unchanged to ¾ cent lower, December finishing at 59¼ cents.

A car of western white wheat was received at Chicago from the state of Washington. It was to be the first shipment of its kind in some years.

Domestic demand for cash wheat remains good with prices showing a tendency to advance as compared with the September delivery. At Minneapolis 58 pound No. 1 dark northern was quoted at 3 cents over the future. Winnipeg felt the effect of removal of hedges against export sales and failed to fully reflect the decline in Chicago, closing ⅞ cent lower in Canadian funds. Liverpool was 1⅝ to 1⅝ cents lower, the lower rate of exchange having considerable influence.

Theory of the Rainbow Dollar Seems Not So Brilliantly New

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Dr. Arthur Dahlberg, Ph.D., research fellow of the Social Science Research council, eminent brains trustee and sponsor of the rainbow money scheme, is one professor who may have learned from his students.

Dr. Dahlberg has just turned over to Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell, chief trusty of the brains trust, a great plan for solving the money troubles of the world by getting rid of money. The doctor would amputate it cent by cent until one fine day a dollar bill would be worth nothing and could be used with stock in the Whoozis Gulch Gold Mining company and real estate gold bonds to paper the walls of the sadder and wiser investor.

At first it was believed that the doctor got his idea from the inflationists and that he was merely going Dr. Irving Fisher one better. Dr. Fisher wants a wobbling dollar. Dr. Dahlberg proposes a flopping dollar. Instead of a dollar that would pop up and down in sympathy with the rise and fall of the commodity price index, a la Fisher, Dr. Dahlberg thinks it would be lovely if we could have an anemic dollar that would just waste away to nothing.

He would have the government tax all dollars one per cent a month. This month the government would put out new pink dollar bills to replace the present green ones. Then next month he would have blue dollars, the following month maroon dollars, and so on, each bill to be dated.

The pink dollar wouldn't be punched by the tax collector after the fashion of Pat Galligan, who inches the rides off the monthly commuter's tickets on the Chicago & Northwestern, but the effect would be the same. An August dollar in September would be worth 99 cents and in October 98 cents. Only the current month's dollar would be worth 100 cents.

What would happen to nickels and dimes, the type of currency more familiar to newspaper reporters and other taxpayers, the doctor hasn't said. Possibly a way could be found of heating them by wireless so that they would burn holes in pants pockets. This plan would have the added attraction of building up a demand for department of agriculture's surplus cotton and would save wear and tear on the mules that have to plow up every fourth row.

In case you think you're going to beat the doctor's plan by putting your money in the bank, he's thought of that one, too.

"The government," he says in his report, "needs simply to instruct the banks to deduct, say, one per cent from the balances of all depositors at the end of the month. This one per cent the banks could be directed to credit to the account of the United States government. We must smoke out purchasing power, not coax it out."

But what has all this got to do with the professor learning from his students. We're coming to that.

A long time ago, probably before Dr. Dahlberg got to be a doctor of philosophy, the writer sadly recalls a freshman class in English composition in which the students had to compose what went by the name of poetry and which came to a distinct climax one day when one of the less subtle poets turned in as his original contribution a lovely little bit beginning, "The melanchol days have come, the saddest of the year ——.

Possibly the news of that ingenious means of substituting for originality has by now penetrated the professorial ken and has been generally adopted for professorial use.

Stranger things have happened and it's not impossible that in authorship, as in other things, that what used to be wrong is now right, and vice versa. If it's right now to destroy the little pigs to bring back the farmer's prosperity and to plow up the planted cotton to aid the cotton planter then maybe it would be all right to turn in "The melancholy days have come" as original poetry.

Thomas Temple Hoyne started this yesterday when he brought in a copy of a book he published last year, "Where Are We Going," and which was for a time a nonfiction best seller in Chicago.

"It isn't that I think I had such a brilliant idea," says Tommy, who modestly says the ideas presented in his

STOCKS RESIST DROP IN WHEAT, RISE OF DOLLAR

Changes Narrow; Close Irregular.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 28.—Stocks posted small changes on both sides of the line today in a session that was rather interesting in spots. After an irregular opening the market gave signs of a bullish impulse but was forced to spend the day bucking the effects of a drooping wheat market and a sharp rise in the dollar.

A steady close left a mixture of small gains and losses, with rails and motors and some of the speculative favorites faring best. Closing quotations for the most part were at or near the best of the day. Turnover was 2,124,000 shares.

Buying Orders Support Market.

That the market was able to bear up against poor wheat and other commodity markets, and in the face of a rebound in the dollar, which put a damper on inflation talk, was due largely to a steady flow of buying from sources convinced that the trend is still on the upside. The market turned dull on the reactions and moderate losses were largely recouped in a last hour rally.

Confidence in the market was seen in a general inclination to buy on the moderate setbacks by traders who expect that seasonal influences will exert themselves soon to stimulate further expansion in business activity. A cautiously constructive attitude characterized trading.

The most cheering performance was made by leading motor shares, which forged ahead to new highs for the year on a heavy volume of trading.

Chrysler was given another hard play, but after hitting a new 1933 peak

-even Lincoln Packard Cadillac owners appreciate this Economy

Cook County standard rates for Public Liability ($5,000-$10,000 limits) and Property Damage ($5,000 limits) are $54.00 for Lincolns, Packards and Cadillacs. But, through the annual dividend of 25% of the automobile premium, (paid each year for twenty consecutive years) policyholders in the Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Company have saved $13.50 a year—with proportionate savings on fire, theft and collision coverage through this organization.

Moreover, while receiving this dividend they enjoyed the soundest of protection. The "L-M-C," with assets of over $16,000,000, is noted for its conservatism in underwriting and investing.

Whether you drive a Ford or a Lincoln, a Chevrolet or a Cadillac, learn the details of this dividend saving plan. Mail the coupon today for complete information.

AN OPEN LETTER TO The President of ARMOUR AND COMPANY

Dear Mr. Lee:

I have owned 1,000 shares of Class "A" Voting Trust Certificates of Armour and Company since 1925 and, therefore, feel that I have the right to address this letter to you.

In a carefully prepared statement which you gave to the press, you attempted to divert the attention of your stockholders from the merits of the proposed reorganization of the Armour capital structure, by charging that a certain eastern banker is back of the opposition to this plan and by making insinuations about certain members of the Stockholders' Advisory Committee. This is an old trick when the real issues cannot be met fairly and squarely. But as you have introduced into this fight the question of banker control of Armour and Company, I now desire to ask you certain questions on this point. Your stockholders are entitled to know from you, as their President, and it is your solemn duty to inform them, what the facts are as to the present banker dictation.

1. What salaries, commissions and bonuses have been paid by Armour and Company and/or subsidiaries during the last five years to A. H. Wiggin, Samuel McRoberts and Arthur Reynolds, banker directors of Armour and Company and voting trustees of "A" and "B" stock?

(a) Is it not a fact that these three bankers were each paid the sum of $100,000.00 annually to act as Voting Trustees of the "A" and "B" common stock, when all they had to do was to meet once a year and vote this stock?

(b) This Voting Trust Agreement expired February 16, 1930, and I wish to know what, if anything, has been paid these three bankers to act as Voting Trustees since the expiration of this agreement and, if they are being paid anything, what is the justification for making any payment whatever to them on an expired contract.

2. Is it not a fact that these three Armour bankers, together with the President and Treasurer of Armour and Company and other so-called key men or "pets" of Armour and Company, have from time to time, and on a large scale, manipulated the Armour stock on the market?

(a) Is it not a fact that shortly after the "A" and "B" common stock was brought out, these three bankers and certain officers and key men in Armour and Company, including the President and Treasurer, formed a pool to purchase a large amount of this stock at a low price; that they then, by a typical Wall Street pool operation with the incidental "window dressing" advanced its price to practically $30.00 per share and then unloaded the stock on the investing public? Is it not true that the members of the pool made several millions of dollars themselves and left the investing public, including many of the present stockholders, of whom I am one, to suffer millions in losses?

(b) Will you state to your stockholders the names of the members of that pool and the amount of profit which each member made in such operations?

3. To what extent has Armour and Company, through its present management, participated in the recent movement of the stock market and how much have the different officers of the Company made in such transactions?

4. The financial statements of the Company in the past three years show that it has used a vast sum of its own money to purchase its own securities and those of its subsidiaries, although paying no dividends whatever to its stockholders during this time. I should like to know what amount of these purchases were actually required and what amounts were purchased at the expense of not paying dividends to the stockholders.

5. Is it not true that, because of your continued issuance of securities, the bankers who are now dictating the policies of Armour and Company cannot find room in the capital structure for another issue unless the preferred stock is eliminated and the amount of common is substantially reduced so that there will be only one class of stock? Is it not true that if your recapitalization scheme is adopted, the Company can at will put out another issue of preferred stock, to the great profit of the bankers, thereby making it practically impossible for any of the present preferred or class "A" or "B" stockholders ever to receive dividends?

6. If this is not the object of the proposed merger of this little butterine company (Armour Provision Company) with Armour and Company, will you please tell your stockholders just why this merger is necessary?

7. Inasmuch as it has now been demonstrated that the management was working on this scheme before the present Business Corporation Act of Illinois became a law, and that it was your intention to bring about this merger under this law, then I ask you, as a matter of good faith and good conscience, why you did not explain to your stockholders, as was your plain moral duty, that they had the right to demand the fair value of their stock?

8. Will you state the amount of money belonging in equity to the stockholders, which has been expended by Armour and Company in an effort to put through the proposed reorganization?

(a) In this connection, how can you justify using the employes of Armour and Company throughout the United States to make a diligent campaign in behalf of this reorganization, when they are being paid to handle the regular normal business of the Company?

Mr. Lee, in asking you these questions, it is not my purpose to indulge in any baseless insinuations, as you have done in your campaign for proxies; but the stockholders want facts and you are now given the opportunity to step out into the sunlight of truth and give them the controlling facts concerning this proposed reorganization of Armour and Company. The stockholders are waiting for your reply and they are entitled to, and expect, answers that are direct and positive and not evasive.

Yours very truly,

ALEXANDER BERGER,
Member, Stockholders Advisory Committee.

WESTINGHOUSE JULY SALES ARE BEST IN HISTORY

And August Runs 15% Over Preceding Month.

Present indications are that sales of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company in August will be about 15 per cent above July, according to N. G. Symonds, vice president in charge of sales. This is in direct contrast to the ordinary seasonal trend, but continues the improvement which was first evidenced in January. Sales last month were the best in any July in the company's history.

Mr. Symonds said that the company will report bookings of approximately $20,000,000 for the third quarter of this year, about $2,500,000 more than the second quarter total and a better than 50 per cent increase over results for the third quarter of 1932.

Most Sales for Cash.

Refrigerator factories, he said, have been at peak production for weeks in an effort to catch up with the demand. Sales are now mostly for cash, much of which was hoarded prior to being used to purchase a "frozen asset." During the summer months some currency received was actually mildewed. Installment sales dropped from 85 to 35 per cent at one time, although installment and cash sales are currently running just about even.

Westinghouse operates under the electrical industry code, which went into effect on Aug. 15. Since operation under the NRA code will eliminate price cutting and unethical commercial practices which have been used by some merchandising enterprises, said Mr. Symonds, a higher standard of salesmanship will be necessary. With the advent of the new fiscal year, when budgets are recast, there will have to be increases in advertising schedules, he said.

Expects More Air Conditioning.

When asked about air conditioning Mr. Symonds said that he believed this was only awaiting a more complete return of prosperity to become one of the country's major industries.

N. G. Symonds is in Chicago to preside over a meeting of 250 retail salesmen of Westinghouse refrigererators who are celebrating the enormous increase in business this year and considering methods of holding and increasing their gains. There will be a "victory breakfast" at 7 o'clock this morning.

BANKS REVERSE RESERVE UNITS CREDIT POLICY

While the federal government, acting through the federal reserve banks, is forcing credit inflation by having these central banks buy more government bonds the commercial banks of the nation are reducing their outstanding credit.

Total loans and investments of member banks in 90 principal cities dropped 103 millions in the week ended Aug. 23, according to figures released by the reserve board yesterday. Reductions of 20 millions in commercial loans, 58 millions in loans on securities and 31 millions in holdings of U. S. government bonds were reported by these leading banks. Their investments in securities other than government bonds were up 6 millions for the week.

Banks Sell, Reserve Buys.

Thus, the attempt by the treasury to inflate credit by having the reserve banks buy 35 millions of government bonds during the last week was largely nullified by the sale of 31 millions of "governments" by the member banks. It would appear that the government bonds were simply changing hands.

The results, therefore, of the treasury's credit inflation drive are still being postponed.

One reason for the reduction of the holdings of government bonds by the member banks—and, also, the shrinkage of their loans—has been the decline in their deposits. This decline has been due largely to the banking act of 1933 which prohibits payment by banks of interest on demand deposits. Gross deposits of the reporting member banks dropped an indicated 36 millions last week.

Banks Seek Liquidity.

There is, however, another important reason for the shrinkage of bank credit. Banks throughout the country are still striving for liquidity. Last winter they wanted to be liquid in order to be able to meet extraordinary demands of withdrawing depositors.

Now they are striving for liquidity so that they may avoid losses that they might sustain on fixed income bearing investments and long term loans if inflation should come along and depreciate the currency in which these commitments would be repaid. Conversely, a high degree of liquidity will put them in a position to benefit by inflation, when, as and if it arrives.

Securities Act Strains Credit.

However, the fact that bank loans and deposits have not immediately begun to rise with the increase in business activity is, according to bankers, a normal development. Credit expansion, they say, always appears after the recovery has got under way, not before.

Furthermore, many bankers say, the unsatisfied demand for credit, about which so much is heard, is not really a demand for bank credit at all, but a demand for capital, which ought to be satisfied in the capital market for new security issues. The reason it is not being satisfied there, they contend, is largely due to the restrictions imposed by the new securities act which has made directors of many corporations afraid to offer securities because of the heavy responsibilities put upon them.

Montgomery Ward & Co's. loss for the six months ended July 31, 1933, was $3,478,932, which compares with loss of $3,588,124 for the corresponding 1932 period. Comparison of second quarter results indicates greater improvement. Loss for the second quarter was $1,282,884, against loss of $1,882,555 for the three months to July 31, 1932.

All merchandise is carried at the lowest of cost or market and the figures reported exclude inventory profits. The management said: "The showing should be interpreted in the light of the active general reconstruction through which the company is moving."

FARMERS SWAMP U. S. WITH PIGS TO GAIN BONUS

Ignore Packers' Pleas to Reduce Shipments.

Farmers yesterday ignored the government's plea to hold back shipments of pigs at the various centers, which are glutted with enough to keep the packers working at capacity until the middle of next week. They dumped thousands of more pigs at every point in the country where packers are authorized to buy for account of the government.

Even a threat to withhold the bonus failed to stem the flow. Six more markets were open for pig killing Saturday and 40 started on the plan yesterday in an effort to relieve pressure on points where the yards are glutted with pigs. In all, there now are 58 such markets and plans are being made to open additional markets immediately.

Can't Handle Condemned Pigs.

One of the difficulties at the smaller points, where most congestion is found, is in the shortage of vats in which the pings are tanked. As fully 85 per cent of the pigs are condemned to the tank, those arriving after these tanks are full must remain in the pens at the expense of the farmer until room can be made for them.

During the five days that the government has been killing pigs, fourteen of the leading points have received 535,000. Estimates placed the total for the entire country above 600,000 head, or 15 per cent of what the government intends to buy before Oct. 1. Some packers predict that the government will have the 4,000,000 pigs in its posession within three weeks.

Piggy Sows Held Back.

Few packers expect to see the quota of piggy sows filled. Thus far the movement has been about 45 pigs to every piggy sow. The ratio was expected to be 4 to 1. Farmers coming on the market say that the bonus offered for piggy sows is not great enough to pull in a total of 1,000,000 before Oct. 1. Stock yards experts say the quota of piggy sows will fall considerably short of the million mark.

This, however, may be changed by a report from Washington yesterday that the farm administrators were considering a boost in their $4 premium for sows about to farrow. Chester Davis, director of production, admitted a boost was being considered to bring in more of the potential mother pigs, but declined to indicate how much the bonus might be increased.

Statisticians yesterday estimated that the pigs already bought cost the government in the neighborhood of $2,700,000, not including what will be paid packers for doing the job and what it will cost to distribute the meat. Approximately 12,000 sows have been slaughtered at a cost of $180,000.

Pigs Cleared at Chicago.

While the smaller markets were almost crippled by the avalanche of pigs again today, augmented by the 170,000 carried over from last week, several of the big markets were operating in much better form. All pigs received at Chicago have been cleared away and marketing here has become more orderly.

The Chicago Live Stock exchange has instructed its members that they must have a permit before they allow farmer customers to ship pigs. This arrangement has relieved the congestion at the Chicago yards.

BUTTER CLOSES LOWER

Butter and egg futures primarily were steady in a dull session on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, butter closing ¼c lower and eggs unchanged. Butter opened steady, gained slightly later on scattered buying and dropped back under moderate selling near the close. Bearish news caused caution on the buying side, the four markets storing 700,000 lbs. more than last year. Announcements from Washington also caused uncertainty, the latest report casting further doubt as to what, if anything, is to be done with the fund set aside to help the dairy farmer. Egg news was favorable but the market was in a waiting state. The four markets moved out 4,700 cases more than last year, but buying was only fair. Sales: Butter, 57 cars; eggs, 90 cars. Deliveries: Butter 1 car. Prices follow:

Foreign Harvest Offsets Reduction Here.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 28.—The world supply of all growths of cotton for this season promises to be approximately 1,259,000 bales less than the supply of last season, according to the New York Cotton Exchange service. The indicated world supply this season is 39,407,000 bales, which compares with 40,666,000 last season, and 40,481,000 two seasons ago.

The indicated supply of American cotton promises to be smaller this season that last season, but the supply of foreign cottons is expected to be larger, the exchange service states. Supply of American cotton for this season is put at 24,253,000 bales as against 26,184,000 last year, a decrease of 1,931,000.

Foreign Cotton Increases.

Supply of foreign cotton is estimated at 15,154,000 this season against 14,482,000 last season, an increase of 672,000. Prospective increase in the supply of foreign cottons is due to the expectation of a larger foreign crop than last season.

American cotton is moving from farmers to markets and from markets to domestic and foreign mills at a materially higher rate than at this time last year and at a much higher rate than two years ago, according to exchange service.

Using More Cotton.

All principal divisions of the world spinning industry except the Orient have taken considerably more American cotton since the first of August, when the new season started, than in the corresponding weeks last year.

In consequence of the reduced carryover from last season and the relatively small crop this year the supplies available for later forwarding are materially less than a year ago and are much less than two years ago.

COTTON PRICES ERRATIC; CLOSE IS SLIGHTLY LOWER

Cotton markets were largely of professional character, with a moderate amount of business and a lower price range. A drop of 15 to 17 points occurred early in the day, due to professional selling. Part of the early loss was regained, and in the afternoon the market ran into another selling movement, which carried prices well down to the lowest of the day and made a finish of 2 to 6 points net lower on futures in Chicago and 4 to 10 points lower in other markets.

Spots in New Orleans dropped 10 points to 9.45 cents, while New York gained 5 points at 9.65 cents; Galveston was at 9.40 cents and Houston 9.45 cents, both being 5 points lower. Liverpool closed 2 points net lower. Prices follow:

LARD PRICES DECLINE; DEMAND ABOUT AVERAGE

Heavy receipts and lower prices on other commodities, combined with the uncertain condition created by government action in the hog market, created an unsettled and uneasy feeling which brought selling of lard futures in sufficient volume to lower prices 7½ to 15 cents, with the close around the bottom. Bellies were off 17½ to 20 cents.

Cash lard prices were 12½ cents lower on regular at $5.67½ cents, and unchanged for other lard at $5.25 for loose and leaf. Cash bellies were unchanged at $6.25.

WHAT FARMER SELLS GOES DOWN, WHAT HE BUYS RISES IN MONTH

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—(AP)—After mounting steadily month by month since March, farm purchasing power received a sharp setback between July 15 and Aug. 15, the opening of harvest seasons for many crops.

The bureau of agricultural economics reported today that purchasing power of farmers as of Aug. 15 was 64 per cent of the average for the pre-war period, 1909 to 1914. In June it was 62 per cent, then moved up steadily to 71 per cent of pre-war on July 15.

There were two reasons. Prices of products farmers sell fell, while the cost of the materials they most commonly buy went up, the latter reaching a point on Aug. 15 where they averaged 12 per cent over pre-war prices.

Using the figure 100 to represent pre-war prices, the bureau's index showed farm prices on Aug. 15 as 72, compared with 76 on July 15 and 64 on June 15. The prices of materials farmers buy was 103 on June 15, or three points over pre-war. This moved to 107 on July 15 and reached 112 on Aug. 15.

As of mid-August the bureau reckoned the farm price of wheat at 74.7 cents a bushel compared with the pre-war average of 88.4; cotton as 8.8 cents a pound, compared with 12.4; corn 48.8 cents a bushel, compared with 64.2; hogs at $3.79 per hundredweight, against $7.24; beef cattle, $3.79 per hundredweight, against $5.20, and lambs, $5.26 per hundredweight, against $5.90.

CATTLE, LAMBS GO LOWER; HOGS RESIST DECLINE

All live stock dipped lower at the close yesterday, cattle and lambs vieing for first place on the way down.

Hogs dragged slowly after a slightly stronger opening, with the finish unevenly 5 to 15 cents under the average market of last Friday. Prices were steady to strong with Saturday and in places as much as 5 to 10 cents above the low point of that day.

Receipts were estimated at 45,000, but 20,000 of them were pigs intended for the government and 11,000 were directs billed to the packers from country points. A comparatively small Monday supply remained for sale. However, packing houses again were busy killing pigs for the government and gave little attention to the regular hog market until late in the day.

Lighter Weights in Demand.

Order buyers and smaller city inspected houses carried fairly large orders for the better grades of 235 pound averages and lighter weights. The most action and early strength were confined to these classes. After these orders had been filled trading came almost to a standstill for a time. Before the finish, however, there was a good cleanup at the reduction in prices.

The run of 19,000 cattle proved far more than the trade could stand and prices dropped 25 cents at the start, with the clearance very slow on this basis the remainder of the session. Indications near the close were that a liberal carryover was in prospect for today's trade, including many loads of well fattened steers and yearlings exceeding 800 pounds in weight.

Light Cattle Lose Least.

On the other hand, light cattle in good flesh were comparatively scarce and those selling at $5.25 and under suffered least on the decline. Nebraska yearlings averaging 976 pounds and 1,304 pound long fed steers topped the market to Swift at $7.00. They were intended for eastern shipment. The bulk of the day's cattle receipts landed in the price range of $5.25 to $6.50. About 2,500 western grassy cattle were on the market, the largest run of westerns this season. The bulk of the supply consisted of stockers and feeders and old she stock culled from the range herds. Most sales were made at $4 and under, or 25 to 40 cents lower than a week ago. Top quotations for good fat range steers were maintained at $5 to $5.25, although nothing good enough to put these prices to a test arrived in yesterday's large shipments.

Lambs Decline Sharply.

Lambs went down fully 25 cents under heavier sorting yesterday. There was a heavy movement from the range states, but a bigger share was feeder flesh, necessitating heavy sorts that in some strings ran up to 50 per cent and more.

Tops from the westerns sold to packers late in the afternoon at $6.25 to $6.60. Closely sorted natives reached $6.75, while a few to city butchers brought $7.00.

"BLONDE TIGRESS" AND TWO CODEFENDANTS PLACED ON TRIAL FOR MURDER; FAIL TO WIN DELAY. Scene in the courtroom of Chief Justice Prystalski yesterday as the judge (on bench at right) was assigning case to Judge Finnegan after change of venue had been granted by Judge Kavanagh. Mrs. Eleanor Jarman, the "tigress," accused with George Dale and Leo Minneci in the killing of Gustav Hoeh, store owner, is in the foreground at the left. (Story on page 1.)

[TRIBUNE Photos.]
